—IS GIVEN FIRST IN—THE TRIBUNE.

VOL. XXXXIII. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY EVENING, MAY 3, 1897. NO. 99.

THE WHITE FLAG IS FLYING.

Edhem Pasha Said to Have Sent a Flag of Truce Suggesting an Armistice for Five Days.

THE TURKS ARE SATISFIED

EVIDENCES OF THE END

King George's Troops Said to Be Abandoning Pharsalos.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LONDON, May 3.—Adispatch from Athens announces that Edhem Pasha has sent an officer with a flag of truce to Greek headquarters asking an armistice of five days. Another dispatch says it is again reported that 200 Bulgarian irregulars have crossed the frontier of Macedonia.

NEARING THE END.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 3.—In influential Turkish circles the opinion is expressed that the war with Greece will soon terminate.

It is pointed out that while Turkey was forced into war by Greek aggression and the counsels of certain Powers, she will not gain any advantage by crushing Greece for the benefit of the Slav element in the Balkans. It is held that the successes attained by the Turkish troops in Greece are all the Turkish Government could desire.

It is officially reiterated that the reports of Turkish reverses at Velestino are unfounded.

The Landsturm or Mustahfuse (second reserve) belonging to the third army corps stationed in the Salonica district has been called out.

THE FEELING AT ATHENS.

ATHENS, May 3.—The diplomatic situation may be summed up as follows.

No request for mediation has been or will be addressed by Greece to the Powers until the Ministers of War and Marine report upon the state of the Greek officers at Pharsalos and elsewhere. The Powers have not offered mediation, although they do not conceal the fact that a request for intervention will be highly acceptable to them.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Skoulodis says the military situation is greatly improved at both Epirus and Thessaly and that the victory of the Greeks over the Turks at Velestino was brilliant.

ADMIRALS ARE ACTING.

CANDIA, CRETE, May 3.—The Admirals commanding the fleet of the foreign Powers in Cretan waters had a conference yesterday with the Insurgent leaders at Paleikastro.

The Cretans were promised complete autonomy, including a condition that the nomination of their ruler should be subject to ratification by the Cretan Assembly.

Insurgent leaders, however, cut the discussion short and reiterated that their motto remained, "Annexation to Greece or death."

FIGURING ON GOING.

CANEA, Crete, May 3.—There are renewed reports here today that the Greek troops are about to withdraw from Crete.

LEAVING PHARSALOS.

PARIS, May 3.—Telegrams from Constantinople today confirm the reports that the Greeks are leaving Pharsalos retiring on Domokos. The Greek troops according to Constantinope advices are also evacuating Arta.

An Athens dispatch to the Figaro asserts that King George is suffering from a cardiacal strain and his physician insists on a change of air to the Isand of Milo or Syria is necessary.

A Big Smash-Up.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., May 3.—Upon application of the Croton Limestone Company, Judge Wallace appointed Edwin N. Ohl and William Reis receivers of the big Atlantic Iron and Steel Company, which owns the Atlantic furnaces and rolling mill in this city and has loased the works of Sharon & Greenville.

DR. SMALL RESIGNS.

Another Complication Occurs in the Board of Health.

It was expected that a meeting of the Board of Health would be held this afternoon, but Dr. Rucker was out of town and the members could not be notified. Interested persons were around the Health Office all day but none of the members of the Board showed up.

To complicate matters still further, Dr. Small last night sent in his resignation to the Mayor.

A rumor is current that the doctor and the Mayor had a stormy interview just before the resignation was sent. The resignation was sent through the mails.

There will probably be another fight in appointing Dr. Small's successor.

To finally settle the question as to the legality of the meeting held Saturday, Secretary Schafer secured the opinion of City Attorney Dow to the effect that the meeting was illegal.

If Dr. Rucker returns this evening there will be a meeting then. Otherwise it will have to be postponed till tomorrow.

A BANK CLOSES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, May 3.—A special to the Times from Aspen, Colorado, says: The banking house of the J. B. Wheeler Banking Company failed to open today.

The following notice was posted: "This bank is closed and in my possession. W. L. McNair, assignee for the benefit of creditors."

Up to 1 o'clock no statement of the assets or liabilities could be obtained.

The company's bank at Manitou also closed today.

SHE ASKS FOR ALIMONY.

Louella Partensoky's Case Up Before Judge Greene.

The Husband Says He Is Too Poor to Pay for Her Support.

The suit of Lowella Clark Partensoky against Charles Partensoky, for a divorce, came up before Judge Greene this morning on a motion for alimony.

The couple were married on November 26, 1896, and lived together for just a month, when the wife suddenly became insane and was committed to Agnews Asylum. She remained there four weeks, when she was discharged as cured. However, on her return, she found no home, and the wife went to live with her sister.

Partensoky declared he was not able to support his wife. He works for Senator Bill Denison at the pier.

The history of the family was pretty extensively gone into, and it developed that Partensoky has to contribute to the support of his mother out of his small salary.

The hearing was continued until the end of the month, when it will be further ascertained whether the husband can afford the wife alimony.

Attorney W. H. Schooler, who represented the wife, objected to Judge Greene questioning a witness and suggested to the court that he (the attorney) had better put the queries, as he said he could bring the desired information out more quickly. Judge Greene administered a mild rebuke to the lawyer and later had occasion to warn him against asking leading questions.

FRACTURED HIS HIP.

Fireman Secotte Is Injured in a West Oakland Blaze.

Shortly before noon-time a fire broke out at the home of F. A. McDonald, 1668 Williams street. The damage done was but slight, a portion of the roof only being burned. The conflagration was due to the sparks from a neighboring chimney.

Roger J. Secotte, a member of Engine Company No. 3 received a painful but not serious injury in attempting to reach the roof. Secotte slipped and fell about twenty feet to the ground, receiving a fracture of the hip.

A DAY OF MOURNING

Sympathizing Friends Gather to Pay a Last Tribute.

TWO BRIGHT LIVES CLOSED

BOTH LADS WERE POPULAR

A Pleasure Trip on the Lake That Had a Fatal Termination.

This afternoon the remains of two promising little boys, Emil Nusbaumer Jr. and Edward Tubbs Hall, were laid in early graves in Mountain View, leaving a void in the homes of two leading families of the city.

The boys were the victims of drowning in Lake Merritt last Saturday evening, the sad news of which has caused a feeling of wide-spread sympathy for the bereaved parents.

Young Hall was the son of Edward M. Hall, secretary of the Amador Marble Company, a nephew of Justice Henshaw of the Supreme Court of this State and W. G. Henshaw, vice-president of the Union Savings Bank, and a grandson of Hiram Tubbs, the well-known capitalist of East Oakland.

Young Nusbaumer was the son of Emil Nusbaumer, ex-Justice of the Peace, known all over the State as a successful practitioner in the legal profession and a member of the well known law firm of Reed & Nusbaumer.

Both the boys were schoolmates, each attending the Franklin school.

Their bodies disappeared beneath the surface of the lake about 4 o'clock and, in a few minutes, the awful story of their death was in circulation throughout the city.

Toward evening, it was apparent that the unfortunate lads were Masters Nusbaumer and Hall, and, as a consequence, a number of people flocked to the scene and speculated as to where the bodies of the boys had disappeared.

Residents in the neighborhood who had first heard of the unfortunate occurrence, jumped into boats, and put out into the lake with a hope of recovering the remains. They worked unavailingly, however, from evening until 11:30 o'clock at night, using heavy lines with hooks attached, grappling irons and even garden rakes. There were, at times, a dozen boats engaged in the attempt to recover the remains, but at the hour mentioned, owing to the lack of light, adequate means of grappling with the hidden corpses, the search was abandoned until yesterday morning, with the understanding that at early hour, dynamite would be used for the purpose of trying to force the bodies to the surface. At the same time the draining of the lake was begun under the direction of Superintendent of Streets Miller.

The determination to use dynamite was later set aside, but at an early hour yesterday morning, the search for the remains was resumed, and continued unremittingly until the unfortunate little boys were taken from their watery grave.

The bodies were found north off Eighteenth street and about an eighth of a mile from the eastern shore of the lake. The remains of young Nusbaumer were first brought to the surface. They were discovered by Winfield Birmingham, a young classmate of the poor boy. Birmingham was in a boat with Louis Price and Thomas Deasy, whose residence commands a view of the lake, and is the nearest to the scene of the unfortunate accident.

Birmingham was dragging the bottom of the lake with a large rake, and succeeded in getting a fair hold of the remains with the implement, and bringing them to the surface.

As soon as the body of Nusbaumer appeared, the people who were working in the other boats drew near to the place of the find, knowing that it must be in that locality that the remains of young Hall would be found.

Down went the rakes, hooks and grappling irons from all the boats and, in a few minutes, County Clerk Frank Jordan succeeded in catching the remains of young Hall and bringing them to the surface. At the time of the discovery, Mr. Jordan was accompanied in his boat by A. A. Moore Jr.

The recovery of the two bodies brought the search to an end shortly after 5 o'clock in the morning, and the work had been undertaken nearly an hour before that time.

The remains were then tenderly borne to the Kendall boat house, where already a number of distinguished friends of the bereaved families had gathered. Among them were Judge Henshaw, W. G. Henshaw, uncles of Eddie Hall and County Surveyor Geo. Nusbaumer an uncle of the other victim.

The bodies were then placed in receptacles and borne to undertaker establishments, the body of young Nusbaumer to the place of Henry Evers on Washington street and that of Hall going to Brown.

There they were given ablutions and clothed in a neat manner and were then taken to the homes of their parents respectively, the home of Hall being at the corner of Fifth avenue and East Fifteenth street and that of Nusbaumer being at 1303 Sixth avenue.

The home-coming was a sorrowful relief of the suspense which the par-

CLARKE ON THE STAND

Senator Fair's Valet Subjected to Lively Cross Firing.

THE CRAVEN CASE GOES ON

Captain Blethen, Well Known in Maritime Circles, Is Dead.

THE DAY ON THE COAST

Los Angeles Suffers From a Very Lively Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—The testimony against the authenticity of the so-called Craven deeds was resumed before Judge Slack and his advisory jury this morning, after a rest of three days.

When court rose at the time stated Herbert Clarke, the faithful valet of Senator Fair was on the stand and was being subjected to a cannonade from the explosive Mr. Foote. A wondrous deal of stress was laid upon the fact that there had been six months of Clarke's career, during which he had not waited upon Senator Fair, despite the fact that the Senator was living. But it amounted to little; the cross examination did not alter the story which he told in direct examination, a repetition of his narrative during the preliminary examination of ex-Notary Cooney before Judge Carroll Cook a few weeks ago.

This morning Mr. Foote resumed his attack upon Herbert Clarke. The ranks of the defense were swelled by the presence of Colonel S. M. Shortridge, who put in the time pending the resumption of his defense of Editor Fred Marriott in the afternoon. Mrs. Craven and her pretty daughter were present, of course, and the old familiar faces were noticeable in the courtroom. Judge Slack was fortunnate enough to secure the use of the assembly chamber of the Board of Supervisors; consequently, everybody was cool and comfortable.

Mr. Foote was desirous of extracting from the witness Clarke this morning the admission that since Senator Fair's death he had been in the employ of the heirs and administrators. Clarke was willing enough to admit that fact. Mr. Foote appeared to be driving at the conclusion that as Clarke was in the heirs' employ he should have informed them that the pencil will, which they had offered for probate, could not possibly be genuine, since he had been in the Senator's company at San Rafael on September 24th, 1894, the day on which Fair is alleged to have executed the document and at the same time to have transferred to Mrs. Craven the property she now claims.

THE LORING AFFAIR.

Her Husband Held to Answer on the Facts Presented.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—An inquest was held today in the case of Mrs. Mary Loring, who died under circumstances that led to the arrest of her husband, Robert Loring.

The woman had made an ante-mortem statement that her fatal injuries were caused by a beating inflicted by her husband, who desired to kill her unborn child.

The jury today returned a verdict in accordance with these facts.

too poor to buy Pure Food?

If your food is pure, you don't have to use so much.

For example: if you have been paying 5 or 10 cents for a 2-oz. bottle of extracts, Schilling's Best 2-oz. bottle contains 40 times as much flavor (and better) as the extracts you have been buying.

If your cheap extracts are worth 5 or 10 cents, Schilling's Best is worth $2 or $4; but Schilling's Best is only 25 cents.

THE SENATE.

A Lot of Important Business Accumulates on the Files.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—After a recess covering practically ten days, the Senate met today with a large accumulation of routine business, and several important questions, including the Morgan Cuban resolution, awaiting attention.

The attendance was unusually large.

Among the bills introduced was one by Chandler of New Hampshire for the issue of certificates of indebtedness up to $50,000,000 to meet deficiencies in the revenues. Referred to Finance Committee.

A resolution by Pettus of Alabama was agreed to, asking the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to the amounts paid as drawbacks during the last ten years.

Vest's resolution directing the Committee on Commerce to investigate and report on the causes of the Mississippi floods was favorably reported from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, Gallinger of New Hampshire stating that it would be called up tomorrow.

The Cuban resolution was called up by Morgan, who asked for a vote.

Hale of Maine, just returned after an extended absence, desired time to prepare his remarks. He assured Morgan that there was no purpose to delay the resolution for the mere sake of delay. After proper debate, he said, it would be voted on, as he was as anxious as any one to have the resolution disposed of.

Morgan endeavored to have a day fixed for the vote, but there was objection.

Later, in open session, Tillman of South Carolina and Morgan of Alabama had a spirited debate. Tillman declared the proposition by Morgan to give public land to States was a plan to "gobble" public domain.

Morgan warmly resented the statement, saying he was not amenable to the rules applying to gobblers.

Tillman also referred to stealing lands of one State for the use of another.

Morgan protested against the words "gobbling" and stealing," and said it was the first time in his service in the Senate that he had been taken off the floor by interruptions personally offensive.

HILL TO BE BAPTIZED.

The Ceremony Will Be in the Jail Tomorrow Afternoon.

DR. KUMMER TO OFFICIATE

Total Immersion Was Desired but Accommodations Are Lacking.

THE MURDERER IS GRIEVED

He Is No Longer Allowed to Use a Razor on His Face.

Wife Murderer Benjamin Hill, who is now in the County Jail awaiting the date when on the gallows he will expiate his brutal crime, will be baptized into the Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. Alfred Kummer will perform the ceremony, and a number of the ladies of the church will be present, together with the prisoners. It is probable that the baptism will be of the sprinkling order, for, though the prisoner would desire to be immersed, still the jail is not supplied with the latest improvements in the nature of a baptismal. The jailers stand ready to allow the use of an ordinary bath tub for the purpose, but this will hardly answer, for Hill has grown very stout since his confinement.

A. B. Deming, one of the murderer's former spiritual advisers, has urged him to be immersed in accordance with the full letter of the Scripture, but as the Methodist faith allows either mode, the sprinkling is the most convenient just at present.

Of late, Hill has apparently been devoutly religious. His keepers believe him sincere, for he continually preaches the gospel to the prisoners, while his letters to friends are replete with Scriptural admonitions.

Yesterday a number of ladies visited Hill and C. R. Bennett. They held a prayer service throughout the best part of the day, and at its conclusion Hill was urged to be baptized. This he consented to. The Sheriff was asked whether he would allow the ceremony, and acquiesced, providing a satisfactory clergyman did the work.

Dr. Kummer was agreed upon, and today the reverend gentleman called at the jail. He had a long talk with the murderer, and evidently a satisfactory one, for the details of the service were arranged.

The prisoner still maintains indifference as to his fate. He says he does not care whether he is hung or not, but says he would prefer to have a life sentence, solely so that he may work among the convicts.

In speaking of his recent religious desires, he said: "The reason I am to be baptized is because I believe the Lord desires it. He has so stated in the Word, and as I am a Christian I intend to obey the command. If the Lord wills, I am ready to be hanged at any time, but if not, I shall devote my life to trying to save the souls of the unfortunates in the prisons."

The remittatur from the Supreme Court, which refused to grant the condemned man a new trial, has not yet been received by Judge Ogden. It is expected daily, and as soon as it arrives the date of execution will be set.

As it appears certain that Hill will hang, a closer watch is being kept over him at the County Jail. He has heretofore been allowed the use of a razor with which to shave himself. This privilege has now been denied.

Saturday was shaving day at the jail, and for the first time a razor was refused him, because it might prove a dangerous tool in the hands of a determined prisoner over whom the death penalty hangs.

Hill assumed an indignant air and allowed his temper to give vent in some uncomplimentary remarks. Then he lapsed into a moody state. This is the first real evidence the man has received that his days are numbered. It was a small matter, but it affected him considerably.

As a consequence, Hill will allow his beard to grow, for he will not have any one else shave him.

Attorney Bradley is still trying to do something in his behalf, and as soon as the date of execution is fixed he will apply to the Governor for a commutation or sentence. Meantime some of the religious ladies are circulating a petition in the murderer's behalf.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.

Fred Kohler, who is known to the police as a member of the "Sporting Life Gang," was found guilty today of disturbing the peace by fighting with a lot of negroes several weeks ago, and ordered to appear tomorrow for sentence.

Josie Harper, charged with selling liquor without a license, will be tried tomorrow, and Fred Fonzo, charged with selling liquor after 12 o'clock will plead.

Joe Gray, charged with battery by George M. Smith, will be tried tomorrow.

ALL DELAYS ARE NOW ENDED

MUCH PUBLIC SPIRIT SHOWN

The Tunnel Route Satisfactory to Our Sister County.

MARTINEZ, May 3.—A joint committee of the Board of Trade comprising Joseph E. Johnston, Edson Adams, E. E. Bunce and members of the Merchants' Exchange comprising D. C. Brown, J. S. Wisson, G. S. Reed, J. F. W. Sohst, F. M. Farwell and Judge Pringle of Oakland arrived here today and held a conference with the Supervisors of Contra Costa County regarding the completion of the tunnel road between Contra Costa and Alameda County.

All the gentlemen mentioned spoke on the subject, showing that the road in question would jointly result as a benefit to this county and Alameda County.

The full Board of Supervisors was present as were also many of the leading citizens of Martinez.

In behalf of this side speeches were made by ex-Supervisor Stowe, Vincent Hook, Charles Swett and Peter Thompson. All these favored the immediate completion of the road.

The strongest speech was that of Hook who stated in effect that Oakland was the city to which Martinez was tributary.

"It is our city," he said, "the city that we must stand by. We must not see it throttled. San Francisco on the other side of the bay is doing her best to divert trade from Oakland and when she does that she injures us. This road should be built to Oakland. I was born here 42 years ago. For thirty-nine years we have been talking of building the road; now let us build it and the people will give every assistance."

The chairman stated that a majority of the board was in favor of the project and announced that during the recess a conference would be held as to the best means of raising money with which to perform Contra Costa County's share of the work.

SPRINTER CRUM IS DEAD.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 3.—John V. Crum, the famous sprinter, died after an operation for appendicitis.

SHE LOVED AN ACTOR.

She Was Taken From Her Lover and Detained a While in Jail.

Miss Bertha Holmes, a 15 year old mulatto girl, was escorted Saturday afternoon to the City Prison to await the arrival of her parents, who have sought far and wide for their daughter during the past two days.

Miss Holmes is quite a belle in the colored church circles, wherein her father and mother are greatly respected. The girl's appearance and education shows how carefully she has been raised, but through her affection for an actor she has been misguided.

The object of her admiration is a young colored man, formerly of Oakland, named Jackson, an actor in the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" troupe which played in Alameda recently. It seems that the Holmes family objected to Jackson's attention to their daughter, and the result was that two days ago she disappeared.

The authorities were called upon to aid in finding her. It was suspected she had gone to Alameda to be near her lover, but she could not be located there.

The troupe was booked for Haywards, and the detectives knew she could not be far away.

Late Saturday afternoon a stylishly dressed young colored Miss, dignified and four shades paler than her natural color, was escorted into the City Prison by Officer Nick Williams. A telephone message soon brought Mrs. Lydia Prescott of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and Mrs. Holmes, the girl's mother, to the prison, where Chief Lloyd joined the party, and on her promise that she would not return to her actor lover the girl was permitted to go home.

Craigie Sharp also addressed the Board "The committee realizes it will cost more money to build a tunnel than a bridge but the money will be spent at home," said he "while if a bridge is built, it is built elsewhere and merely put together here and the county has no advantages from the money spent It is an advantage to the county to keep the money at home The building of a tunnel will be an advertisement of this county and city It will show enterprise and energy on the part of the residents We will then have all the advantages of San Francisco with none of its disadvantages

"But we Supervisors haven't the power to do this declared Supervisor Wells 'The law says that we shall build a bridge it doesn't say a word about building tunnels I don't believe we have the power to build a tunnel and this is all a waste of time'

A DAY OF MOURNING.

ents had experienced since the preceding evening when the first intimation was conveyed to them of the loss they had sustained.

An appreciation of the grief which the bereaved ones felt was evidenced by neighbors who considerately allowed the parents to remain undisturbed with their dead little ones

At the residence of Judge Nusbaumer, County Surveyor Nusbaumer, the uncle of the little one who lay within, took up a position on the porch and received the calls of those who wished to express sympathy with the family in its loss There was no outward symbol of the loss which was breaking the hearts within, a wreath of beautiful roses instead of the funeral streamers hanging upon the bell-pull

At the Hall residence too, the parents mourned a most alone, being condoled with only by a few very near relatives, but the parents would not be comforted The awful announcement of the catastrophe came with especial force upon Mrs Hall because it found her physically in an enfeebled condition owing to recent illness.

THE TRAGIC TALE

The story of the accident has been told and retold many times Despite this fact, it will bear repetition because sorrowful as it undoubtedly is it was the occasion of the display of heroism and human sympathy worthy of commendation

Early last Saturday Emil Nusbaumer Jr, Edward Tubbs Hall and Hiram Hall, the last two brothers, proposed to another companion, Robert Victor Oyler to take a boat ride on Lake Merritt. The proposition was accepted A boat was rented at Kendall's boat house near the Twelfth street dam and in it the four boys put out into the lake rowing up toward the northerly part of the lake until at a point west of Eighteenth street The water there is shallow and the Hall boys and Nusbaumer decided to go in bathing They accordingly anchored the boat by tying it to an oar which they put down into the bed of the lake The three boys then got into the water, Oyler remaining in the boat After sporting for a while in the water, Nusbaumer seemed suddenly to be in the act of disappearing He had reached the edge of a hole in the bottom and was falling into it when he called to Eddie Hall who was nearest to him for assistance. The cry was responded to by Eddie only to find out that he too was in danger. Hiram, the elder Hall, started to the relief of both. He was able to do very little because the task of rescuing both was too heavy for him and there was danger that all three would eventually go down together Young Oyler who was in the boat, displayed great presence of mind He cast off the line which had anchored the boat to the oar, pulled the oar out of the slime and hastily rowed the boat to the spot where his companions were in danger. By this time Nusbaumer and Eddie Hall has disappeared beneath the surface and Hiram Hall was sinking also when Oyler caught him by the arms. He pulled with all his strength at the drowning lad and in so doing the boat leaned over to one side until it almost shipped water and enabled Hiram to lean over the gunwhale The boat then took a lurch in a strong wind from the west and Hiram rolled into the bottom and was saved. As soon as he reached safety the boy fainted. When he revived Oyler helped him to put on his clothes, and then rowed the boat toward the boulevard at a point off Eighteenth street The first person the boys met was Thomas Deasy Jr Hall told him to telephone to his (Hall's) father at the Amador marble works of the accident and then fell in a faint on the boulevard. The following was noticed by Mrs Thomas Deasy, mother of young Deasy, from her residence, and just as she was about to go to afford Hiram some relief, the boy revived.

Then young Deasy, John Williams, another boy and several others got boats and grappling irons and hooks and sought to recover the bodies while Oyler and Hiram went to their respective homes Hall did not tell his mother of the occurrence for some time going first to the home of his uncle, Hiram Tubbs, who is lying dangerously ill. He was not, however, allowed to see his relative an intimation of the misfortune would have a serious effect upon the patient

Young Oyler too was overcome.

Hiram Hall was delirious at one time and serious consequences were feared. At last accounts, however he was bearing up under the great mental strain in a satisfactory manner

The news of the accident spread with rapidity and, from all directions came friends and acquaintances of the bereaved parents and at one time a dozen rescuing parties were patrolling the lake These worked unremittingly until 11 30 o clock Saturday night, when the search was discontinued to be resumed yesterday morning at 4 45, when after three quarters of an hour s work the remains were recovered

The devotion shown in this respect was remarkable and was an evidence of goodness of heart and an appreciation of the high standing of the bereaved ones in the community Among those whose sympathy was displayed in various ways were Judge Henshaw, W G Henshaw, Victor Metcalf, Edward Noblett, Fred Sinclair, Joan Williams, Thomas Deasy Sr, J Doyle, Hugh Munson, William Glover, E. Kendall, County Clerk Frank Jordan, A A Moore Jr., Winfield Birmingham, Louis Price, Howard Rees, J. Cal Ewing and many others.

THE FUNERALS.

Two little white coffins in two homes were surrounded by sorrowing friends today The occupants of the coffins were lying with hands softly folded as if asleep, the bloom of youth still mantling their cheeks

The funeral of Emil Nusbaumer, the young son of Judge Nusbaumer, was held first at the family home, 1303 Sixth avenue. Long before the hour for the ceremony the house was filled with sorrowing friends of the family and with the schoolmates of the dead youth. A pathetic scene occured shortly before the services commenced. The boy's aged grandmother entered to take one last look at the dead. Her sobbing and grief were touching as friends led her away.

The casket was completely hidden beneath flowers. A pillow of lilies and roses, with "Our Boy" woven in pale purple blossoms was placed at the foot of the coffin by the broken-hearted mother From his young classmates in the Franklin school, came a beautiful floral piece. "Our Classmate" was woven in purple immortals against a background of white and pink roses

An anchor of lilies and lavender sweet peas was the token of Mrs. Pauline Nusbaumer's grief

From Mr. and Mrs. Welles Whitmore came a heart of white sweet peas and maiden hair fern

From the Justice Court of Oakland township came a loose cluster of La France roses. Loose clusters of flowers, small baskets and bouquets came from many more and were placed around the coffin The gift of one little classmate was a lily surrounded by ferns, and this was placed on the casket

The services were most simple and their very simplicity made the scene more impressive and touching There were few whose eyes were not wet with tears as the minister the Rev. Charles H Hobart, told of the tragic and sudden death of the lad and his playmate He read a few comforting words from the Scriptures and the Temple Quartette, composed of Messrs Melvin, Bangs, Carlton and Wilkie sang.

At the conclusion of the services friends were permitted to gaze upon the dead for the last time before the casket was closed forever.

The pall bearers who bore the remains to the hearse were A A. Moore Jr, G E Jackson, N A Griffin and H N. North

AT THE HALL'S

The funeral cortege moved from the Nusbaumer home to the Hall residence, two blocks away, where another little victim of the unfortunate accident lay Another white casket embowered in flowers held the remains of Eddie Hall

Prior to the service and while his home was still, silent and empty, save for mourners, Eddie Hall's class in the Franklin School came and looked on their dead playmate lying still and white in his coffin The scene was a pathetic one The class was headed by the teacher and many of the boys forgot their resolution to be brave and broke down and wept at the sight of their dead comrade

The boyish face was half hidden by the nodding lilies that surrounded the coffin A heavy pall of St Joseph lilies covered the casket and fell to the floor Roses the gifts of others, were laid against this white background Early spring blossoms were placed here and there A place of honor was given to the wreath sent by his classmates, a wreath of red carnations and lilies of the valley twined with smilax.

From Mr. and Mrs Will Henshaw came exquisite Easter lilies, from Miss Grimes roses, from Mr and Mrs. Greenwood loose clusters of roses

Many and numerous were the floral offerings sent by friends and relatives

All the flowers were placed in the room many of them forming a solid bank around the casket

It was shortly after 2 30 P M when the funeral cortege from the Nusbaumer home entered the residence of E M Hall, where the Rev Chas W. Wendte D. D, conducted the services The same simplicity that had been the noticeable feature of the earlier services marked the obsequies at this home. His former playmates clustered in the doorway and listened with awed faces to the words of the minister. It was an indescribably pathetic scene, and more than one man noted for his firmness in the ordinary events of life showed visible signs of emotion now

After Dr Wendte had given a last prayer that strength might be given the bereaved to bear their loss and the music had died away the schoolmates of the dead lad bore the remains to the hearse The young boys who thus acted as pall bearers were Robert Jordan Howard Metcalf, John Goodman, Shirley Houghton Victor Metcalf and Robert Weller

The two caskets were taken to Mountain View Cemetery, where they will be placed in a vault for the present

Among those who paid a tribute of respect and sympathy to the bereaved and love to the dead by their presence were Judge and Mrs. Ogden, Judge and Mrs William Hall, Judge Yule Miss Grimes, Everett Grimes, Mr and Mrs Will Henshaw D W Henshaw, Fred Clift H North Mr and Mrs Robert Leckie Mr and Mrs Welles Whitmore Chas Gould, George W. Reed, Tyler Henshaw D L Ayer, Mr and Mrs Anthony Schweer Will Ayer, Frank C Jordan, Judge Noble Hamilton David Sinclair, Mr and Mrs Fred Merritt ex-Governor Machin, Mayor W R Thomas W J Keating T. J Landroy, R W. Church, Ed Weidler, H A Melvin, W W Foote, R. M Fitzgerald Walter Mathews, F E Whitney T T Dargie Max Marcuse Mrs D Hackett Mr. and Mrs. Victor H Metcalf, Mr and Mrs Clinton Dodge Mr and Mrs Gilbert Curtiss J J Hanlin Dr. and Mrs Kelly Miss Carmen Moore Thomas Deasy, Judge and Mrs Ellsworth Thomas Garrity Judge Frick, Mr and Mrs George Nusbaumer, Mr and Mrs. Taylor, George Tyrrell.

TO HAVE A BLUE BOOK

CAKE-WALKERS TO BE BARRED.

MUCH TROUBLE IS IN STORE.

Those Who Are Black-Listed Will Want to Know Why?

Colored society is greatly disturbed over the report that the 'upper classes' of the race can find nothing more intellectual with which to become famous, than a cake walk—relic of slavery times

The leaders of society, who justly claim that the cake walkers are not representative of their race, have decided to prepare and issue a blue book and in a short time a committee will be appointed to scrutinize the list This committee will have a hard task and its identity will need to be closely guarded for 'colored society' which is not society is apt to be very touchy on matters of etiquette

In the new blue book no one will be admitted who is in any way identified with 'De New Bully," or 'A New Coon" or 'My Angeline' and indeed there is no reason why they should be There are in this city some highly intelligent and well-educated professional people These include the Morrisses, the Winslows, the Washingtons the Delaneys, the Wilsons, the Powells, the Edwards, the Summers, the Williams, the Stewarts and many more

These wish it to be distinctly understood that they are not in any way connected with the cake walking crowd The Milt Johnsons and the Waters and the colored advertising fraternity are declared to be ostracized and anybody who would participate in a cake walk will certainly not be honored by a place in the blue book.

There will be a meeting called privately, at an early date at the home of some recognized social leader and the initial step will be taken to draw proper lines in colored society.

This matter has been precipitated by the action of one Potts, who tried recently to take advantage of the new civil rights bill and whose action is scorned by the best element of local colored society

THE TARIFF BILL.

Senator Allison Has a Chat With the Democratic Members

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, May 3 — Senator Allison, chairman of the Republican committee which is preparing a tariff bill for the Senate, had a conference today with the Democratic members of the Finance Committee and arranged a programme for getting the bill into the Senate

According to the agreement the bill will be reported to the full committee tomorrow if the Republicans find they desire to hold it no longer, and will then be passed on to the Senate as soon as the Republicans make it manifest that they have a majority favorable to its being reported

Allison renewed his effort to secure consent to having the bill reported after tomorrow's meeting without conditions, but the Democrats would only agree not to insist upon holding the bill in committee for detailed inspection after the Republicans had shown they have a clear majority in the committee favorable to the bill

Allison accepted these terms.

This arrangement will throw the responsibility of deciding the length of time the bill shall be held upon Senator Jones of Nevada, who holds the balance of power

The indications are that he will not lend himself to any prolonged consideration of the bill in committee. He has practically said as much to friends

SPANISH SET-BACKS.

A GARRISON DRIVEN OUT.

TROOPS BECOMING RESTLESS.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 3.—A special to the Press from Key West, Fla., says:

Havana advices show that the insurgents are active in that province. Tapasta was attacked last week by a force of 400 insurgents and held for an entire day. The Spanish garrison in one block house retired completely, while the other held their ground and did not fire at the insurgents or disturb them in any way.

The Cubans took possession of the vacated block house, looting it of all the arms and provisions they could find, and then set it on fire. The other block house with a garrison of 300 troops in and around it kept quiet, no offensive operations being attempted by the Spanish officer in command. The Cubans camped out within half a mile of the Spanish force and plundered the stores of the town without any opposition.

La Heiba was attacked by a force from Rodriguez's force the first of the week, and the Spanish garrison driven out. There is a small earth fort there and two block houses. The Cubans attacked the earthworks early in the morning and carried them by a dashing charge, the Spanish retreating into their block houses at the other end of town. One of these was attacked by the Cubans and three bombs exploded underneath its walls, shattering it badly and killing several of its inmates.

The Spanish surrendered and were paroled by the Cubans. Some firing took place between the insurgents and the other two block houses, but no attack was made on them, the Cubans seemingly being content with the victories they had gained. They entered the stores, took what they pleased and loaded their plunder in ox teams in plain view of the Spanish force. The Spanish loss is said to have been about seventy-five killed and wounded.

Word reached the palace yesterday that a garrison of 200 men at a small town in the southwestern portion of the province deserted to the insurgents last week, carrying all their arms and ammunition and a field piece.

MUTINOUS SOLDIERS.

NEW YORK, May 3.—A dispatch to the Journal from Havana says:

Two insurgent captains, Rafael Mendoza Socarros and Ricardo Varrena Valdes, who voluntarily surrendered a fortnight ago in Pinar del Rio and were liberated under Captain-General Weyler's amnesty decree, have been arrested. They are to be deported in irons to Ceuta for indefinite confinement.

Advices from Sancti Spiritus report that the Spanish volunteers in the garrisons there are becoming mutinous, owing to the Government's failure to provide adequate commissary supplies. From thirty to forty are deserting daily.

Another Insurrection Is Now in Progress in South America.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 3.—A dispatch to the Herald from Buenos Ayres says:

Serious rioting is reported from San Luis Province and the Government has sent troops there to preserve order. The outbreak is the result of great destitution and suffering in the province and the delay of Congress in extending aid to the sufferers.

The rioting is confined to the laboring classes. A mob was formed and open threats were made against the Governor of the province. As a result of the critical situation, Congress at once decided to extend aid to the sufferers, but in spite of this the rioting continues.

The Government has decided to increase the special commission appointed to settle the boundary dispute with Chile in order that the commission will be able to finish its labors by next year. In answer to the demand of sugar growers, Congress has decided to allow the exportation of sugar with primage upon it until May 15th, discounting this exportation from the next crop.

QUICK FIRING GUNS.

Germany Anxious to Equip Her Troops With Better Arms.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 3.—A dispatch to the Journal from Berlin says:

When the Minister of War a few months ago demanded an appropriation of several hundred millions of marks for new quick firing guns, giving as reasons that France was armed in a similar manner, the question was debated in the press whether in view of the large deficiency the amount asked for could be granted.

Now it becomes apparent that a short time ago several regiments of field artillery were provided secretly with the new quick firing guns. For instance, the sixth regiment of artillery is using the new guns.

BERKELEY ATHLETES BUSY

Some Good Victories Scored by the College Players.

The University Scholarships Being Sought as Rich Prizes.

BERKELEY, May 3.—The basket ball teams of Miss Head's School in Berkeley, and of Miss West's School in San Francisco, played a match game in Harmon Gymnasium Saturday afternoon, which resulted in a victory for the visitors, on a foul, by a score of 3 to 2. Professor Magee acted as time-keeper, and was the only gentleman present. During the game, Miss Edna Burke of Berkeley received a severe blow on the nose, but no serious injury resulted.

For the first time during the six years in which they have been playing, Berkeley has won the baseball championship from Stanford. The score Saturday was 20 to 10 in California's favor. The game was their's from the first inning. Beckett, Stanford's pitcher, was forced out of the box, and Ruddell substituted, but the Blue and Gold batsmen soon found him just as easily. Kaarsburg's pitching was greatly improved. Krug batted two home runs over the Mission street fence.

Walter Magee, '98, and William Mein, '00, the University of California's crack tennis players, were tied in the tournament on Saturday, by Freeman and Pitcher of Stanford. Magee won a single, and Mein lost one. The doubles were postponed. This leaves the score 4 to 3 in Berkeley's favor. The next game will be played Friday.

The Berkeley branch of the Salvation Army held farewell services last night in honor of their commander, Lieutenant Mallet, who has been given charge of another post. He has been in charge at Berkeley for seven months.

The Lorin Athletic Club has elected the following officers: President, W. J. Streid; secretary and treasurer, Frank Waterbury; executive committee, John Martin, Frank Davis, and Benjamin Miller.

A symposeum on "The Religious Element in Education, Viewed in the Light of Experience," was presented last night in the Trinity Methodist Church, by members of the Senior Class in the University. The speakers were: S. U. Cartwright, L. E. Reynolds, A. G. Van Gorder, Miss May Hull, Miss A. R. Kemble, Miss S. Lindscott, Miss E. Turner, F. R. Fairchild, and Professor Rockwell.

The Berkeley Floral Society will hold a meeting next Wednesday evening in Stiles' Hall. Professor Woodworth will give an address on "Garden Pests," and George N. Tyler of Alameda will speak of "Chrysanthemums."

The West Berkeley Athletic Club gave an entertainment in Sisterna Hall, Saturday evening. Among the participants were Cook, James McNamara, Hugh O'Brien, Misses Hannah, and Rose McCarthy, John Smoothers, Paul Wixon, Edward O'Connor, and Frank Carney.

Two hundred and fifty applications have been received for the new scholarships, of which not more than fifty-six can be granted. The awards will be announced June 1st, and will be based on recommendations and records.

JOHN ELDER.

An Alameda Merchant Wants Oakland Trade.

John Elder the big dry goods man of Alameda and San Francisco proposes to turn the tables on Oakland dry goods men who, he says, have been getting a portion of their trade from Alameda.

He has opened a first-class, fully stocked store on Park street, corner Santa Clara avenue and is selling at prices which would actually make it profitable for Oaklanders to see and buy many of his bargains.

Mr. Elder has been in the dry goods business for eighteen years and was one of the best known business men in San Francisco where he conducted successfully two large establishments, one in the Mission and the other in Hayes Valley. Attention is invited to his ad which is the advance courier of a new deal in the dry goods business of this county.

The Republicans Finishing Work on the Measure.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, May 3.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says:

An additional tax of 50 cents a barrel on beer was voted into the Senate tariff bill last night by the Republican sub-committee. Whether the item will stay until the bill gets into the Senate is not altogether certain.

Senators Aldrich, Allison and Wolcott prepared for an all night session in the hope of getting the measure to report to the Finance Committee, but along toward midnight they declared they could not hope to make a report before Tuesday. Meanwhile they voted upon the beer tax.

The present rate of $1 a barrel and the additional 50 cents will bring the Treasury about $17,000,000 annually on the present rate of consumption. This increase in revenue will not entail a dollar of additional expense for collection. The beer tax is now a part of the bill.

Lower rates on lumber and wool are there also, as well as a tariff on hides and a reduction of the internal revenue tax on spirits. The sugar schedule is substantially the same as that in the Dingley bill so far as results are concerned, but will make changes in phraseology and in the relative taxation of low grade and off color sugars.

Judging from the amount of work ahead of them last night, the committee will be lucky if they report the bill next Tuesday.

The Treasury figures for the month just ended confirm Chairman Dingley's statement that there is likely to be nearly a year's supply of foreign goods in the country when the new tariff bill goes into effect. While the retrospective clause, so-called, of the Dingley bill probably prevented some of the new contracts which would have been made, and the new orders which would have been given, it did not reduce the amount of goods brought in during April, as compared with the preceding month.

That clause of the bill provided that the new rates of duty should apply upon all goods coming in after April 1st which had been purchased prior to that date.

This, of course, permitted all goods contracted for ordered prior to April 1st to come in under the Wilson law rates, and also left it largely in the hands of the importers to indicate by their own statements whether goods coming in after April 1st had been purchased or ordered prior to that date. Some of the importers have also clung to the belief that this feature of the bill would fail to pass the Senate, especially in view of recent publications so indicating, while still others have chosen to take the risks upon being required to pay the extra duty in case this feature of the bill should become a law.

The result of these conditions is that the total importations of foreign goods have jumped from $50,000,000 in August, 1896 to $80,000,000 last month. The most notable increase has come from non-dutiable articles which importers know will soon have to pay duty. The importations of this class of goods have jumped from $21,000,000 in August, 1896, to about $45,000,000 in April, 1897.

OAKLAND TALENT.

Well Known People Locally Now Prominent in New York.

The following item of interest concerning former Oaklanders are contained in a New York letter to a San Francisco paper:

"The work of Miss Grace Fisher in 'The Mysterious Mr. Bunks,' a play now on at the Lyceum Theater, has met with the approval of the critics of New York. Two have said they have rarely seen the character of a young girl (for Miss Fisher has an ingenue part) acted with so much naturalness and ease.

"The friends of W. A. Reaser will no doubt rejoice to hear that he received the first Hallgarten prize of $300 for a picture entitled 'Mother and Daughter,' at the spring exhibition of painting now on at the National Academy. The pose of the figures is effective and interesting. The mother is looking in a hand-glass and the daughter is trying to get a glympse of herself, too, and is looking over her mother's shoulders into the glass. The contrast of the brunette beauty of the mother with the prettiness of the blond child is striking. The scheme of color is worthy of note.

"Miss Belle Miller of Oakland is steadily gaining recognition here. At the Women's University Club's monthly tea, held in the club rooms at 23 West Forty-fourth street on Saturday afternoon, the feature of interest was the playing of Miss Miller."

If the Los Angeles papers have told the truth about their fiesta Oakland can well do without one.

The tariff committee wants to tax beer fifty cents more a barrel. Now watch the brewers get up steam.

"Politics and Damnation" is the heading of a three-column article in the Santa Cruz Penny Press. No remedy is proposed.

While shooting craps in Kansas City yesterday they also shot and killed a couple of the players. The police will now take a hand in the game.

The "great victory" by Colonel Smolenski over which the Greeks have been bragging so much dwindles down to the fact that 8,000 Greeks repulsed 2,000 Turks.

Watch our Anglomaniacs and prepare for some startling facial changes. The press reports today so coyly announce that the Prince of Wales has altered the cut of his beard.

We must not laugh at these bloodless French duels any more. Two fiery Chicago men yesterday exchanged revolvers full of blank cartridges and then declared honor satisfied.

We are now hearing of the many coast cities that intend having a "monster Fourth of July celebration." Isn't that word "monster" a little inappropriate for such occasions?

Here is an opportunity to add another chapter to the series of articles on "Is marriage a failure." Riverside County has a record of 317 marriage licenses and fifty-two divorce cases.

From now on see what a roasting the Greek soldiers will get. The dispatches today state that the Greeks in their flight seized the horses of the war correspondents and the newspaper men were compelled to go on foot.

Newspaper reporting at Los Angeles is attended with danger. A reporter has been arrested for stealing, a portion of a Grand Jury report. From details received, the impression is gained that his crime consisted in not stealing the whole of it.

The street railways of this city would do an immense business this summer if they would take proper steps to let people know of the many cosy retreats all around Oakland. Yesterday's travel though good comparatively, was small to what it should have been.

It is becoming painfully apparent that the Greek army is mainly composed of cowards. The description of the last rout says: "The troops behaved like a disorderly mob. All discipline was flung to the wind and the soldiers fired even on their own officers."

Kentucky will soon be known as the "scandal State." Having just disposed of her queerly-conducted Senatorial election she is now unearthing a sensation at her penitentiary. It has been discovered that a steal of $17,000 has just been effected there over a lumber contract.

Los Angeles has several good sized public parks. Elysian park contains 532 acres; East Los Angeles park 50 acres; Westlake park, 35 acres; Echo park, 35 acres; Hollenbeck park, 20 acres, and Griffith park something over 3,000 acres, the largest park in the world.

And Oakland has——?

They are very squeamish in the Quaker City. The pastor of one of the leading churches there has just been removed because he declared his intention of preaching a series of sermons on "The Devil in Philadelphia." Had he located his satanic majesty in Boston, Baltimore, or some other rival town the announcement would probably have gone through all right.

Here is an idea for Beatrice Harraden. An enterprising attorney in a breach of promise case in Southern California, succeeded in bringing out the information that a young man kissed his sweetheart ninety-six times in one minute during a single sitting, and during the same period the young lady managed to respond with four, making an even hundred in the space of sixty seconds. He doubted the truth of her statement but backed down when the young lady offered to let the attorney try it on her.

The Alameda Argus clinches much argument with the following: "The estuary of San Antonio and the harbor of Oakland are destined to become the seat of ship-building for San Francisco bay. They are ideally located, and when the Government improvement shall have been completed there will be nothing lacking. These water ways are also to become great commercially. People do not appreciate the commercial advantages that Oakland and Alameda possess. The next five years will see far greater progress than the past twenty. The future of these two communities is just as certain as the sun's course."

OBJECTIONS TO THE TUNNEL.

As was anticipated, the railroad company is raising objections to the proposition to tunnel the estuary instead of bridging it. The officials demur to the project on many grounds and there is no probability that they can be induced to assent to it.

One of the points of objection is that the tunnel would prove detrimental to the interests of the travelers. It is pointed out that instead of Oaklanders having the benefit of two ferry lines as at present they would be confined to the broad guage route, for the subway would cut off all train communication with the narrow guage pier and that line would have to operate solely in the interests of Alameda. Instead of a fifteen minute service across the bay the schedule would have to be a half-hourly one.

From the standpoint of its own interests the railroad also makes some forcible points. It shows that there would be a protest from the bondholders and stock owners of the narrow guage line as by its being deprived of its present proportion of the Oakland traffic its revenues would be considerably reduced. Furthermore the Southern Pacific objects to the loss of income it derives from carrying passengers between Oakland and Alameda, all of which traffic would of course be diverted to the street car lines.

In face of these objections, therefore, it is certain that the railroad company will not consent to any plan but the bridging of the estuary and as its franchise cannot be interfered with, it is certain that the new-y hatched plans will have to be abandoned.

The Hindoo reformer has now had a practical illustration of what is meant in America by having a "pull." The gentle yank the ladies gave to his robes as a signal for him to stop speaking soon banished the "inspiring and lofty thoughts" we have been hearing so much about since his arrival.

Those who have been crying to laud the Brahmachariu as an angel, are, since the row with him occurred, now pointing out the fact that he must necessarily be a dark angel.

Colonel Buck our new Minister to Japan has shocked Southern society by accepting an invitation to a negro reception. Here is another indication of there being something in a name.

Judging by the baptisms that are being made in the ocean in San Francisco George Montgomery and his followers think that "the washing away of sins" is done liberally.

The airship would be very popular in Greece at the present time. King George's men would like to be off the earth until the Greeks go home again.

The Australian ball players will surely go home now. They couldn't even beat the Suisun nine.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

A correspondent of the Contra Costa News writes:

I left Los Angeles and came north not stopping till I reached Oakland. While there I talked with some of their leading spirits and learned that the people are taking on new life. A valuable and very complete book entitled, "Facts and Figures of Oakland and Alameda County," giving a review of the resources and climate of the county, is now in its third edition, and those that have been sent East have attracted more attention to the county than all the literature previously published. The Board of Supervisors have recently had published 10,000 copies for Eastern circulation. The publishers of that book have spared no labor or expense in their work and have given to the people of Alameda County the most concise, readable and accurate books of the kind ever published in the interests of any county."

Oakland has passed an ordinance directing the poundmaster to arrest and impound all fowls found running loose on the streets. How that official will revel in broiled chicken and fresh laid eggs now.—Santa Maria Times.

It is announced that Rev. Boyer, he of the swallow tail coat and the diamonds, is not making a striking success in his work of saving Oakland souls. The sinful Oaklander refuses to approach Heaven by the swallowtail route. The circumstances might lead to the suspicion that the Nazarene's plan of salvation has not been much improved lately, but one would not wish to give voice to this suspicion for fear it might be considered a reflection on Brother Boyer and his right bower in the clerical game, Brother Edwards Davis.—Fresno Republican.

Under the heading of "Childish" the Alameda Encinal says:

"The Oakland City Council is hard at work throwing pebbles in the pathway of the chariot of progress. The Mayor asked permission to use the Council chamber for the purpose of holding a meeting of a committee of fifty which is in favor of municipal ownership but the Council churlishly refused. If they thing to stop the progress of the movement by such childs means they are sadly mistaken. And by the way, these are the people who want to swallow up Berkeley and Alameda and all the other cities and towns adjacent. They will have to shed their barnacles and get a little of Alameda's enterprise before their advances will be considered for a moment.

NOT UP ON PROCEDURE.

The Members of the New Health Board Get a Set-Back.

The appointees of the new Board of Health called at the Health Office for their certificates of appointment this morning, but the Secretary of the old Board, Paul J. Schafer refused to give the documents on the ground that the meeting held Saturday was illegal and that the officers of the old Board were still entitled to their respective offices. The reason for the illegality of the Saturday meeting is that the members of the old Board were not notified of the meeting.

A special meeting must be called by the president or a majority of the Board and each member must be notified either personally or twenty-four hours previously by mail. This was not done. Saturday, so another meeting must be held, either this afternoon or tomorrow.

Secretary Schaffer on Saturday stated that the notice was not necessary but he has changed his mind today.

PITTSBURG'S BIG FIRE

Three Million Dollars Worth of Property in Ashes.

INSURANCE IS ABOUT ONE-HALF

One Fireman Killed and a Number Very Badly Hurt.

THE BLAZE SPREAD QUICKLY.

Efforts to Locate Its Origin Are So Far in Vain.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PITTSBURG, May 3.—The most disastrous fire that has visited Pittsburg since 1845, except during the riots of 1877, destroyed $3,000,000 worth of property last night, and probably resulted in two deaths and the injury of four persons.

The great wholesale grocery establishment of Thomas C. Jenkins and the mammoth retail store of Joseph Horne & Company are total ruins.

There remains of the first only jagged patches of walls, here and there towering into blackened pinacles, and of the latter only a great naked framework, built of structural iron which would not fall, but is stripped of its walls and floors and festooned only with draggling shreds of blackened strips of timber, crinkled pieces of sheet iron and twisted rods and wires.

The burnt section extends from Fifth street to Cecil alley on Pennsylvania avenue and from Cecil alley to Fifth street, on Liberty street, covering several acres.

Killed—Geo. Atkinson, No. 15 engine company.

Missing—Geo. Thompson, No. 15 engine company.

Injured—Elmer Crocko, No. 7 engine company, struck on head by falling bricks; Michael Daley, No. 7 engine company, cut, bruised and arm broken by a falling arc lamp, Robert Badger, No. 4 engine company, ankle broken; George Meekin No. 7 engine company, struck by falling bricks, cut and bruised.

A number of other firemen are missing and are supposed to be buried under the walls at Liberty avenue and Cecil alley.

The losses by fire include: T. C. Jenkins, wholesale grocery, totally destroyed. Stock valued at $400,000, insurance $150,000. Building valued at $100,000, insurance about $50,000.

Joseph Horne & Company, retail dry goods, totally destroyed. Stock and building valued at $1,600,000, fully insured.

Methodist book concern building, valued at $125,000, loss about $20,000, insured.

J. W. Scott, agricultural implements, loss about $25,000, partly insured.

Nine other business blocks and four residences were damaged to the amount of $52,500.

Seven freight cars loaded with meat belonging to Swift & Company of Chicago burned, loss $7,000.

The Duquesne Theater and Surprise Clothing Company's immense store were on fire several times, but were saved with small loss.

The fire broke out, no one knows how, about midnight in the wholesale grocery building of Jenkins & Company and burned with great fury until 4 o'clock this morning.

The insurance has not yet been figured but most surely exceeds $1,500,000.

Fireman Atkinson's mangled remains were taken from the ruins this morning.

George Thomas and the other missing firemen have turned up.

The injured men will recover.

Liquor Brutalizes Him.

Geoge Otto, who pleaded guilty to extreme cruelty to his minor children, has been given a month in which to reform. He was arrested at the instance of Mrs. Prescott of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Otto got drunk and locked his wife and children up in their home on Henry street, refusing to give them any food. He is a brute when drunk, but under ordinary circumstances is quite a gentlemanly fellow and always suffers remorse for his actions when he sobers up.

Spring Humors

Those unsightly eruptions, painful boils, annoying pimples and other affections, which appear so generally at this season, make the use of that grand Spring Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, a necessity.

The accumulated impurities in the blood cause very different symptoms with some people. The kidneys, liver and bowels are overmatched in their efforts to relieve the clogged system. Dizzy headaches, bilious attacks, failure of appetite, coated tongue, lame back, indigestion and that tired feeling are some results.

From the same cause may also come scrofula, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism.

All these troubles and more may properly be called "Spring Humors," and just as there is one cause, a cure is found in just one remedy, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the impure blood, enriches blood which is weak and thin, vitalizes blood which lacks vitality. Thus it reaches every part of the human system.

DAMPER ON FEDERATION.

But the Railroad Men Will Go Ahead on the Old Lines.

The railroad men met yesterday at West Oakland and Secretary Bulen read a reply he had received from W. V. Shafford chairman of the Grievance Committee of the O. R. C. system. The letter is as follows: On May 9, 1894, the O. R. C., B. R. T., B. L. F., O. R. T., and S. M. A. A. met through their representatives and signed the system federation (Cedar Rapids plan). I was elected secretary of the board and C. E. Swain of the B. R. T. was elected chairman. Two months later came the strike. The S. M. A. A. and the P. L. F. walked out almost to a man, so that there was not enough of them left upon the system to carry out their laws and discipline the balance * * * Three years have elapsed and I should think that the whole matter has lapsed under the statute of limitations. There have been many changes in the material that comprises the different orders and I do not believe that the membership generally would be willing to recognize the authority of a board of the '94 federation. This, of course, is only my personal opinion, but it seems to me that in order to ascertain the feeling a vote would be necessary.

In spite of the latter there is a feeling among the men that they will go ahead and organize a federation of the five orders named along the proposed lines. Some of the men accuse the writer of being opposed to the scheme of federation on the ground of his being as far up as he can get and hence cares nothing for his less fortunate brother workingmen. This is said to be the cause of several other instances of indifference. However, the matter will be pressed to a completion at an early date.

ALL ABOUT GREECE.

It has a population of 2,187,208.

It is called "Hellas" by its people.

It has an area of 24,977 square miles.

It is the only country in the world whose armies are provided with the Gras guns and paper covered cartridges.

It has few rivers and many hills. None of the former is navigable, and many of the latter are fortified.

Its present boundary limits were determined by an arrangement among Great Britain, France, Russia and Turkey, concluded at Constantinople on July 21, 1832.

Only about 70,000 of the inhabitants speak any language other than Greek, and only about 20,000 profess any religion other than the orthodox.

The chief characteristic of the average Greek are his inquisitiveness, fondness for excitement, love of discussion, desire for knowledge, an aptitude for learning, and aggressive patriotism.

The climate has two striking peculiarities, the heat in summer and the cold in winter are far more intense than those of any other country in the world lying in the same latitude. Gell once remarked that in traveling through the Morea in March he found "summer in Messenia, spring in Laconia, and winter in Arcadia, without having moved beyond a radius of fifty miles."—New York Sun.

NEW LAW FIRM.

F. V. Brooks and L. D. Hargis Enter Into a Law-Partnership.

One of the most recent partnerships in San Francisco and without doubt one that the brightest of futures is that of Franklin V. Brooks and Lionel D. Hargis.

These promising young attorneys are now practicing in the Parrott building, San Francisco, and are already enjoying quite an active practice.

The standing of the firm is amply vouched for by Hon. W. S. Barnes, ex-Chief Justice Currey, Hon. William F. Herrin, Hon. Thomas B. Bishop and Hon. William Fullerton.

Messrs. Brooks and Hargis are well-known all around the bay and their many sterling qualities will certainly insure them success in their new undertaking.

SUGGESTIONS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

Mrs. Royer says: "A mixture of dripping and lard makes a better frying material for fish than lard alone. A pure vegetable oil (like olive oil) is freer from disease germs than either. Never use butter for frying fish; it boils at a low temperature, consequently burns quickly; the butyric acid softens the fibre of the fish, destroys the flavor and causes it to soften as soon as taken from the pan."

An exchange suggests the following mode of cleaning or freshening the wall paper: "Make several bags of canton flannel—fleece side out, of the proper size to cover the brush of your broom. Sweep down the walls with these, changing as they are soiled. After removing all of the soil possible in this way, take a fresh bag, dust it with flour and wipe the walls with it, shaking out and renewing the flour when necessary." If you have nice paper on your rooms you will find it will pay you to secure the services of a professional cleaner who will put it through a process which renews and freshens it better far than anything you can do for it yourself.

Notwithstanding the almost universal substitution of baking powder for soda and cream tartar the housekeeper finds she cannot get on without both in stock. She needs to use them seperately many times. Angel cake requires the addition of cream tartar to toughen the whites of eggs which are the foundation, and hold up the spongy mass till it is stiffened by heat. Soda is needed to correct the acidity of molasses in gingerbread and all brown breads and puddings that contain it. Butter contains so much buttermilk that a little soda is essential in all rich cakes and cookies that are to be kept for any length of time. Soda and sour milk are cheaper than baking powder and an even teaspoonful of soda with each pint of such milk is safe and satisfactory. If milk is scalded with a speck of soda it is not apt to curdle in making soups.

DOMESTIC RECIPES.

HONEY JUMBLES.

One tablespoonful of butter; half a cup each of sugar and thick strained honey, one tablespoonful of cream, one egg, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and sufficient flour to make a rather stiff dough. Do not roll, but form into rings with the fingers and bake a light brown. Eat while fresh.

LITTLE HONEY CAKES.

Cream together a quarter of a pound each of butter and sugar; add three-quarters of a pound of strained honey, a teaspoonful of ginger a quarter of a nutmeg, half a teaspoonful of soda and one and three-quarters pounds of flour. Roll thin, cut with a cookie cutter and bake quickly. These will keep a long time.

HONEY PUDDING.

Beat one cup of strained honey with the yolks of three small eggs. Add the juice of half a lemon, the beaten whites of the eggs, two cups of flour and one small teaspoonful of soda dissolved in boiling water. Spread half an inch thick in two shallow pans and bake. Beat up an egg with two tablespoonfuls of flour, one of sugar and three of honey, and add it to two cups of hot milk. Boil till it thickens, and when cool put between the layers. Frost with an icing made as follows: Boil together two-thirds of a cup of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of water, and a teaspoonful of lemon juice until it will harden when dropped into cold water. Take from the fire and add two dessert spoonfuls of honey; set in a dish of cold water and stir constantly till it is like thick cream, then pour quickly on top of the cake. These recipes for cooking with honey are taken from the Country Gentleman.

Primrose & West's Minstrels at the Macdonough Tonight.

Primrose & West Minstrel Company will be seen at the Macdonough tonight. The company is composed of 40 white artists who will be seen to advantage in all the best features of "up to date" minstrelsy and thirty of the blackest of the black, singers, dancers, and comedians in an exposition of the true and original type of Southern negro.

The management desire it to be understood, however, that it is really and practically two separate bills that are to be given, the two companies not working in unison but a part of the evening being given up entirely to each. This allows that only the very best and most entertaining features of each class can be retained. Messrs. Primrose & West feel that, in their present undertaking they have reached the very summit of their ambition and that they can truly say "They have no more worlds to conquer." George Wilson, "Waltz Me Again George" with new songs and funny sayings is still one of the reigning sensations of this organization.

Seats are selling rapidly for tonight and Tuesday nights' performance. Prices range from twenty-five cents to one dollar.

OAKLAND THEATRE.

This evening Little Pearl Landers the clever child actress will begin a week's engagement at the Oakland in Mrs. F. H. Burnett's pathetic play Little Lord Fauntleroy. As Cedric Errol, Pearl Landers has been seen in every city on the coast and the press and public are unanimous in proclaiming her the best Lord Fauntleroy before the public. Miss Maitland will play "Dearest." Cedric Errol's mother and the balance of the cast will be in able hands.

Spoke on Religion.

During the Saturday session, Miss Cora Millicent Palmer of this city delivered an address before the Woman's Congress. The question chosen was "Shall We Teach Religion?" The speaker maintained that the ideals of highest education could not be attained without a recognition of religion; that religion cannot be intuitive but is a result of mental training and that our system of education, both at home and in our colleges, should include a thorough study of the teachings of the Bible.

Hilgard on Food.

Professor Hilgard's remarks on the "Use of Antiseptics for the Preservation of Food Products," were listened to, with great interest, by the Pure Food Congress last Saturday. The professor ridiculed the idea of sulphuring fruit and declared that the practice should either be regulated by law or discontinued altogether.

THE NEW SOUTHLAND

PRESBYTERIANS ARE PLEASED.

Dr. Coyle Lends His Pulpit to Dr. Philip Hubert.

THE GROWTH OF THE RACE.

Prejudices Long-Rooted Are Now Fast Dying Out.

Some years after the close of the war, during the period of reconstruction in the South, a Presbyterian clergyman, Dr. Logan, conceived the idea that one of the best plans of benefitting the newly made citizens of the Southland, by the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment, would be to Christianize them, and to that end a college for the education of young men of the race, for the ministry, would be a means, and so he was instrumental in the founding of a college at Salisbury, North Carolina, which was named in honor of the great Scotch missionary, who gave many years and ended his life in darkest Africa, David Livingstone.

At the First Presbyterian Church of this city, yesterday, the distinguished president of that college, Rev. Philip A. Hubert D. D., delivered two interesting addresses. Dr. Hubert is a full-blooded negro, and is an eloquent and pleasing speaker.

He is the successor of the late Rev. J. C. Price, D. D., who paid this coast a visit ten years ago and was successful in raising a considerable sum of money for the college, and who died a few years ago. At the morning service the speaker chose the words in Genesis I. 3: "And God Said, Let There be Light," for his text, giving for the subject of his discourse, "The Light Turned On." He desired to turn the light onto the condition of the colored people of our Southland. He spoke of what had been done already to enlighten these people, and of the immense amount yet to be done. He pictured the condition of this people at the close of the war and told of what had been accomplished in the thirty-five years, and yet there were 7,500,000 illiterate and uneducated, who could not read or write. He pleaded earnestly that the people of the Northland do more for them,—that is, more for their education and uplifting. He referred to lynchings that are often read about in the papers. He said that these lynchings were not perpetrated by the true people of the South, but by the tramps and worst element of that land. He would not say that his people who met with these lynchings were always innocent, but he believed they should have the right of trial by jury.

He spoke of the material advancement made by these people, who thirty-seven years ago had nothing, only their freedom. They had neither houses nor lands, but now they paid taxes on $300,000,000 worth of real estate in the South, and yet, out of the about ten millions, a total of 7,500,000 could not read the Bible that told about God and the Savior. He urged that everything ought to be done possible to educate these people so as to make them better citizens. They are in this country and are part of it. They have a right to be here; it is their country and have no other. Educate them, teach them the trades, etc., and it will make them better citizens. He said they had shown themselves capable of receiving education.

His especial visit to the Pacific Coast at this time was the same as that of his predecessor, Rev. Dr. Price, ten years ago, to raise funds for his college. At that time, Dr. Price raised $25,000. He did not want that much, though it could be put to good use, but owing to the explosion two years ago of several hundred tons of powder in one of the old war-time arsenals the buildings of the college, though a mile away became so badly wrecked that it required $6,000 to repair them, this had been borrowed, and the mortgage and interest would soon become due, and this amount he was endeavoring to raise. He spoke of having visited Rev. Samuel Sprecker D. D., formerly pastor of the First Church here, and of Dr. Sprecker's congregation in Cleveland, Ohio, giving $500 at the service at which he spoke, and afterwards sending him $500 more.

The college was doing a grand work. It had fourteen professors and 250 young men and women students, all colored, preparing for Christian work, along Presbyterian lines, among their own people in the South. At times the speaker grew very eloquent in pleading the cause of his people, who he said were once of the Adamic stock and of the same blood as the Anglo-Saxon and all the other races of the earth.

AN EVENING ADDRESS.

The morning address was so well liked by many of the members and officers of the church, that Dr. Hubert was urged to tell more about his people in the South in the evening, and he consented to do so. In starting out in his evening lecture he said he was a very liberal man. He gave the experience of a colored clergyman in the South. He said there was no heaven in the Southland for a colored man. This colored clergyman had gone to a place to deliver a temperance lecture. A wealthy gentleman, a former slave owner, invited him to go with him as his guest. He did not accept such kindness. He didn't know whether or not to accept the invitation. (Here he referred to the pleasure he had personally in accepting the hospitality of Dr. Coyle and family.

The lecturer finally went with the Southerner, and when he was shown into his room for the night, he was hardly sure it was he. However, he retired. There was a large mirror that he had not observed at the end of the room opposite the foot of the bed, and when he awoke in the morning, and raised his head he saw himself among so much white, that he afterward said it reminded him of a fly in a pint of milk. He felt that way very much himself in such a large congregation of white people, as he saw before him, but he was there badding color to the occasion."

In a serious vein, he told how the burdens of his race hung heavily upon his shoulders. He came here not to interest our people especially in the spiritual and religious condition of his people in the South, but also in their financial condition. For 250 years they had experienced a night so dark that the darkness could be felt. It was a cruel thing to think of. In spite of all this, they were here and must be taken care of. He then spoke of the humiliation the colored man had to endure on account of the prejudice against his color. When you meet a man of his color on the street, you must think of his humiliation. His color is against him everywhere, but in the Southland it is in many places more marked.

He related a personal experience of his own recently. He was on his way from Salisbury, North Carolina, to Cincinnati, Ohio, and had purchased a first-class ticket. On the train he met a gentleman acquaintance, a white man, and they were having a good time together, when, all at once the conductor came to him and said, "You must get out of this coach."

In surprise he answered him, "What for?"

"Colored men are not allowed to ride in this coach. You will have to go back to the 'Jim Crow' car."

He remonstrated with him, and wanted to know if he would give him a rebate on his ticket, but was told that he could not do that. That the train was now passing through the State of Tennessee, and it was against the law for a colored person to ride in a first-class coach with white passengers. The Doctor sat down, determined to remain until he was ejected. The superintendent of the road was in the car and heard the conversation. He came forward and said: "Sir, I see that you are a gentleman. The conductor has put the case to you in a rather abrupt and forcible manner, but it is a fact, that if we allow you to ride in this car, the company is liable, under the laws of this State—(Tennessee), to a penalty of $500, and there is no escape from it."

He said he was under the circumstances, compelled to go into the "Jim Crow" car, a most miserable place, scarcely fit for hogs to be shipped in, and he who had never smoked in his life had to endure clouds of tobacco smoke, as well as the other discomforts of the miserable box.

He said that North Carolina was a Christian State, and they did not have such laws there, and he was glad to say that there were other States in this great country of ours where such laws do not exist. This prejudice against the colored race was principally political. When the colored men were made citizens, they were ignorant, and it was giving them great power, which they were hardly capable of using, to give them the ballot.

There were 4,000,000 of them then. They are advancing while the white race are asleep. There are 10,000,000 now. The colored men in the South, are industrious when they have the opportunity. The numerical growth of the colored and white races in this country were compared, and the comparison was against the Anglo-Saxon race.

He was told by an insurance man in New York that the colored race was diminishing and dying out. He said to the man, "Yes, since when. Why," said he to him, "I know a colored family that have twenty-four children, and Pa and Ma and all the children are in excellent health."

It was just the contrary. The colored people are not diminishing, but are increasing at an alarming rate. He would like to know how many Anglo-Saxon Pas and Mas there was in this country with twenty-four children. It behooved the Anglo-Saxon race in this country to do all they could to educate and make this fast growing, but illiterate portion of the people of the land fit for good citizenship.

There are, he said, 3000 colored preachers in the South and who cannot read the Bible, and yet try to preach the gospel. They have to go and hear a white minister preach and retain what they hear, to preach over again to their congregations. He related an amusing incident of one of the preachers who went to hear a sermon, but could not grasp any of it, because it happened to be too deep and logical for him, but he heard a hymn that pleased him and he thought he could make it do in place of a sermon. "Am I a Soldier of the Cross, and a Follower of the Lamb," etc. When he came before his people, he told them that he did not have a sermon to give them, but that he had learned a beautiful new hymn that he thought woud do as well, and they could have a good time. When he attempted to sing it to them he had forgotten the words. He told them that he had, but he scratched his head and said it was something like this, "Am I a shoulder of a hoss, or a quarter of a lamb," and they sang it and had a good time.

It was in the interest of education of a ministry to preach to the people, of the general education of the race in our south land that he was here. He related a number of amusing incidents to show the natural ability and wit of the colored race, and the susceptibility of education. He told how their little homes are builded. If six colored men wanted homes, the six would turn in and build one home first, and then one by one the other five. They were small and insignificant, but they had to pay taxes on them. They gave liberally of their scanty means to support the gospel—in round numbers $50,000 annually. The colored people are trustworthy and loyal. He said they had proved this on numberless occasions during the civil war. When the masters were away fighting for the Confederacy the colored slaves had often saved their mistress and family from death, and had never at any time betrayed them.

It was humiliating for him, as a representative of his race, to have to come to California and plead as he was now doing, but it was a duty he could not shirk. In again referring to the capability of the race, he said no race on the face of the globe has made the progress that the colored people of the South had under the conditions that pevailed among them, but how much more is needed and is possible if only education and knowledge of the industrial pursuits are given them. Already many of them are engaged in all the trades, industries and professions. Upward of one million are farmers, and the farmers are the backbone of the country. There are no anarchists among these people.

In making a plea for a liberal donation to the fund for his college, he said it was the only monument in this country to the memory of the Scotch missionary—that grand man who had done so much for humanity, and who had laid down his life in darkest Africa to redeem it—David Livingstone—he said where are the old-time abolitionists, where are the underground railroaders, where are the Christian men and women? He was not begging; he was pleading for his people. They did not believe in being idle. They did not want to be kept in idleness, but they wanted to be helped to help themselves. He appealed in the name of the stars and stripes, in the name of humanity, in the name of God and in the name of the Saviour of mankind. He sang in conclusion, "Rock of Ages" with a two-line chorus added by an illiterate, but devoted colored man.

At the close of both addresses, morning and evening, Dr. Coyle had special collections taken up for the cause represented by Dr. Hubert, and a handsome sum was realized.

MAKES NO RETRACTION.

Mrs. E. S. Pardee Has Not Gone Back on Word and Oath.

Mrs. Emily S. Pardee denies all statements that she has retracted one word or any of the testimony she gave in her deposition in the late will contest.

"These statements do me a great injustice," said Mrs. Pardee, "and I cannot rest under it. I have retracted nothing and have nothing to retract. I never charged anything that was not true and will not be placed in the false position of going back on my word and oath. All that we filed was a simple dismissal of the contest. We withdrew nothing, and will not withdraw anything. If there is any revocation of my charges in the motion to dismiss I fail to find it. Here is my motion to dismiss the contest. The contestant, Emily S. Pardee, hereby dismisses her contest herein on file to the last will and testament of E. H. Pardee, deceased, and prays that the order of the court be entered dismissing the same.'

"That was all we filed, and it is false to call it a retraction. I filed a contest, was offered a compromise proposition that was advantageous, I accepted, and we merely did that which the law required."

TELLER ON THE TREATY.

His Reasons for Opposition to the Arbitration Measure.

Objects to the Stand England Has Taken in the East.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, May 3.—Senator Henry M. Teller, who is paired on the arbitration treaty expressed himself very freely against that measure in an interview with a reporter for the Associated Press.

While declaring himself in favor of the peaceful settlement of international disputes he denied that a special treaty was necessary to provide for it. He declared that the proposed arbitration treaty was very faulty.

He questioned whether the Senate could thus legally surrender one of its constitutional prerogatives and said that few Senators believed that it was wise to do so if it were possible.

In conclusion he said: "Great Britain will not go to war with us, unless it appears to her to be to her interests to do so, and no one acquainted with the history of that country for the last 200 years can believe that a treaty would stand in the way of war if her interests could be secured by war. Just now, if we may believe Gladstone, England has surrendered to the two youthful despots, the Emperor of Germany and the Czar of Russia and that her moral and political influence is being actively used to keep down the movement for liberty in Crete, and we may add, for the purpose of maintaining that blot on the civilization of the age, the Turkish Government, because some of the citizens of that country hold Turkish bonds. I do not care to lend the moral support of the United States to aid her in her efforts to suppress a people struggling for free government, whether they be Cretans or Greeks, or to enable her to collect her Turkish bonds."

Veterinary Surgeons Pierce and Archibald held autopsies on several condemned cows at the boneyard north of Berkeley yesterday afternoon.

"It is at present my hobby," said he, "and I thing the Board of Health, the Council, and Mayor Thomas can be shown that the test is necessary to save our young children from contamination and death. I have known many cases of little children wasting away from taking into their systems the bacilli from tainted milk."

A 16-Year-Old Girl has Nervous Prostration

From the Era, Bradford, Pa.

Several months ago, Miss Cora Watrous, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. I. C. Watrous, a locomotive fireman, of 61 Clarion Street, Bradford, Penna., was seized with a nervous disorder which threatened to end her life. The first symptom of the ailment was a loss of appetite. For some little time Miss Watrous had no desire to eat and complained of a feeling of extreme lassitude. This was followed by severe pains in the head. For three weeks the young lady was nearly crazed with a terrible headache and nothing could be procured to give her relief.

Finally, after trying numerous remedies, a physician was called and began treating the patient. He said the trouble was caused by impoverished blood, but after several weeks of his treatment the young lady's condition had not improved and the parents decided to procure the services of another physician. In the meantime Miss Watrous' nervousness had increased, the pains in her head had grown more severe and the sufferer's parents had almost given up hope of her recovery.

It was at this time that Mr. Watrous heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He found that the pills were highly recommended for nervous disorders and concluded to give them a trial. A box of the pills was purchased and before they had all been taken there was a marked improvement in the girl's condition. After a half dozen boxes had been used, the young lady's appetite had returned, the pain in her head had ceased and she was stronger than at any time previous to her illness.

Miss Watrous concluded that her cure was complete and left home for a visit to relatives in the grape country near Dunkirk, N. Y. She stopped taking the medicine and by over-exertion brought the ailment back again. As soon as the returning symptoms were felt, Miss Watrous secured another box of pills and the illness was soon driven away. She is now in better physical condition than she has been for years and declares that she owes her life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. and Mrs. Watrous were interviewed by a reporter at their home on Clarion Street. Both are loud in their praises of Pink Pills. "My daughter's life was saved by the medicine," said Mrs. Watrous. "Her condition was almost hopeless when she commenced taking them, but now she is as strong and healthy as any one could be. I cannot recommend the medicine too highly."

An analysis of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills shows that they contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female, and all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—(they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

AN "OLD MEN'S RUN."

Reliance Bikers Pass a Very Pleasant Day Sight Seeing.

THE TRIP TO TAMALPAIS.

ALL HAD A GOOD TIME.

The Day So Successful That Another Event Is Planned.

The "old men" had it all their way yesterday—that is, so far as the run of the Reliance cyclers was concerned. An "old men's run" it was called, but fully half of the riders have not voted for more than five years, while the oldest of the merry bikers were remarkably youthful in spirit at least, though some of them have gray hair.

The event was one of the most enjoyable of the kind ever held under the auspices of the club. Fully eighty wheelmen turned out, and the fun they had could not be measured by comparison with any previous outing.

The start was scheduled at 9 o'clock, but it was almost a half hour later before the tug left the foot of Broadway. In twos and threes the riders straggled down the wharf, where the "Walter Hackett" was steamed up, ready to carry the gay party to San Quentin. Bicycles of all makes and models were stored up above the pilot house and around the front of the boat, while their owners were satisfied with seats on top of the engine room or in the rear of the tug.

When the last of the "old men" were on board, the flag in the stern was hoisted and then with three blasts from the whistle and a chorus of—

"Who are, who are
Who are we?
We are, we are
R. A. C.
Hip, hip, rah,
Zip boom ah.
Reliance, Oakland,
Ha, ha, ha!"—

The tug cast off from the dock and the run had commenced.

Out of the estuary, across the bay and past the islands the little vessel ploughed its way, the boys in the meantime performing all kinds of antics, while the steam whistle fivened up matters by intermittent tooting. Alcatraz and Belvedere were left behind, and then, steaming around the cove, a landing was made at the dilapidated concern San Quentin calls a wharf.

The wheels were hastily hustled ashore and bunched up on the landing. The riders lined up in a group behind them, and the camera annex got in its deadly work. After the pictures had been taken, the run started. "Pop" Jerome chose Chester Myrick, captain of the wheelmen, and ex-Captain Griffiths to set the pace. They started off leisurely past the State's Prison and then took to the country, running up hill and down dale, over marshy wastes, through picturesque canyons, and finally reaching Mill Valley.

It was 3 o'clock before dinner was served at the hotel. The wheelmen owned the place for the time being, and the pretty waitress maids had their hands full serving the hungry crowd.

The dinner was a peculiar one and somewhat lacking in symmetry. The attendants were rattled, and the soup tureen, as well as the ice cream freezer, were decidedly shy. One table was fortunate in getting soup, another had none, but evened up by receiving oyster patties. What was not in evidence had to be rustled for, and the grand finale found many bloomers in the kitchen, helping themselves, to the distraction of the Chinese cook and the fat, bedustered landlady. However, the meal ended good naturedly, even if the chicken was as tough as a south of Tehama street sport.

UP TAMALPAIS.

After the feed the boys took a special train at the foot of the mountain and enjoyed the scenic ride up Tamalpais' bald side. As the train sped along over the high trestles and around the sharp curves of the serpentine road, the bikers made merry with songs and cheers.

Gradually the panorama appeared to the view. The bay, ocean and all the surrounding cities were spread out thousands of feet below, in striking contrast to the gray spire of the mountain. When the little train reached the top, an elevation of 2,600 feet, the Reliance cheer rang out lustily and the club's emblem was placed on the highest rock.

A hotel boasts of existence on top of the mountain, and here the boys repaired for refreshments. The return trip was as merry a one as the ascent, and when the terminus had been reached the wheels were again mounted.

Sausalito was the objective point this time. The wheelmen made their own pace, the line being strung out nearly the whole distance. On the way, a series of mishaps befell some of the riders. Two or three "spills," broken wheels and bruised anatomy resulted, but nothing of a serious nature occurred. In fact, the little accidents relieved the monotony of the journey.

The "Captain Hackett" was in waiting at the pier, and again embarking the return to Oakland started. The afternoon breeze was a little chilly for the 160 stockinged legs, but the continued stream of jests and songs kept the boys in such good humor that little inconveniences were forgotten.

Broadway wharf was reached at 8 o'clock, and then, minus lanterns, the riders proceeded in a body to the club rooms, passing several astounded policemen on the way.

In all, the trip was the ideal one of the season in every respect, and there was not one in the party but enjoyed it thoroughly. To "Pop" Jerome great credit is due for so successfully arranging the run. He acted as master of ceremony, and his good natured remarks were the life of the party.

The club feels grateful to Captain Hackett, who furnished the tug free of charge.

The remainder of the "committee of fossils" who assisted materially in arranging the outing were G. H. Strong, C. H. Lovell, S. G. Dunbar, J. H. Ames, F. E. Whitney, F. F. Cairo, Seth Mann, J. O. Cadman, W. L. Arnold, H. W. Thomas and P. H. Bernays.

Among the riders who attended were: Chester Myrick, Fred Knight, Fred Whitney, E. Lenhardt, Henry Cushing, Phil Carleton, George Berry, Harry Quinn, C. D. Bates Jr., Sherman McDowell, W. Marshal, R. A. Marshal, Tom Hazelton, Percy Hazelton, H. D. Heydenfeldt, Dave Williamson, Charles Griffith, Ed Griffith, Charles Pugh, O. Musser, E. B. Jerome, J. H. Dickman Jr., Dr. Halsey, Fred Sawyer, C. A. Love, M. L. Mason, R. C. Reader, Paul Nippert, E. Boggert, Howard Eyxbee, George Williamson, R. T. McKissick, Judge Fred Clift, Charles Lovell, Bert Lund, W. L. Arnold, Morrie Jellett, James Jellett, W. H. Sivers, Charles Smith, J. H. Crooley, "Old Man" Farley, W. D. Tillinghast, Fred Cairo, W. R. Berry, B. Y. Morris, Harry Mason, Charles Cole, Robert Bain, Ollie Marston, Bert Neylan, W. A. Maclise, "Pop" Bornays, Arthur Bayley, H. S. Pugh, Arthur Baxter, Russ Lukins, S. Ford, Fleet Cornwall, Wallie Moore, W. Milwain, George Dawnin, H. Blinn and W. Robson.

A FEW INCIDENTS.

Chet Myrick mixed with the dust coming home, and, as if this was not enough, Harry Mason ran over his head, mingling unborn thoughts with Marin county's soil. Myrick also left a few yards of his epidermis behind.

Three of the boys struck up what they presumed was a flirtation with a Mill Valley damsel. While they were enjoying themselves the country constable walked up and threatened to arrest them if they continued to annoy his wife.

Fred Cairo left the crowd at San Quentin to enjoy a picnic with friends at San Rafael. He brought along a carefully packed box of luncheon, with enough good cheer to wash it down. Before the box left the tug its contents had been emptied and chunks of coal left in its stead. Cairo carefully carried his supposed meal to San Rafael and then swore.

Fred Whitney, attired in cheese-cloth bloomers, trimmed with chantilly lace, hugged a life preserver while on board the tug. He was the last to board it coming home.

J. Sherman McDowell appeared in a startling creation of nun's veiling. He rode a 150-geared has-been, hired wheel, as his own was sick. Two miles out, the wheel tired, but the irrepressible McDowell straddled a wheelbarrow and came in strong.

Sievers could not complain of "cold feet." He was perched on the top of the engine room, with his legs dangling over, when Fred Whitney set fire to a newspaper which had been attached to the overlapping pedal extremities. Sievers saved his own life by jumping overboard.

E. Lenhardt furnished the gum. When he reached the summit of the mountain, he was greeted with a feminine chorus of "O doesn't he look cute?" He patted the young ladies on the back and paid their fare home. They were a few of his candy girls.

Myrick, Neylan, Byxbee, Haydenfeldt, Williamson, Marston and Bain held down the top of the pilot house on the trip over. They took charge of the steam whistle among other things.

Bates and Deacon on a tandem shook the crowd early to spark some San Rafael girls. There were others.

Morrie Jellet's big feet were responsible for a broken pedal, but he "shook the other leg."

Griffiths succumbed to the romantic atmosphere on top of the mountian. There were three babies in the car coming back, and Griffiths kissed them all.

At dinner, one table full of hungry wheelmen thought the waitress might be bribed into giving them something to eat. Eighty cents was raised and given to the maid. She took it, laughed and the boys went hungry.

Henry Cushing was laughed at for bringing an overcoat. He turned the tables when the cold wind chilled the bloomers on the homeward trip.

Phil Carleton commanned with the gods on the mountain top. He offered up a burnt sacrifice in the shape of a "ten-fer" cigar.

The run was so successful and inexpensive that another one is suggested for the near future.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Preparations Are Being Actively Pushed by the Committee.

At the meeting of the Memorial Day Committee, Saturday, most of the subcommittees simply reported progress. The only new business transacted by the committee was the selection of Rev. William Rader to act as orator of the evening exercises, and of Mrs. Blake-Alverson to have full charge of the evening's musical programme.

It has not been decided as yet who will present the pieces of ordnance, donated by the Government to the soldiers plot in the cemetery. The donation was brought about through the efforts of A. D. Smith, superintendent of the cemetery, and will be formally accepted on the Grand Army plot by Mayor Thomas on Memorial Day.

In all cases of physical or mental exhaustion, the use of a little Jesse Moore Whiskey will be found invaluable as a stimulant.

Single Tax.

The regular meeting of the Oakland Single Tax Club will be held at upper Hamilton Hall tomorrow evening. The principal address will be made by L. M. Marzer, president of the State organization of Single Taxers, who will speak on "Individualism Versus Socialism." The club also expects to have some music during the evening.

Gamma Eta Kappa.

At the fifteenth annual convention of Gamma Eta Kappa fraternity of the Pacific coast, which was held in San Jose, Ray Burrell and Ray McCabe of this city were elected grand officers.

The annual field day of St Mary's College will be held on the college campus Thursday, May 6th.

"BEWARE OF 'VIDDERS."

A Wealthy Mine-Owner Who Is Now Undergoing an Experience.

His Quondam Fiancee Is Suing Him for Breach-of-Promise.

Mrs. Josephine Wall who resides at 1059 Clay street, is complainant in a breach of promise suit against George W. Wise, a wealthy mine-owner of this State and Texas. The price Mrs. Wall sets on her wounded affections amounts to $10,000.

According to the complaint, the defendant proposed marriage to Mrs. Wall December 28th, in Pleasanton. They had met first a few weeks after Mrs. Wall's arrival in this city from New Orleans, and again in November, 1896. On Christmas day they met in Pleasanton, where Wise had become deeply enamored of her charms. His love reached a climax in three days, when he proposed, and then as speedily declined, so that after New Year's Mrs. Wall did feel her affection for the defendant returned by him with adequate warmth. Becoming convinced that Wise did not intend to fulfil his promise, she at once went to San Francisco and consulted her attorney, F. M. Parcells, who has entered the action on her behalf.

Mrs. Wall is a widow, 40 years of age, while Wise is 57. She is a native of New Orleans, La., and came to this State a year ago, living alternately in this city and Pleasanton.

Wise does not put much store on his former sweetheart's wounded heart. He claims that his money had much to do with the fervency of her love. Mrs. Wall has offered to withdraw her suit if Wise would marry her within twenty-four hours. This he declines to do, and is willing to defend himself in a suit. He does not believe, however, that Mrs. Wall will push her case.

The numberless inferior imitations prove conclusively that "Cracker-Jack" is all right. Insist upon getting the genuine article with the big R's on the package.

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Popular Fred Bouquet has succeeded his equally popular brother Joe as proprietor of the ever popular Galindo Hotel bar, where the best of wines, liquors and cigars are always to be had.

All cases of weak and lame back, back ache, rheumatism, will find relief by wearing one of Carter's Smart Weed and Belladona Backache Plasters. Price 25 cents. Try them.

Cutting up pranks with baby is great fun for a young mother. But before she can cut pranks with the baby she must have a healthy baby. A puny, sickly, peevish baby has no use for pranks. It lies in every young mother's power to insure the health of the expected newcomer. If she will see that the organs which make motherhood possible are healthy and vigorous, and will keep them so during the period preceding maternity, she may be sure that the baby will be healthy and happy.

A marvelous medicine for young mothers is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Taken during the period preceding motherhood it makes strong, healthy and vigorous the organs upon which rest the burdens of maternity. It allays inflammation, soothes pain, and restores steadiness to the nerves. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period. It insures the health of baby and makes its coming easy and almost painless. It is the discovery of an eminent and successful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription before my confinement, and I was only in labor a short time," writes Mrs. Minnie A. Peterson, Box 5, Easton, Fresno Co., Cal. "The physician said I got along unusually well. I think the medicine saved a great deal of suffering and I get all my friends who need it to try it."

One of the best-known of American medical men said: "If you want to reform a man, begin with his grandfather." That would be wise if it could be done. Since it cannot be done, try something else. Reform the future grandfathers and grandmothers. Do this through education. The greatest thing for a man or woman to know is himself or herself. To know one-half the capabilities and disabilities of the human body is a liberal education. A good start for this education is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Any one can have this finely illustrated 1000-page book for the small price of twenty-one one-cent stamps. This is simply to pay for mailing. If you would like the book in fine cloth binding instead of paper, send thirty-one stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL HELL.

How Rev. Dr. Kummer Views the Much Discussed Subject.

MR. M'WILLIAMS' EFFORT.

An Eloquent Sermon on the Great War by Rev. Dr. Graif.

At St. Paul's Episcopal Church yesterday Rev. Dr. Ritchie discussed the question, "Does the Episcopal Church Teach the Necessity of a Change of Heart?"

The effort set forth why the Episcopal Church is opposed to religious revivals, and the speaker went on to say that to tell a child that he must have an "effectual call" and "get religion" was nothing short of flat blasphemy.

The preacher said that in accordance with his experience, the Episcopal Church was supposed by many of the Protestant denominations to know nothing of a "change of heart." Members of the Episcopal Church were supposed not to know what "real Bible conversion" was. They had no "religious experience to relate."

Well, it was true that the Episcopal Church did not employ the revival agency, and so was not accustomed to measure its personal religion by narrow revival processes, still, it might hope for a charitable consideration of what it did believe.

In common, then, with all other Christians, the Episcopal Church taught and believed that as we are born here on earth into the "natural," we are also given the opportunity of being born anew into the "spiritual." Furthermore, all Christians were also agreed in the thought that "that is not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual." In other words, all Christians believed, the Episcopal Church as much as any, that the "natural" can never, unaided, and by itself develope into the "spiritual." That was the word of God. The Episcopal Church believes in this regeneration in the strongest way, and the speaker quoted at length from the prayer book to prove it. Why, then, he asked, should this church be so widely misunderstood in this matter? Why should it be said that members of the Episcopal Church knew nothing about conversion and religious experience." That was a question very easily answered, and the first reason was because, in the Episcopal Church baptism, and not the ability to fix the date of one's conversion was the way to enter the church. It was Christ's way and the church's way—and that being so, the church does not require any one wishing to join the church, that they should be able to fix upon the exact hour or day or week for their change of heart.

JOHN WESLEY'S TIME.

Such a requirement was never heard of before the time of John Wesley. Again, in the Episcopal Church, we have no "relation of experiences," another feature of the revival system. No statement of any kind was required of those coming to baptism or confirmation beyond that of "God be merciful to me a sinner" and "Lord I believe, keep thou mine unbelief." It seemed to the preacher as the result of his experience and observation, that a great many people, men more especially, were kept for years in ignorance of the message of Christ to their own hearts, because they were not able to "fix a date" for their conversion, and had no "experience" to relate—coupled with that other strange notion. Another result of the revival system, that "religious experience" was a thing that seeks the man and is not sought, the preacher had met scores of men who were patiently waiting for some "effectual call," some tremendous "experience," which, without their volition, was going to lift them out of the common herd of sinners and set them among "the elect," the "converted," the special favorites of heaven. They were waiting, in other words, to be able to relate the Pharisee's "experience," "God, I thank thee that I am not as other men are!"

MISSION OF CHRIST.

"This was to strangely misinterpret the mission of Christ, who came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentence and to misunderstand the purpose of the church, which was not the home of saints but of sinners. Did the Episcopal Church, then, believe in conversion? Certainly. In instantaneous conversion? Rarely. Why? Because, ordinarily, conversion is a slow and gradual process. Because the truest conversion was something that lasted while life lasted. We speak of a lightning flash as instantaneous, but nature was a long time preparing for it. We speak of a volcanic eruption as sudden, but science tells us that it is the result of long processes. That was why the Episcopal Church did not employ the revival system. That was why she did use a system which the Christian Church had always used and the Jewish Church before her. What was that system? Why, she commenced by telling the child that by virtue of his baptism he was a child of God and not of the devil, an heir of heaven and not of the world. She brought him up to believe that he was already a Christian and a member of his Father's house, and needed not to become a prodigal and be "converted" back again into a Christian. To tell a child so baptised and so brought up that it must have an "effectual call" and "get religion" and "be converted" and have an "experience to relate" was nothing short of flat blasphemy! It was just because this old system of the Christian Church had been superseded by the clap-trap of the modern revival that the land was full today of Godless men and women. Yes, the Episcopal Church believed in a change of heart, but more properly, in many such changes, whenever they were necessary. She believed also in conversion—not only of the prodigal to righteousness but much more, in that daily conversion, which, if duly practiced would lessen the necessity of the other. Finally, the Episcopal Church believed in a "religious experience"—which was a thing, however, not to be boasted of, either in public or in private, but to be kept between the man and his God.

PSYCHOLOGICAL HELL.

"That there is such a hell," he said, "who knows anything about human nature subjectively, or objectively, can doubt? It is not confined to the future world. Many thousands already live in it, and, probably, will live in it forever. That there is still another hell of retributive punishment, where the wicked shall be punished, seems to be the plain teaching of the Word of God. But, if there were no other torture but that which we bring upon our own heads, and there is no other, than that which is the natural sequence of our own deeds and character,—it were enough, as we shall see, to make us fly to the world's Redeemer for pardon and for help and cleansing. What the nature of the future abode of the lost soul shall be, no one can tell; but, everyone knows that happiness and misery are largely the result of environment, and one can readily conceive how the environment may add largely to the woes of the lost, and this, is perhaps, what is meant by the 'lake of fire,' and 'brimstone' of the Holy Scriptures. If, in that land, our bodies, like our own selves, shall be spiritual, what is known as the elements here, would have no effect upon them. They could neither be burned nor drowned, neither could they be made to suffer from these elements. This language is, doubtless, figurative.

GOODNESS OF GOD.

"We believe, too, in the goodness and in the justice of God, and express it as our belief that if, in the future God shall ever find it possible to save a doomed soul, He will do it. But that there ever shall be such a possibility, all that we know of human nature, and of punishment would seem to refute. Reformation by penal punishment has always been a failure, and the probability is that lost souls will be more hopelessly lost after a thousand years of suffering than they were when they entered the future world. I have not time now to argue that proposition, though it is one of great interest and importance.

"As there are degrees of felicity in heaven, so we believe that there will be degrees of punishment and suffering. Some will be beaten with many stripes, and some with few. Suffering or happiness will depend upon opportunity, upon the time engaged in wickedness, or the service of God, upon the purity or impurity of the soul as it passes out of its period of probation.

"These preliminary thoughts we pass, and take up our subject, 'A Psychological Hell,'—that is, a hell which is the result of our soul condition; the character of our mind and spirit after the years of probation have passed. Leave out of consideration now the 'wrath of the Lamb,' the penalty of the violated law, the gloomy environments which are possible, such as Dante dreams of in his 'Inferno,' and let our thought take in only those elements of suffering which we see so many sad examples of around us; the tempers and disposition which often make a hell in a home, or in a society, and in many a human breast; the tempers that fill our penal institutions, and that cause thousands every year to take their own lives because they hope to escape a torture which they cannot endure. Who does not know that there are even in this life, 'tears of blood and groans that are big with horror.'

HOW WILL IT BE IN ETERNITY.

"May it not be that in eternity all this shall simply be intensified a thousand fold? Will there, can there be anything more awful than that? Yet there is no afflicting rod, no beating with many stripes, no tortures inflicted by the great Lawgiver and Judge of all men. It is simply turning spirits over to their own beds which they have spent a lifetime in making, a bed of lusts, of corruption, of malignity, of malice, as the skin may be; it is simply reaping as they have sown; now it is the wind, when it is the whirlwind; now it is the flesh, then as a natural consequence, it is black and festering corruption; now, the seed time, then a harvest of woe, the natural crop of the sowing here.

THE MEMORY.

"The memory is one of the most marvelous, and one of the most dreadful powers of the immortal spirit. Psychologists tell us that nothing can ever be entirely forgotten. It may pass out of the mind for the time being, but it is likely to reappear with all its original vividness. If the memory can run back over a life of holy thought, of noble endeavor, then the memory becomes a source of delight. It is heaven; but, if on its walls are hung the sad failures, the vile thoughts and unholy deeds of a sin-cursed life,—and if these must forever be displayed before us in all their luridness, it will be like the hissing of scorpions in our faces. It will be like the head of Medusa; like having before us a grinning, horrid skeleton whose vile breath shall take away every beautiful dream and vision with which we might comfort ourselves.

MAGNIFIED BY ETERNITY.

"Memory is like the sensitized film in photography. The light does its work upon the film, though no eye can discover any change. In eternity, the film is fully developed and unrolled. This sometimes happens even in this life, as when a person drowns, and the events of his whole life pass in panoramic detail and vividness before his review in a second of time. Great and numerous scenes may be distinctly photographed on a very small space, as is done in microscopical photography. Upon a speck of glass, no larger than the head of a pin, I have seen the pictures of the Mechanics' and Liberal Arts Buildings of our World's Fair. So all the events of this life are photographed upon the memory to be unrolled and magnified into their true proportions by eternity.

"The mystery of memory is no greater than the mystery of a grain of musk and its perfume. A single grain of musk, 1-30 of a scruple in weight, will fill a large room with its odor, yet, after weeks and months of giving forth its perfume, will manifest no perceptible diminuation of its weight. So, memory, like the grain of musk, holds in its embrace every deed, every thought, every picture, every emotion, every impression, every breath, to be given forth again whenever the environment shall evoke them and thus making our remniscent atmosphere in the world to come. This wonderful thought is either terrifying or pleasing as our characters are either impure or holy and able to bear our own scrutiny and the searching eye of God."

ENIGMAS OF LIFE.

The following striking passages from W. H. Greg's "Enigmas of Life" were quoted:

"But there is yet another retributive pang in waiting for the sinful soul, which belongs to the very nature of that future world, namely, the severance from all those we love, who, on earth, have trod the narrower and better path. The affections do not belong to the virtuous alone. They cling to the sinner through all the storms and labyrinths of sin. They are the last fragments of what is good in Him that he silences, or lays aside, or tramples out. They belong, not to the flesh, but to the spirit; and a spiritual existence, even if a suffering one, will but give them fresh energy and tenacity, by terminating all that has been antagonistic to them here below. Who shall describe the yearning love of a disencumbered soul? Who can adequately conceive the passionate tenderness with which it will cling round the objects of its affection in a world where every other sentiment or thought is one of pain? Yet what can be more certain than that the revelation of the great day will effect a severance of souls,—an instantaneous gulf of demarcation between the pure and the impure, the just and unjust, the merciful and the cruel, the indifferent and the zealous,—immeasurably more deep, essential and impassable than any which time or distance or rank or antipathy could effect on earth?

FUTURE DESTINY.

"Here we never see into each other's souls. Characters the most opposite and incompatible dwell together upon earth, and may love each other much, unsuspicious of the utter want of fundamental harmony between them. The aspiring and the worldly may have so much in common and may both instinctively conceal so much, that their inherent and elemental differences may go undiscovered to the grave. The soul that will be saved and the soul that will be lost may cling round each other here with wild affection, all unconscious of the infinite divergence of their future destiny. The mother will love her son with all the devotion of her nature, in spite or in ignorance of his unworthiness; that son may reciprocate his mother's love, and in this only be not unworthy. Love covers a multitude of sins, but it does not eliminate them. The pure and holy wife and the frail and sinful husband can live together harmoniously, and can love fondly here below because the vast moral gulf between them is mercifully veiled from either eye. But, when the great curtain of ignorance and deception shall be withdrawn 'when the secrets of all hearts shall be made known,' when the piercing light of the spiritual world shall at once and forever disperse those clouds which have so long hidden what we really are from those who have loved us and almost from ourselves; when the trusting confidence shall discover what a serpent has been nourished in its bosom; when the yearning mother shall perceive on what a guilty wretch all her boundless love and priceless tenderness has been lavished; when the wife shall, at length, see the husband whom she cherished through long years of self-denying and believing love revealed in his true colors, a wholly alien creature,—what a sudden, convulsive, inevitable, because natural separation between the clean and the unclean will then take place! The gulf which has always existed, is recognized and felt at last; corruption can no longer consort with incorruption; the lion cannot lie down with the lamb, nor can the leopard with the kid. One flash of light has done it all.

RETRIBUTION BEGINS.

"But though the link is severed, the affection is not thereby destroyed. The friend, the husband, the lover, the son, thus cut adrift by a just and natural, though bitter retribution, love still; nay, they love all the more fervently, all the more yearningly, in that they now discern with unclouded vision all that bright beauty, all that which nature of the objects of their tenderness, of which their dim eyesight could on earth discern but a part. Then will begin a retribution indeed, the appropriate anguish, the desolate abandonment of which, who can print, and who will be able to bear? To see those we love as we never loved till then, turn from our grasp and our glance of clasping and supplicating fondness with that unconquerable loathing which virtue must feel towards guilt and with which purity must shrink from stain; to see those eyes, never trumed on us before, save in gentleness and trust, now giving us one last glance of divine sadness and ineffable farewell; to watch those forms, whose companionship cheered and illuminated all the dark places of our earthly pilgrimage, and once and again had almost redeemed us from the bondage and the mire of sin, receding, vanishing, melting in the bright distance, to join a circle where they will never need us; to tread a path to which ours bears no parallel and can make no approach; and then to turn inward and downward and realize our lot, and feel our desolation, and reflect that we have earned it. What has poetry, or theology pictured that can compete with a gehenna as this?"

In closing, Dr. Kummer spoke of conscience as another subjective element of suffering; also of hopelessness and despair, then and prayed fervently that none of his hearers, either in this life or the life to come, might ever suffer from any of these possible elements of hell, but that all might have the peace and eternal joys of Christ's salvation.

THE GREAT WAR.

An Eloquent Sermon by the Rev. Dr. Philip Graif.

Last evening, at the Twenty-first Street Free Baptist Church, the pastor, Rev. Philip Graif, preached on "The Great War," and among other timely and clear cut things said:

"After eighteen centuries of the peace loving gospel, war is still more or less rampant in the earth. In spite of all the softening influences of a Christian civilization, old England still clings to the lion, fierce eyed and majestic, as her national emblem, and California, like Russia, proudly emblazons her banner, not with lamb or deer, but with the bear, poised on his hind legs, or standing, grim and fearless, in the attitude of aggressiveness. Just as old Rome loved to carry as its favorite symbol, the eagle with its iron beak and cruel talons, so today enlightened and Christian America perches that imperial bird on its flagstaffs and embroidores it on its standards.

"Even in the cold, scientific air of the intellect, to say nothing of the sensitive heart, war seems at best a terrible tragedy. We put down duelling, but shout ourselves hoarse over the battles of armies whose violence and bloodshed have perhaps no better ground of justification. We look righteously askance at a couple of pugilists slugging each other in a champion prize ring, but flame with enthusiasm (not over one bloody knock-out) but over thousands slain and nations draped in sack-cloth and ashes—a spectacle of rain and tears wrought perhaps from no higher motive than a lust for gold and a quenchless thirst for glory.

"It seems the race's progress has not kept pace with the development of the individual. The representative of physical force still dazzles the eyes of men too much and rules the hour. It is the Achilles' type of man and hero, not the sage or saint, the poet or reformer, who captivates the multitude most quickly. Even in free, educated, peerless America, it is easier to raise a half a million dollars to monument the triumphs of Grant, the soldier, than to keep in fair repair the unpretentious tomb of Abraham Lincoln, the martyr.

"Long perhaps will it be before the angel of arbitration has turned the sword into a plow-share and the spear into a pruning hook. So long as social progress prefers to ride on a war-horse, amid burst of bomb-shell and charge of bayonet, the golden age seems still a far-off, if not impossible, dream. Alas! instead of the angels' crystalline carol of peace and good will that once haunted the hills of Bethlehem with hopes of an ideal brotherhood, we hear the boom of cannon and the rattle of musketry over a classic land, in which Homer sang and Phidias carved, Demosthenes spoke and Plato uttered his immortal thought.

CLEANSING THE WORLD.

"After all, it is not so much by the thunder and smoke of the fields of carnage as by prayer and meditation, self sacrificing devotion and Christ-like deeds that the world is cleansed of its cruel and selfish passions and at last transformed. Rather, in the last analysis, will Froebel's kindergarten ideals than Napoleon's armies, Shakespeare's dramas or Wesley's sermons than Wellington's campaigns or Nelson's naval victories, Luther's theses than Bismarck's policy of blood and iron, be found to contain the germs of blessing that make for happiness, moral growth and the highest civilization.

"It seems man is born into struggles and the battle, either with the world or self, never ceases. The form of battle may change, but the warfare is perpetual. As soon as an enemy of a lower type has been laid low, one of a subtler and higher kind, whether conceit of intellect, pride of power or luxurious ease of wealth, springs up to contest our spiritual progress.

"Just as the iconoclasts of the middle ages ruined carved altars and frescoed ceiling, marble cathedral and exquisite statue, so anger and hate, strong drink and political feuds, riff-raff, riots and lock-outs, boycotts and clash of interests, stain and shatter all the beauties and sanctities of civic and domestic life. Freshet or forest fire, plague or eathquake is but a mild, inadequate picture of the harm man does in his destructive moods.

"Just as at Pompeii and Herculaneum pieces of statuary were unearthed by antiquarian pickaxe and spade, some fluted Corinthian capital with its acanthus leaf gone, some bit of fine frieze work stained and cracked, some exquisitely carved Venus robbed of her shapely arms, or some Apollo denuded of his superb locks—all beautiful as objects of art, but all sadly marred—so, amid man's ideals of duty and beauty, amid all his progress and hopes and achievements of genius, there are strange traces of violence and wrong, selfishness and cruelty.

WHERE THE WAR WAGES.

"The great war is not so much on the fire girded battlement amid bullet hail and sword thrust as the truceless combat between flesh and spirit. No high art is perfected or millionaire fortune won, no laurel leaf entwined about the brow or lofty character elaborated without throes of anguish, tireless vigilance, hardship and austere self discipline. The fact is, the spontaneities are never permanently good. It is safe to say that a satin cradle rarely ever breeds either a hero or saint, a martyr or sage. The best way to enfeeble and emasculate life is to coddle it with silken arms and pamper it with dainties. Disagreeable things are often worth more to us than delightful gifts, curses better than compliments, birch rods than sugar plums.

"In stress and storm, to learn the use of the indomitable will that never yields to superior force or hate one jot or syllable of truth or right is learn something great and invaluable. As long as error and injustice are in the world, truth and equity, in shining coat of mail and well tempered steel, will fight to the last drop of blood. The lover of liberty cannot submit to the tyrant's rule, nor will purity abide vice's foul, though gilded career. Uncompromising opposition to evil is the only watchword and attitude of a robust self-hood. It is a weak, wishy-washy, namby-pamby sort of goodness that condones the wickedness of genius because it is brilliant or sin because it is artistic. Because complete holiness is an ideal of infinite sweep and significance, our struggle with sin and self will not terminate, but rather become more sharply accentuated, since the finer our sensibilities to truth and duty become the more exquisite is our torture and shame at our foibles and follies. Though the pursuit of perfection is full of heart-aches and a divine discontent, yet the victories achieved and the hot contest waged is a source of endless fascination and joy. Therefore let us be glad that life is tautly keyed to tension and battle."

"WITHOUT A CHURCH."

The New Pastor of the First Christian Church Speaks.

Dr. Glen McWilliams, the new pastor of the First Christian Church, preached his first sermon yesterday morning at Odd Fellows' Hall.

Dr. McWilliams is a young man and has a striking appearance in the pulpit. His address is good and his delivery excellent. He is of medium height, smooth face and wears long wavy hair.

The following is a synopsis of the sermon he delivered, the subject being "The City Without a Church."

"Nothing can take the place of love in the church of Christ, nor in the man or woman who professes to be born of the holy spirit and who claims fellowship with the saints.

"We would become powerless to bless ourselves and our neighbors were it not for the love and benevolence demonstrated by those who are pure in heart, whose daily conduct and practical christianity bears the reflection of God's approbation.

"The great design of God is to ratify and to fill the whole world with love, peace and good will. Just a glance into the life of Christ will thoroughly convince you that it was spent loving, blessing and doing good unto all mankind. While he was despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, men hid as it were their faces from him, all of his time was devoted to making people happy.

"The law growing out of these truths, together with the divine command that 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself,' is the law established by God for the regulating of a christian's life and conduct.

"If every man was filled with this divine quality the law and will of God would be fulfilled, for love is the fulfillment of the law.

"Love is the great harmonizing force, and it establishes the law of peace on earth, producing the glorious brotherhood of man.

"What an indescribable joy comes with the thought of an incoming of the reign of love in the individual and social relations of man, and the establishment of harmony everywhere.

"In spite of the apparent opposition and rivalry among those who claim to be Christians, thank God there is blessed harmony in the belief that if the whole world was dominated by the spirit of love man everywhere regarding the welfare of man, crime, murder, war, strife, destitution and hunger would very soon cease and the whole civilized race of mankind world move along together accomplishing an immortal record full of the blessedness of Christ-like sympathy, love and peace, all to the honor and glory of God, our maker and redeemer.

"The Christianity of Christ is full of the love of Christ and the golden rule of 'Do unto men as ye would that men do unto you.' It teaches us to love all men and not to return evil to any man. Any system or custom that is in opposition to the mandates of God and the teachings of Christ is a deception and will prove disastrous, ending in destruction and death to all who continue therein.

"We tell to the world that we believe in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Do we demonstrate this principle without favoritism and partiality among those whom we meet day by day along the pathway of life?

"You meet hundreds, perhaps thousands, of men, women and children who are tramping over this land begging bread, while moving along in search of employment. Do we pause to listen to their cries for shelter, food and clothing?

"Poor homeless wretches! They are not all responsible for their suffering condition. Scores of them can point back to a record crowded with pride, self respect and honest toil. Their ambition is above telling their tale of woe. All they ask is work, that they may independently secure a place of shelter, clothing and bread to quench the pangs and horrors of starvation. Such unfortunate souls have a claim upon the sympathies and love of every man and woman who has taken the name of Him who sighed for the afflicted, wept for the dead, pitied and blessed the Publicans and Harlots."

THE MISTAKES OF MOSES.

Dr. Boyer of Chicago Preaches at the Central Church.

Dr. Thomas Boyer of Chicago began the third week of his evangelistic services at the Central Christian Church (Hamilton Hall) last evening, preaching to a packed house. His sermon was entitled "The Mistakes of Moses" and was listened to with undivided attention by the large audience present, which included many of Oakland's representative citizens.

Dr. Boyer is one of the most brainy and at the same time most modest of men, and to hear him once is to desire to listen to him again. He will preach tonight upon "The Fall and Restoration of Man," using a chart. The interest in these meetings is steadily increasing and a large ingathering will be the result; twenty-five already having joined the church; six persons came forward yesterday.

THE WHITE FLAG IS FLYING.

Edhem Pasha Said to Have Sent a Flag of Truce Suggesting an Armistice for Five Days.

THE TURKS ARE SATISFIED

EVIDENCES OF THE END

King George's Troops Said to Be Abandoning Pharsalos.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LONDON, May 3.—Adispatch from Athens announces that Edhem Pasha has sent an officer with a flag of truce to Greek headquarters asking an armistice of five days. Another dispatch says it is again reported that 200 Bulgarian irregulars have crossed the frontier of Macedonia.

NEARING THE END.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 3.—In influential Turkish circles the opinion is expressed that the war with Greece will soon terminate.

It is pointed out that while Turkey was forced into war by Greek aggression and the counsels of certain Powers, she will not gain any advantage by crushing Greece for the benefit of the Slav element in the Balkans. It is held that the successes attained by the Turkish troops in Greece are all the Turkish Government could desire.

It is officially reiterated that the reports of Turkish reverses at Velestino are unfounded.

The Landsturm or Mustahfuse (second reserve) belonging to the third army corps stationed in the Salonica district has been called out.

THE FEELING AT ATHENS.

ATHENS, May 3.—The diplomatic situation may be summed up as follows.

No request for mediation has been or will be addressed by Greece to the Powers until the Ministers of War and Marine report upon the state of the Greek officers at Pharsalos and elsewhere. The Powers have not offered mediation, although they do not conceal the fact that a request for intervention will be highly acceptable to them.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Skouloudis says the military situation is greatly improved at both Epirus and Thessaly and that the victory of the Greeks over the Turks at Velestino was brilliant.

ADMIRALS ARE ACTING.

CANDIA, CRETE, May 3.—The Admirals commanding the fleet of the foreign Powers in Cretan waters had a conference yesterday with the Insurgent leaders at Palerkastro.

The Cretans were promised complete autonomy, including a condition that the nomination of their ruler should be subject to ratification by the Cretan Assembly.

Insurgent leaders, however, cut the discussion short and reiterated that their motto remained, "Annexation to Greece or death."

FIGURING ON GOING.

CANEA, Crete, May 3.—There are renewed reports here today that the Greek troops are about to withdraw from Crete.

LEAVING PHARSALOS.

PARIS, May 3.—Telegrams from Constantinople today confirm the reports that the Greeks are leaving Pharsalos retiring on Domokos. The Greek troops according to Constantinope advices are also evacuating Arta.

An Athens dispatch to the Figaro asserts that King George is suffering from a cardiacal strain and his physician insists on a change of air to the Island of Milo or Syria is necessary.

DR. SMALL RESIGNS.

Another Complication Occurs in the Board of Health.

It was expected that a meeting of the Board of Health would be held this afternoon, but Dr. Rucker was out of town and the members could not be notified. Interested persons were around the Health Office all day but none of the members of the Board showed up.

To complicate matters still further, Dr. Small last night sent in his resignation to the Mayor.

A rumor is current that the doctor and the Mayor had a stormy interview just before the resignation was sent. The resignation was sent through the mails.

There will probably be another fight in appointing Dr. Small's successor.

To finally settle the question as to the legality of the meeting held Saturday, Secretary Schafer secured the opinion of City Attorney Dow to the effect that the meeting was illegal.

If Dr. Rucker returns this evening there will be a meeting then. Otherwise it will have to be postponed till tomorrow.

A BANK CLOSES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, May 3.—A special to the Times from Aspen, Colorado, says: The banking house of the J. B. Wheeler Banking Company failed to open today.

The following notice was posted: "This bank is closed and in my possession. W. L. McNair, assignee for the benefit of creditors."

Up to 1 o'clock no statement of the assets or liabilities could be obtained.

The company's bank at Manitou also closed today.

SHE ASKS FOR ALIMONY.

Louella Partenscky's Case Up Before Judge Greene.

The Husband Says He Is Too Poor to Pay for Her Support.

The suit of Lowella Clark Partenscky against Charles Partenscky, for a divorce, came up before Judge Greene this morning on a motion for alimony.

The couple were married on November 26, 1896, and lived together for just a month, when the wife suddenly became insane and was committed to Agnews Asylum. She remained there four weeks, when she was discharged as cured. However, on her return, she found no home, and the wife went to live with her sister.

Partenscky declared he was not able to support his wife. He works for Senator Eli Denison at the pier.

The history of the family was pretty extensively gone into, and it developed that Partenscky has to contribute to the support of his mother out of his small salary.

The hearing was continued until the end of the month, when it will be further ascertained whether the husband can afford the wife alimony.

Attorney W. H. Schooler, who represented the wife, objected to Judge Greene questioning a witness and suggested to the court that he (the attorney) had better put the queries, as he said he could bring the desired information out more quickly. Judge Greene administered a mild rebuke to the lawyer and later had occasion to warn him against asking leading questions.

FRACTURED HIS HIP.

Fireman Secotte Is Injured in a West Oakland Blaze.

Shortly before noon-time a fire broke out at the home of F. A. McDonald, 1668 Williams street. The damage done was but slight, a portion of the roof only being burned. The conflagration was due to the sparks from a neighboring chimney.

Roger J. Secotte, a member of Engine Company No. 3 received a painful but not serious injury in attempting to reach the roof. Secotte slipped and fell about twenty feet to the ground, receiving a fracture of the hip.

A Pleasure Trip on the Lake That Had a Fatal Termination.

This afternoon the remains of two promising little boys, Emil Nusbaumer Jr. and Edward Tubbs Hall, were laid in early graves in Mountain View, leaving a void in the homes of two leading families of the city.

The boys were the victims of drowning in Lake Merritt last Saturday evening, the sad news of which has caused a feeling of wide-spread sympathy for the bereaved parents.

Young Hall was the son of Edward M. Hall, secretary of the Amador Marble Company, a nephew of Justice Henshaw of the Supreme Court of this State and W. G. Henshaw, vice-president of the Union Savings Bank, and a grandson of Hiram Tubbs, the well-known capitalist of East Oakland.

Young Nusbaumer was the son of Emil Nusbaumer, ex-Justice of the Peace, known all over the State as a successful practitioner in the legal profession and a member of the well known law firm of Reed & Nusbaumer.

Both the boys were schoolmates, each attending the Franklin school.

Their bodies disappeared beneath the surface of the lake about 4 o'clock and, in a few minutes, the awful story of their death was in circulation throughout the city.

Toward evening, it was apparent that the unfortunate lads were Masters Nusbaumer and Hall, and, as a consequence, a number of people flocked to the scene and speculated as to where the bodies of the boys had disappeared.

Residents in the neighborhood who had first heard of the unfortunate occurrence, jumped into boats, and put out into the lake with a hope of recovering the remains. They worked unavailingly, however, from evening until 11:30 o'clock at night, using heavy lines with hooks attached, grappling irons and even garden rakes. There were, at times, a dozen boats engaged in the attempt to recover the remains, but at the hour mentioned, owing to the lack of light, adequate means of grappling with the hidden corpses, the search was abandoned until yesterday morning, with the understanding that at early hour, dynamite would be used for the purpose of trying to force the bodies to the surface. At the same time the draining of the lake was begun under the direction of Superintendent of Streets Miller.

The determination to use dynamite was later set aside, but at an early hour yesterday morning, the search for the remains was resumed, and continued unremittingly until the unfortunate little boys were taken from their watery grave.

The bodies were found north off Eighteenth street and about an eighth of a mile from the eastern shore of the lake. The remains of young Nusbaumer were first brought to the surface. They were discovered by Winfield Birmingham, a young classmate of the poor boy. Birmingham was in a boat with Louis Price and Thomas Deasy, whose residence commands a view of the lake, and is the nearest to the scene of the unfortunate accident.

Birmingham was dragging the bottom of the lake with a large rake, and succeeded in getting a fair hold of the remains with the implement, and bringing them to the surface.

As soon as the body of Nusbaumer appeared, the people who were working in the other boats drew near to the place of the find, knowing that it must be in that locality that the remains of young Hall would be found.

Down went the rakes, hooks and grappling irons from all the boats and, in a few minutes, County Clerk Frank Jordan succeeded in catching the remains of young Hall and bringing them to the surface. At the time of the discovery, Mr. Jordan was accompanied in his boat by A. A. Moore Jr.

The recovery of the two bodies brought the search to an end shortly after 5 o'clock in the morning, and the work had been undertaken nearly an hour before that time.

The remains were then tenderly borne to the Kendall boat house, where already a number of distinguished friends of the bereaved families had gathered. Among them were Judge Henshaw, W. G. Henshaw, uncles of Eddie Hall and County Surveyor Geo. Nusbaumer an uncle of the other victim.

The bodies were then placed in receptacles and borne to undertaker establishments, the body of young Nusbaumer to the place of Henry Evers on Washington street and that of Hall going to Brown.

There they were given ablutions and clothed in a neat manner and were then taken to the homes of their parents respectively, the home of Hall being at the corner of Fifth avenue and East Fifteenth street and that of Nus-

CLARKE ON THE STAND

Senator Fair's Valet Subjected to Lively Cross Firing.

THE CRAVEN CASE GOES ON

Captain Blethen, Well Known in Maritime Circles, Is Dead.

THE DAY ON THE COAST

Los Angeles Suffers From a Very Lively Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—The testimony against the authenticity of the so-called Craven deeds was resumed before Judge Slack and his advisory jury this morning, after a rest of three days.

When court rose at the time stated Herbert Clarke, the faithful valet of Senator Fair was on the stand and was being subjected to a cannonade from the explosive Mr. Foote. A wondrous deal of stress was laid upon the fact that there had been six months of Clarke's career, during which he had not waited upon Senator Fair, despite the fact that the Senator was living. But it amounted to little; the cross examination did not alter the story which he told in direct examination, a repetition of his narrative during the preliminary examination of ex-Notary Cooney before Judge Carroll Cook a few weeks ago.

This morning Mr. Foote resumed his attack upon Herbert Clarke. The ranks of the defense were swelled by the presence of Colonel S. M. Shortridge, who put in the time pending the resumption of his defense of Editor Fred Marriott in the afternoon. Mrs. Craven and her pretty daughter were present, of course, and the old familiar faces were noticeable in the courtroom. Judge Slack was fortunate enough to secure the use of the assembly chamber of the Board of Supervisors; consequently, everybody was cool and comfortable.

Mr. Foote was desirous of extracting from the witness Clarke this morning the admission that since Senator Fair's death he had been in the employ of the heirs and administrators. Clarke was willing enough to admit that fact. Mr. Foote appeared to be driving at the conclusion that as Clarke was in the heirs' employ he should have informed them that the pencil will, which they had offered for probate, could not possibly be genuine, since he had been in the Senator's company at San Rafael on September 24th, 1894, the day on which Fair is alleged to have executed the document and at the same time to have transferred to Mrs. Craven the property she now claims.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—An inquest was held today in the case of Mrs. Mary Loring, who died under circumstances that led to the arrest of her husband, Robert Loring.

The woman had made an ante-mortem statement that her fatal injuries were caused by a beating inflicted by her husband, who desired to kill her unborn child.

The jury today returned a verdict in accordance with these facts.

THE SENATE.

A Lot of Important Business Accumulates on the Files.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—After a recess covering practically ten days, the Senate met today with a large accumulation of routine business, and several important questions, including the Morgan Cuban resolution, awaiting attention.

The attendance was unusually large.

Among the bills introduced was one by Chandler of New Hampshire for the issue of certificates of indebtedness up to $50,000,000 to meet deficiencies in the revenues. Referred to Finance Committee.

A resolution by Pettus of Alabama was agreed to, asking the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to the amounts paid as drawbacks during the last ten years.

Vest's resolution directing the Committee on Commerce to investigate and report on the causes of the Mississippi floods was favorably reported from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, Gallinger of New Hampshire stating that it would be called up tomorrow.

The Cuban resolution was called up by Morgan, who asked for a vote.

Hale of Maine, just returned after an extended absence, desired time to prepare his remarks. He assured Morgan that there was no purpose to delay the resolution for the mere sake of delay. After proper debate, he said, it would be voted on, as he was as anxious as any one to have the resolution disposed of.

Morgan endeavored to have a day fixed for the vote, but there was objection.

The Senate considered the arbitration treaty in executive session.

Later, in open session, Tillman of South Carolina and Morgan of Alabama had a spirited debate. Tillman declared the proposition by Morgan to give public land to States was a plan to "gobble" public domain.

Morgan warmly resented the statement, saying he was not amenable to the rules applying to gobblers.

Tillman also referred to stealing lands of one State for the use of another.

Morgan protested against the words "gobbling" and stealing," and said it was

HILL TO BE BAPTIZED.

The Ceremony Will Be in the Jail Tomorrow Afternoon.

DR. KUMMER TO OFFICIATE

Total Immersion Was Desired but Accommodations Are Lacking.

THE MURDERER IS GRIEVED

He Is No Longer Allowed to Use a Razor on His Face.

Wife Murderer Benjamin Hill, who is now in the County Jail awaiting the date when on the gallows he will expiate his brutal crime, will be baptized into the Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. Alfred Kummer will perform the ceremony, and a number of the ladies of the church will be present, toegther with the prisoners. It is probable that the baptism will be of the sprinkling order, for, though the prisoner would desire to be immersed, still the jail is not supplied with the latest improvements in the nature of a baptismal. The jailers stand ready to allow the use of an ordinary bath tub for the purpose, but this will hardly answer, for Hill has grown very stout since his confinement.

A. B. Deming, one of the murderer's former spiritual advisers, has urged him to be immersed in accordance with the full letter of the Scripture, but as the Methodist faith allows either mode, the sprinkling is the most convenient just at present.

Of late, Hill has apparently been devoutly religious. His keepers believe him sincere, for he continually preaches the gospel to the prisoners, while his letters to friends are replete with Scriptural admonitions.

Yesterday a number of ladies visited Hill and C. R. Bennett. They held a prayer service throughout the best part of the day, and at its conclusion Hill was urged to be baptized. This he consented to. The Sheriff was asked whether he would allow the ceremony, and acquiesced, providing a satisfactory clergyman did the work.

Dr. Kummer was agreed upon, and today the reverend gentleman called at the jail. He had a long talk with the murderer, and evidently a satisfactory one, for the details of the service were arranged.

The prisoner still maintains indifference as to his fate. He says he does not care whether he is hung or not, but says he would prefer to have a life sentence, solely so that he may work among the convicts.

In speaking of his recent religious desires, he said: "The reason I am to be baptized is because I believe the Lord desires it. He has so stated in the Word, and as I am a Christian I intend to obey the command. If the Lord wills, I am ready to be hanged at any time, but if not, I shall devote my life to trying to save the souls of the unfortunates in the prisons."

The remittatur from the Supreme Court, which refused to grant the condemned man a new trial, has not yet been received by Judge Ogden. It is expected daily, and as soon as it arrives the date of execution will be set.

As it appears certain that Hill will hang, a closer watch is being kept over him at the County Jail. He has heretofore been allowed the use of a razor with which to shave himself. This privilege has now been denied.

Saturday was shaving day at the jail, and for the first time a razor was refused him, because it might prove a dangerous tool in the hands of a determined prisoned over whom the death penalty hangs.

Hill assumed an indignant air and allowed his temper to give vent in some uncomplimentary remarks. Then he lapsed into a moody state. This is the first real evidence the man has received that his days are numbered. It was a small matter, but it affected him considerably.

As a consequence, Hill will allow his beard to grow, for he will not have any one else shave him.

Attorney Bradley is still trying to do something in his behalf, and as soon as the date of execution is fixed he will apply to the Governor for a commutation of sentence. Meantime some of the religious ladies are circulating a petition in the murderer's behalf.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.

Fred Kohler, who is known to the police as a member of the "Sporting Life Gang," was found guilty today of disturbing the peace by fighting with a lot of negroes several weeks ago, and ordered to appear tomorrow for sentence.

Josie Harper, charged with selling liquor without a license, will be tried tomorrow, and Fred Fonzo, charged with selling liquor after 12 o'clock will plead.

Joe Gray, charged with battery by George M. Smith, will be tried tomorrow.

MUCH PUBLIC SPIRIT SHOWN

The Tunnel Route Satisfactory to Our Sister County.

MARTINEZ, May 3.—A joint committee of the Board of Trade comprising Joseph E. Johnston, Edson Adams, E. E. Bunce and members of the Merchants' Exchange comprising D. C. Brown, J. S. Wixson, G. S. Reed, J. F. W. Sohst, F. M. Farwell and Judge Pringle of Oakland arrived here today and held a conference with the Supervisors of Contra Costa County regarding the completion of the tunnel road between Contra Costa and Alameda County.

All the gentlemen mentioned spoke on the subject, showing that the road in question would jointly result as a benefit to this county and Alameda County.

The full Board of Supervisors were present as were also many of the leading citizens of Martinez.

In behalf of this side speeches were made by ex-Supervisor Stowe, Vincent Hook, Charles Swett and Peter Thompson. All these favored the immediate completion of the road.

The strongest speech was that of Hook who stated in effect that Oakland was the city to which Martinez was tributary.

"It is our city," he said, "the city that we must stand by. We must not see it throttled. San Francisco on the other side of the bay is doing her best to divert trade from Oakland and when she does that she injures us. This road should be built to Oakland. I was born here 42 years ago. For thirty-nine years we have been talking of building the road, now let us build it and the people will give every assistance."

The chairman stated that a majority of the board was in favor of the project and announced that during the recess a conference would be held as to the best means of raising money with which to perform Contra Costa County's share of the work.

SOME INTERESTING BALLOTS.

THE TUNNEL PROJECT UP.

Much Work of Importance Comes Before the Supervisors.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors this morning, R. W. Snow presented the resolutions which were adopted at the joint meeting of the Merchants' Exchange and Board of Trade last week.

The resolutions adopted at the meeting of the joint committee which were published at the time in these columns were read in full. They were signed by the following gentlemen as representative of the organization named:

Oakland Board of Trade—R. W. Snow, J. C. Gilson, Lyman Bridges, M. J. Laymance, J. A. C. Macdonald.

Oakland Merchants' Exchange—Theodore Gier, H. D. Cushing, Geo. L. Fish, Frederick Sinclair, R. J. Boyer.

City of Alameda—Trustees J. F. Forderer, J. G. Erick, S. V. Clark, W. F. Schutte, F. J. Fletter, Messrs. W. R. Poyzer, V. M. Frodden, E. A. Von Schmidt, Benjamin F. Lamborn.

The sub-committee to present the resolutions consisted of Jos. F. Forderer, Lyman Bridges, W. R. Poyser, V. M. Frodden, J. H. C. Macdonald, Theo. Gier, Craigie Sharp and R. W. Snow.

Mr. Snow made a short speech before reading the resolutions.

"The gentlemen present," said Mr. Snow, "are a committee of citizens of the cities of Oakland and Alameda in the matter of the crossings of the estuary or harbor between the two cities. We are informed that the matter of bridges across the estuary which is being considered by your honorable body will not be taken up at this session, and we shall therefore interrupt your regular business only to present some resolutions and ask you to appoint a committee—of the whole if you prefer—to meet the present organized committee of the citizens interested in this matter which is of so much importance to the cities of Oakland and Alameda."

Craigie Sharp also addressed the Board. "The committee realizes it will cost more money to build a tunnel than a bridge but the money will be spent at home," said he, "while if a bridge is built, it is built elsewhere and merely put together here and the county has no advantages from the money spent. It is an advantage to the county to keep the money at home. The building of a tunnell will be an advertisement of this county and city. It will show enterprise and energy on the part of the residents. We will then have all the advantages of San Francisco with none of its disadvantages."

"But we Supervisors haven't the power to do this," declared Supervisor Wells. "The law says that we shall build a bridge; it doesn't say a word about building tunnels. I don't believe we have the power to build a tunnel and this is all a waste of time."

"All we ask of you now," said Mr. Poyser, "is that a committee be appointed to meet with us and discuss the matter. I feel sure that we can then come to a satisfactory conclusion and answer all objections that may be raised. We ask you to delay action until you meet with us.

Supervisor Mitchell then introduced a motion naming Wednesday evening at 8 P. M. for the Committee of the Whole to meet with the Special Committee to discuss the matter, the committee to meet in the room of the Board of Supervisors. The motion was adopted by a unanimous vote.

The Printing Committee refused to recommend the printing 10,000 copies of the new primary law for circulation throughout the county at the present time and recommended that the matter be laid over. The report of the committe was adopted by a unanimous vote.

The Printing Committe reported favorably on the purchase of eight San Francisco directories for the use of county officials. Their report was adopted.

Dr. R. T. Stratton of the Receiving Hospital asked that a number of drugs be supplied for use in the institution. Referred to committee.

A petition was received, signed by thirty-nine residents of Alviso School District, asking that a new road district be formed having the same boundarels as the school district, and the newly formed district to be known as the Alviso Road District.

Shortly before adjournment, Supervisor Roeth introduced the following resolution:

Ayes—Supervisors Roeth and Wells.

Noes—Supervisors Church, Mitchell and Talcott.

The Board then adjourned until 2 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Board was called to order shortly after 3 o'clock. The bids for constructing the steel bridge between Pleasanton and Livermore, to take the place of the present long trestles, were considered. It is the intention to build a single span, connected with a culvert, while the remainder of the low land will be filled in by dredging from the canal close by.

Owing to the absence of the District Attorney, the awarding of the contract was postponed until later.

THE RECEIVING HOSPITAL.

The fact that the county apparently has no right to allow city patients into the Receiving Hospital next occasioned considerable discussion. It was decided that in view of the recent opinion concerning Alameda's application for a branch hospital, that the District Attorney's opinion be sought as to how this effects Oakland.

THE BRIDGE BIDS.

The bids were next opened. Healey, Tibbits & Company offered to do the work for $3,350; Cotton Brother & Company, $3,790; J. A. McMann, $4,495; Darby, Layton & Company, $5,140; Johnson & Peterson, $3,687.

The last named were the lowest bidders.

PLANS ALMOST COMPLETE.

A conference was held this morning between the parties interested in the removal of the commission houses to the water front and the negotiations were brought to a pivotal point.

In a couple of days the location will be decided upon and the contracts all signed.

"The situation is just this said Mr. Manuel this morning. "We have just had a conference and have fixed everything up excepting the location for our depot. We are not yet decided whether to go to Adam's wharf or the foot of Grove street. This matter will be settled by Wednesday and then we shall get down to business at once."

A DAY OF MOURNING.

ents had experienced since the preceding evening when the first intimation was conveyed to them of the loss they had sustained.

An appreciation of the grief which the bereaved ones felt was evidenced by neighbors who considerately allowed the parents to remain undisturbed with their dead little ones.

At the residence of Judge Nusbaumer, County Surveyor Nusbaumer, the uncle of the little one who lay within, took up a position on the porch and received the calls of those who wished to express sympathy with the family in its loss. There was no outward symbol of the loss which was breaking the hearts within, a wreath of beautiful roses instead of the funeral streamers hanging upon the bell-pull.

At the Hall residence too, the parents mourned almost alone, being condoled with only by a few very near relatives, but the parents would not be comforted. The awful announcement of the catastrophe came with especial force upon Mrs. Hall because it found her physically in an enfeebled condition owing to recent illness.

THE TRAGIC TALE.

The story of the accident has been told and retold many times. Despite this fact, it will bear repetition because sorrowful as it undoubtedly is it was the occasion of the display of heroism and human sympathy worthy of commendation.

Early last Saturday Emil Nusbaumer Jr., Edward Tubbs Hall and Hiram Hall, the last two brothers, proposed to another companion, Robert Victor Oyler to take a boat ride on Lake Merritt. The proposition was accepted. A boat was rented at Kendall's boat house near the Twelfth street dam and in it the four boys put out into the lake rowing up toward the northerly part of the lake until at a point west of Eighteenth street. The water there is shallow and the Hall boys and Nusbaumer decided to go in bathing. They accordingly anchored the boat by tying it to an oar which they put down into the bed of the lake. The three boys then got into the water, Oyler remaining in the boat. After sporting for a while in the water, Nusbaumer seemed suddenly to be in the act of disappearing. He had reached the edge of a hole in the bottom and was falling into it when he called to Eddie Hall who was nearest to him for assistance. The cry was responded to by Eddie only to find out that he too was in danger. Hiram, the elder Hall, started to the relief of both. He was able to do very little because the task of rescuing both was too heavy for him and there was danger that all three would eventually go down together. Young Oyler who was in the boat, displayed great presence of mind. He cast off the line which had anchored the boat to the oar, pulled the oar out of the slime and hastily rowed the boat to the spot where his companions were in danger. By this time Nusbaumer and Eddie Hall has disappeared beneath the surface and Hiram Hall was sinking also when Oyler caught him by the arms. He pulled with all his strength at the drowning lad and in so doing the boat leaned over to one side until it almost shipped water and enabled Hiram to lean over the gunwhale. The boat then took a lurch in a strong wind from the west and Hiram rolled into the bottom and was saved. As soon as he reached safety the boy fainted. When he revived Oyler helped him to put on his clothes, and then rowed the boat toward the boulevard at a point off Eighteenth street. The first person the boys met was Thomas Deasy Jr. Hall told him to telephone to his (Hall's) father at the Amador marble works of the accident and then fell in a faint on the boulevard. The following was noticed by Mrs. Thomas Deasy, mother of young Deasy, from her residence, and just as she was about to go to afford Hiram some relief, the boy revived.

Then young Deasy, John Williams, another boy and several others got boats and grappling irons and hooks and sought to recover the bodies while Oyler and Hiram went to their respective homes. Hall did not tell his mother of the occurrence for some time, going first to the home of his uncle, Hiram Tubbs, who is lying dangerously ill. He was not, however, allowed to see his relative an intimation of the misfortune would have a serious effect upon the patient.

Young Oyler too was overcome.

Hiram Hall was delirious at one time and serious consequences were feared. At last accounts, however, he was bearing up under the great mental strain in a satisfactory manner.

The news of the accident spread with rapidity and, from all directions came friends and acquaintances of the bereaved parents and at one time a dozen rescuing parties were patrolling the lake. These worked unremittingly until 11:30 o'clock Saturday night, when the search was discontinued to be resumed yesterday morning at 4:45, when after three quarters of an hour's work the remains were recovered.

The devotion shown in this respect was remarkable and was an evidence of goodness of heart and an appreciation of the high standing of the bereaved ones in the community. Among those whose sympathy was displayed in various ways were Judge Henshaw, W. G. Henshaw, Victor Metcalf, Edward Noblett, Fred Sinclair, John Williams, Thomas Deasy Sr., J. Doyle, Hugh Munson, William Glover, E. Kendall, County Clerk Frank Jordan, A. A. Moore Jr., Winfield Birmingham, Louis Price, Howard Rees, J. Cal Ewing and many others.

The casket was completely hidden beneath flowers. A pillow of lilies and roses, with "Our Boy" woven in pale purple blossoms was placed at the foot of the coffin by the broken-hearted mother. From his young classmates in the Franklin school, came a beautiful floral piece. "Our Classmate" was woven in purple immortals against a background of white and pink roses.

An anchor of lilies and lavender sweet peas was the token of Mrs. Pauline Nusbaumer's grief.

From Mr. and Mrs. Welles Whitmore came a heart of white sweet peas and maiden hair fern.

From the Justice Court of Oakland township came a loose cluster of La France roses. Loose clusters of flowers, small baskets and bouquets came from many more and were placed around the coffin. The gift of one little classmate was a lily surrounded by ferns, and this was placed on the casket.

The services were most simple and their very simplicity made the scene more impressive and touching. There were few whose eyes were not wet with tears as the minister, the Rev. Charles H. Hobart, told of the tragic and sudden death of the lad and his playmate. He read a few comforting words from the Scriptures, and the Temple Quartette, composed of Messrs. Melvin, Bangs, Carlton and Wilkie, sang.

At the conclusion of the services friends were permitted to gaze upon the dead for the last time before the casket was closed forever.

The pall bearers who bore the remains to the hearse were A. A. Moore Jr., G. E. Jackson, N. A. Griffin and H. N. North.

AT THE HALL'S.

The funeral cortege moved from the Nusbaumer home to the Hall residence, two blocks away, where another little victim of the unfortunate accident lay. Another white casket embowered in flowers held the remains of Eddie Hall.

Prior to the service and while his home was still, silent and empty, save for mourners, Eddie Hall's class in the Franklin School came and looked on their dead playmate lying still and white in his coffin. The scene was a pathetic one. The class was headed by the teacher and many of the boys forgot their resolution to be brave and broke down and wept at the sight of their dead comrade.

The boyish face was half hidden by the nodding lilies that surrounded the coffin. A heavy pall of St. Joseph lilies covered the casket and fell to the floor. Roses, the gifts of others, were laid against this white background. Early spring blossoms were placed here and there. A place of honor was given to the wreath sent by his classmates, a wreath of red carnations and lilies of the valley twined with smilax.

From Mr. and Mrs. Will Henshaw came exquisite Easter lilies, from Miss Grimes roses, from Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood loose clusters of roses.

Many and numerous were the floral offerings sent by friends and relatives.

It was shortly after 2:30 P. M. when the funeral cortege from the Nusbaumer home entered the residence of E. M. Hall, where the Rev. Chas. W. Wendte, D. D., conducted the services. The same simplicity that had been the noticeable feature of the earlier services marked the obsequies at this home. His former playmates clustered in the doorway and listened with awed faces to the words of the minister. It was an indescribably pathetic scene, and more than one man noted for his firmness in the ordinary events of life showed visible signs of emotion now.

After Dr. Wendte had given a last prayer that strength might be given the bereaved to bear their loss, and the music had died away, the schoolmates of the dead lad bore the remains to the hearse. The young boys, who thus acted as pall bearers were Robert Jordan, Howard Metcalf, John Goodman, Shirley Houghton, Victor Metcalf and Robert Weller.

The two caskets were taken to Mountain View Cemetery, where they will be placed in a vault for the present.

Among those who paid a tribute of respect and sympathy to the bereaved and love to the dead by their presence were: Judge and Mrs. Ogden, Judge and Mrs. William Hall, Judge Yule, Miss Grimes, Everett Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Will Henshaw, E. W. Henshaw, Fred Cliff, H. North, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leckie, Mr. and Mrs. Welles Whitmore, Chas. Gould, George W. Reed, Tyler Henshaw, D. E. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schweer, Will Ayer, Frank C. Jordan, Judge Noble Hamilton, David Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Merritt, ex-Governor Machin, Mayor W. R. Thomas, W. J. Keating, T. J. Landrey, R. W. Church, Ed Weidler, H. A. Melvin, W. W. Foote, R. M. Fitzgerald, Walter Mathews, F. E. Whitney, T. T. Dargie, Max Marcuse, Mrs. E. Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Curtiss, J. J. Hanifin, Dr. and Mrs. Kelly, Miss Carmen Moore, Thomas Deasy, Judge and Mrs. Ellsworth, Thomas Garrity, Judge Frick, Mr. and Mrs. George Nusbaumer, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, George Tyrrell.

Two little white coffins in two homes were surrounded by sorrowing friends today. The occupants of the coffins were lying with hands softly folded as if asleep, the bloom of youth still mantling their cheeks.

TO HAVE A BLUE BOOK

MUCH TROUBLE IS IN STORE.

Those Who Are Black-Listed Will Want to Know Why?

Colored society is greatly disturbed over the report that the "upper classes" of the race can find nothing more intellectual with which to become famous, than a cake walk—relic of slavery times.

The leaders of society, who justly claim that the cake walkers are not representative of their race, have decided to prepare and issue a blue book and in a short time a committee will be appointed to scrutinize the list. This committee will have a hard task and its identity will need to be closely guarded, for "colored society" which is not society is apt to be very touchy on matters of etiquette.

In the new blue book no one will be admitted who is in any way identified with "De New Bully," or "A New Coon" or "My Angeline" and indeed there is no reason why they should be. There are in this city some highly intelligent and well-educated professional people. These include the Morrisses, the Winslows, the Washingtons, the Delaneys, the Wilsons, the Powells, the Edwards, the Summers, the Williams, the Stewarts and many more.

These wish it to be distinctly understood that they are not in any way connected with the cake walking crowd. The Mill Johnsons and the Waters and the colored advertising fraternity are declared to be ostracized and anybody who would participate in a cake walk will certainly not be honored by a place in the blue book.

There will be a meeting called privately, at an early date at the home of some recognized social leader and the initial step will be taken to draw proper lines in colored society.

This matter has been precipitated by the action of one Potts, who tried recently to take advantage of the new civil rights bill and whose action is scorned by the best element of local colored society.

THE HOUSE.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—In the House today, Joseph B. Showalter, recently elected to represent the Twenty-fifth Pennsylvania District to fill the place of J. J. Davidson, deceased, took the oath of office.

Bailey of Texas presented a resolution that the Nelson bankruptcy bill, recently passed by the Senate, be taken up by the House Monday, May 10th, and considered until disposed of.

Brewster(Republican) of New York objected.

Simpson of Kansas rose to a question of personal privilege, and sent to the clerk's desk to be head an extract from the New York Mail and Express accusing him of being an obstructionist and predicting he would be p[illegible]erized under the Speaker's trip-hammer.

A resolution instructing the Speaker to appoint the committees of the House was voted down, 58 to 123.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Senator Allison, chairman of the Republican committee which is preparing a tariff bill for the Senate, had a conference today with the Democratic members of the Finance Committee and arranged a programme for getting the bill into the Senate.

According to the agreement the bill will be reported to the full committee tomorrow if the Republicans find they desire to hold it no longer, and will then be passed on to the Senate as soon as the Republicans make it manifest that they have a majority favorable to its being reported.

Allison renewed his effort to secure consent to having the bill reported after tomorrow's meeting without conditions, but the Democrats would only agree not to insist upon holding the bill in committee for detailed inspection after the Republicans had shown they have a clear majority.

SPANISH SET-BACKS.

A GARRISON DRIVEN OUT.

By Associated Press to The Tribune

NEW YORK, May 3—A special to the Press from Key West Fla., says

Havana advices show that the insurgents are active in that province. Tapasta was attacked last week by a force of 400 insurgents and held for an entire day The Spanish garrison in one block house retired completely, while the other held their ground and did not fire at the insurgents or disturb them in any way.

The Cubans took possession of the vacated block house, looting it of all the arms and provisions they could find, and then set it on fire The other block house with a garrison of 300 troops in and around it kept quiet, no offensive operations being attempted by the Spanish officer in command The Cubans camped out within half a mile of the Spanish force and plundered the stores of the town without any opposition.

La Heiba was attacked by a force from Rodriguez's force the first of the week, and the Spanish garrison driven out There is a small earth fort there and two block houses The Cubans attacked the earthworks early in the morning and carried them by a dashing charge the Spanish retreating into their block houses at the other end of town One of these was attacked by the Cubans and three bombs exploded underneath its walls, shattering it badly and killing several of its inmates

The Spanish surrendered and were paroled by the Cubans Some firing took place between the insurgents and the other two block houses, but no attack was made on them, the Cubans seemingly being content with the victories they had gained They entered the stores, took what they pleased and loaded their plunder in ox teams in plain view of the Spanish force. The Spanish loss is said to have been about seventy-five killed and wounded

Word reached the palace yesterday that a garrison of 200 men at a small town in the southwestern portion of the province deserted to the insurgents last week, carrying all their arms and ammunition and a field piece.

MUTINOUS SOLDIERS.

NEW YORK, May 3—A dispatch to the Journal from Havana says

Two insurgent captains Rafael Mendoza Socarros and Ricardo Varrena Valdes, who voluntarily surrendered a fortnight ago in Pinar del Rio and were liberated under Captain-General Weyler's amnesty decree, have been arrested They are to be deported in irons to Ceuta for indefinite confinement

Advices from Sancti Spiritus report that the Spanish volunteers in the garrisons there are becoming mutinous, owing to the Government's failure to provide adequate commissary supplies From thirty to forty are deserting daily.

MORE TAXES.

MUCH OPPOSITION EXPECTED.

An Additional Revenue of $17,000,000 Would Result.

CHANGES IN THE COMMITTEE.

The Republicans Finishing Work on the Measure.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, May 3—A special to the Tribune from Washington says

An additional tax of 50 cents a barrel on beer was voted into the Senate tariff bill last night by the Republican sub-committee Whether the item will stay until the bill gets into the Senate is not altogether certain

Senators Aldrich, Allison and Wolcott prepared for an all night session in the hope of getting the measure to report to the Finance Committee, but along toward midnight they declared they could not hope to make a report before Tuesday. Meanwhile they voted upon the beer tax.

The present rate of $1 a barrel and the additional 50 cents will bring the Treasury about $17,000,000 annually on the present rate of consumption This increase in revenue will not entail a dollar of additional expense for collection. The beer tax is now a part of the bill.

Lower rates on lumber and wool are there also as well as a tariff on hides and a reduction of the internal revenue tax on spirits. The sugar schedule is substantially the same as that in the Dingley bill so far as results are concerned, but will make changes in phraseology and in the relative taxation of low grade and off color sugars

Judging from the amount of work ahead of them last night, the committee will be lucky if they report the bill next Tuesday

The Treasury figures for the month just ended confirm Chairman Dingley's statement that there is likely to be nearly a year's supply of foreign goods in the country when the new tariff bill goes into effect While the retrospective clause, so-called, of the Dingley bill probably prevented some of the new contracts which would have been made, and the new orders which would have been given, it did not reduce the amount of goods brought in during April, as compared with the preceding month.

That clause of the bill provided that the new rates of duty should apply upon all goods coming in after April 1st which had been purchased prior to that date.

This, of course, permitted all goods contracted for ordered prior to April 1st to come in under the Wilson law rates, and also left it largely in the hands of the importers to indicate by their own statements whether goods coming in after April 1st had been purchased or ordered prior to that date Some of the importers have also clung to the belief that this feature of the bill would fail to pass the Senate, especially in view of recent publications so indicating, while still others have chosen to take the risks upon being required to pay the extra duty in case this feature of the bill should become a law.

The result of these conditions is that the total importations of foreign goods have jumped from $50 000 000 in August, 1896 to $80,000 000 last month. The most notable increase has come from non-dutiable articles which importers know will soon have to pay duty. The importations of this class of goods have jumped from $21,000,000 in August, 1896, to about $45,000,000 in April, 1897

QUICK FIRING GUNS.

Germany Anxious to Equip Her Troops With Better Arms.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK May 3—A dispatch to the Journal from Berlin says

When the Minister of War a few months ago demanded an appropriation of several hundred millions of marks for new quick firing guns, giving as reasons that France was armed in a similar manner, the question was debated in the press whether in view of the large deficiency the amount asked for could be granted.

Now it becomes apparent that a short time ago several regiments of field artillery were provided secretly with the new quick firing guns For instance, the sixth regiment of artillery is using the new guns.

The University Scholarships Being Sought as Rich Prizes.

BERKELEY, May 3—The basket ball teams of Miss Head's School in Berkeley, and of Miss West's School in San Francisco, played a match game in Harmon Gymnasium Saturday afternoon, which resulted in a victory for the visitors on a foul, by a score of 3 to 2 Professor Magee acted as time-keeper, and was the only gentleman present. During the game, Miss Edna Burke of Berkeley received a severe blow on the nose, but no serious injury resulted.

For the first time during the six years in which they have been playing, Berkeley has won the baseball championship from Stanford. The score Saturday was 20 to 10 in California's favor The game was their's from the first inning. Beckett, Stanford's pitcher, was forced out of the box and Ruddell substituted, but the Blue and Gold batsmen soon found him just as easily Kaarsburg's pitching was greatly improved Krug batted two home runs over the Mission street fence.

Walter Magee, '98, and William Mein, '00, the University of California's crack tennis players, were tied in the tournament on Saturday, by Freeman and Pitcher of Stanford Magee won a single, and Mein lost one The doubles were postponed This leaves the score 4 to 3 in Berkeley's favor The next game will be played Friday.

JOHN ELDER.

An Alameda Merchant Wants Oakland Trade.

John Elder the big dry goods man of Alameda and San Francisco proposes to turn the tables on Oakland dry goods men who, he says, have been getting a portion of their trade from Alameda.

He has opened a first-class, fully stocked store on Park street, corner Santa Clara avenue and is selling at prices which would actually make it profitable for Oaklanders to see and buy many of his bargains

Mr Elder has been in the dry goods business for eighteen years and was one of the best known business men in San Francisco where he conducted successfully two large establishments, one in the Mission and the other in Hayes Valley Attention is invited to his ad which is the advance courier of a new deal in the dry goods business of this county

OAKLAND TALENT.

The following item of interest concerning former Oaklanders are contained in a New York letter to a San Francisco paper"

"The work of Miss Grace Fisher in 'The Mysterious Mr. Bugle,' a play now on at the Lyceum Theater, has met with the approval of the critics of New York Two have said they have rarely seen the character of a young girl (for Miss Fisher has an ingenue part) acted with so much naturalness and ease

"The friends of W. A. Reaser will no doubt rejoice to hear that he received the first Hallgarten prize of $300 for a picture entitled 'Mother and Daughter,' at the spring exhibition of painting now on at the National Academy. The pose of the figures is effective and interesting. The mother is looking in a hand glass and the daughter is trying to get a glimpse of herself, too, and is looking over her mother's shoulders into the glass The contrast of the brunette beauty of the mother with the prettiness of the blond child is pleasing The scheme of color is worthy of note

"Miss Belle Miller of Oakland is rapidly gaining recognition here. At the Women's University Club's reception tea, held in the club rooms at 23 West Forty-fourth street on Saturday afternoon, the feature of interest was the playing of Miss Miller."

MONDAY.....MAY 3, 1897.

If the Los Angeles papers have told the truth about their fiesta, Oakland can well do without one.

"Politics and Damnation" is the heading of a three-column article in the Santa Cruz Penny Press. No remedy is proposed.

While shooting craps in Kansas City yesterday they also shot and killed a couple of the players. The police will now take a hand in the game.

The "great victory" by Colonel Smolenski over which the Greeks have been bragging so much dwindles down to the fact that 8,000 Greeks repulsed 2,000 Turks.

Watch our Anglomaniacs and prepare for some startling facial changes. The press reports today solemnly announce that the Prince of Wales has altered the cut of his beard.

We must not laugh at these bloodless French duels any more. Two fiery Chicago men yesterday exchanged revolvers full of blank cartridges and then declared honor satisfied.

We are now hearing of the many coast cities that intend having a "monster Fourth of July celebration." Isn't that word "monster" a little inappropriate for such occasions.

Here is an opportunity to add another chapter to the series of articles on "Is marriage a failure." Riverside County has a record of 337 marriage licenses and fifty-two divorce cases.

From now on see what a roasting the Greek soldiers will get. The dispatches today state that the Greeks in their flight seized the horses of the war correspondents and the newspaper men were compelled to go on foot.

Newspaper reporting at Los Angeles is attended with danger. A reporter has been arrested for stealing a portion of a Grand Jury report. From details received, the impression is gained that his crime consisted in not stealing the whole of it.

The street railways of this city would do an immense business this summer if they would take proper steps to let people know of the many cosy retreats all around Oakland. Yesterday's travel though good comparatively, was small to what it should have been.

It is becoming painfully apparent that the Greek army is mainly composed of cowards. The description of the last rout says: "The troops behaved like a disorderly mob. All discipline was flung to the wind and the soldiers fired even on their own officers."

Kentucky will soon be known as the "scandal State." Having just disposed of her queerly-conducted Senatorial election she is now unearthing a sensation at her penitentiary. It has been discovered that a steal of $17,000 has just been effected there over a lumber contract.

Los Angeles has several good sized public parks. Elysian park, contains 532 acres; East Los Angeles park, 50 acres; Westlake park, 35 acres; Echo park, 33 acres; Hollenbeck park, 20 acres; and Griffith park, something over 3,000 acres, the largest park in the world.

And Oakland has——?

They are very squeamish in the Quaker City. The pastor of one of the leading churches there has just been removed because he declared his intention of preaching a series of sermons on "The Devil in Philadelphia." Had he located his satanic majesty in Boston, Baltimore, or some other rival town the announcement would probably have gone through all right.

Here is an idea for Beatrice Harraden. An enterprising attorney in a breach of promise case in Southern California, succeeded in bringing out the information that a young man kissed his sweetheart ninety-six times in one minute during a single sitting, and during the same period the young lady managed to respond with four, making an even hundred in the space of sixty seconds. He doubted the truth of her statement but backed down when the young lady offered to let the attorney try it on her.

The Alameda Argus clinches much argument with the following: "The estuary of San Antonio and the harbor of Oakland are destined to become the seat of ship-building for San Francisco bay. They are ideally located, and when the Government improvement shall have been completed there will be nothing lacking. These water ways are

OBJECTIONS TO THE TUNNEL.

As was anticipated, the railroad company is raising objections to the proposition to tunnel the estuary instead of bridging it. The officials demur to the project on many grounds and there is no probability that they can be induced to assent to it.

One of the points of objection is that the tunnel would prove detrimental to the interests of the travelers. It is pointed out that instead of Oaklanders having the benefit of two ferry lines as at present they would be confined to the broad guage route, for the subway would cut off all train communication with the narrow guage pier and that line would have to operate solely in the interests of Alameda. Instead of a fifteen minute service across the bay the schedule would have to be a half-hourly one.

From the standpoint of its own interests the railroad also makes some forcible points. It shows that there would be a protest from the bondholders and stock owners of the narrow guage line as by its being deprived of its present proportion of the Oakland traffic its revenues would be considerably reduced. Furthermore the Southern Pacific objects to the loss of income it derives from carrying passengers between Oakland and Alameda, all of which traffic would of course be diverted to the street car lines.

In face of these objections, therefore, it is certain that the railroad company will not consent to any plan but the bridging of the estuary and as its franchise cannot be interfered with, it is certain that the newly hatched plans will have to be abandoned.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

A correspondent of the Contra Costa News writes:

"I left Los Angeles and came north not stopping till I reached Oakland. While there I talked with some of their leading spirits and learned that the people are taking on new life. A valuable and very complete book entitled, "Facts and Figures of Oakland and Alameda County," giving a review of the resources and climate of the county, is now in its third edition, and those that have been sent East have attracted more attention to the county than all the literature previously published. The Board of Supervisors have recently had published 10,000 copies for Eastern circulation. The publishers of that book have spared no labor or expense in their work and have given to the people of Alameda County the most concise, readable and accurate books of the kind ever published in the interests of any county."

It is announced that Rev. Boyer, he of the swallow tail coat and the diamonds, is not making a striking success in his work of saving Oakland souls. The sinful Oaklander refuses to approach Heaven by the swallowtail route. The circumstances might lead to the suspicion that the Nazarene's plan of salvation has not been much improved lately, but one would not wish to give voice to this suspicion for fear it might be considered a reflection on Brother Boyer and his right bower in the clerical game, Brother Edwards Davis.—Fresno Republican.

Under the heading of "Childish" the Alameda Encinal says:

"The Oakland City Council is hard at work throwing pebbles in the pathway of the chariot of progress. The Mayor asked permission to use the Council chamber for the purpose of holding a meeting of a committee of fifty which is in favor of municipal ownership, but the Council churlishly refused. If they thing to stop the progress of the movement by such child's means, they are sadly mistaken. And by the way, these are the people who want to swallow up Berkeley and Alameda and all the other cities and towns adjacent. They will have to shed their barnacles and get a little of Alameda's enterprise before their advances will be considered for a moment.

The appointees of the new Board of Health called at the Health Office for their certificates of appointment this morning, but the Secretary of the old Board, Paul J. Schafer refused to give the documents on the ground that the meeting held Saturday was illegal and that the officers of the old Board were still entitled to their respective offices. The reason for the illegality of the Saturday meeting is that the members of the old Board were not notified of the meeting.

PITTSBURG'S BIG FIRE

Three Million Dollars Worth of Property in Ashes.

INSURANCE IS ABOUT ONE-HALF

THE BLAZE SPREAD QUICKLY.

Efforts to Locate Its Origin Are So Far In Vain.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PITTSBURG, May 3.—The most disastrous fire that has visited Pittsburg since 1845, except during the riots of 1877, destroyed $3,000,000 worth of property last night, and probably resulted in two deaths and the injury of four persons.

The great wholesale grocery establishment of Thomas C. Jenkins and the mammoth retail store of Joseph Horne & Company are total ruins.

There remains of the first only jagged patches of walls, here and there towering into blackened pinacles, and of the latter only a great naked framework, built of structural iron which would not fall, but is stripped of its walls and floors and festooned only with draggling shreds of blackened strips of timber, crinkled pieces of sheet iron and twisted rods and wires.

The burnt section extends from Fifth street to Cecil alley on Pennsylvania avenue and from Cecil alley to Fifth street, on Liberty street, covering several acres.

Killed—Geo. Atkinson, No. 15 engine company.

Missing—Geo. Thompson, No. 15 engine company.

Injured—Elmer Crocko, No. 7 engine company, struck on head by falling bricks; Michael Daley, No. 7 engine company, cut, bruised and arm broken by a falling arc lamp; Robert Badger, No. 4 engine company, ankle broken; George Meekin, No. 7 engine company, struck by falling bricks, cut and bruised.

A number of other firemen are missing and are supposed to be buried under the walls at Liberty avenue and Cecil alley.

The losses by fire include: T. C. Jenkins, wholesale grocery, totally destroyed. Stock valued at $400,000; insurance $150,000. Building valued at $100,000; insurance about $50,000.

Joseph Horne & Company, retail dry goods, totally destroyed. Stock and building valued at $1,600,000, fully insured.

J. W. Scott, agricultural implements, loss about $25,000; partly insured.

Nine other business blocks and four residences were damaged to the amount of $52,500.

Seven freight cars loaded with meat belonging to Swift & Company of Chicago burned, loss $7,000.

The Duquesne Theater and Surprise Clothing Company's immense store were on fire several times, but were saved with small loss.

The fire broke out, no one knows how, about midnight in the wholesale grocery building of Jenkins & Company and burned with great fury until 4 o'clock this morning.

The insurance has not yet been figured but most surely exceeds $1,500,000.

Fireman Atkinson's mangled remains were taken from the ruins this morning.

George Thomas and the other missing firemen have turned up.

Liquor Brutalizes Him.

He was arrested at the instance of Mrs. Prescott of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. He is a brute when drunk, but under ordinary circumstances is quite a gentlemanly fellow and always suffers remorse for his actions when he sobers up.

DAMPER ON FEDERATION.

The railroad men met yesterday at West Oakland and Secretary Bulen read a reply he had received from W. V. Shafford chairman of the Grievance Committee of the O. R. C. system. The letter is as follows: On May 9, 1894, the O. R. C., B. R. T., B. L. F., O. R. T., and S. M. A. A. met through their representatives and signed the system federation (Cedar Rapids plan)., I was elected secretary of the board and C. E. Swain of the B. R. T. was elected chairman. Two months later came the strike. The S. M. A. A. and the B. L. F. walked out almost to a man, so that there was not enough of them left upon the system to carry out their laws and discipline the balance. * * * Three years have elapsed and I should think that the whole matter has lapsed under the statute of limitations. There have been many changes in the material that comprises the different orders and I do not believe that the membership generally would be willing to recognize the authority of a board of the '94 federation. This, of course, is only my personal opinion, but it seems to me that in order to ascertain the feeling a vote would be necessary.

In spite of the letter there is a feeling among the men that they will go ahead and organize a federation of the five orders named along the proposed lines. Some of the men accuse the writer of being opposed to the scheme of federation on the ground of his being as far up as he can get and hence cares nothing for his less fortunate brother workingmen. This is said to be the cause of several other instances of indifference. However, the matter will be pressed to a completion at an early date.

ALL ABOUT GREECE.

It has a population of 2,187,208.

It is called "Hellas" by its people.

It has an area of 24,977 square miles.

It is the only country in the world whose armies are provided with the Gras guns and paper covered cartridges.

It has few rivers and many hills. None of the former is navigable, and many of the latter are fortified.

Its present boundary limits were determined by an arrangement among Great Britain, France, Russia and Turkey, concluded at Constantinople on July 21, 1832.

Only about 70,000 of the inhabitants speak any language other than Greek, and only about 20,000 profess any religion other than the orthodox.

The chief characteristic of the average Greek are his inquisitiveness, fondness for excitement, love of discussion, desire for knowledge, an aptitude for learning, and aggressive patriotism.

The climate has two striking peculiarities; the heat in summer and the cold in winter are far more intense than those of any other country in the world lying in the same latitude. Gell once remarked that in traveling through the Morea in March he found "summer in Messenia, spring in Laconia, and winter in Arcadia, without having moved beyond a radius of fifty miles."—New York Sun.

NEW LAW FIRM.

F. V. Brooks and L. D. Hargis Enter Into a Law-Partnership.

One of the most recent partnerships in San Francisco and without doubt one that the brightest of futures is that of Franklin V. Brooks and Lionel D. Hargis.

These promising young attorneys are now practicing in the Parrott building, San Francisco, and are already enjoying quite an active practice.

The standing of the firm is amply vouched for by Hon. W. S. Barnes, ex-Chief Justice Currey, Hon. William F. Herrin, Hon. Thomas B. Bishop and Hon. William Fullerton.

Messrs. Brooks and Hargis are well-known all around the bay and their many sterling qualities will certainly insure them success in their new undertaking.

SUGGESTIONS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

Mrs. Royer says: "A mixture of dripping and lard makes a better frying material for fish than lard alone. A pure vegetable oil (like olive oil) is freer from disease germs than either. Never use butter for frying fish it boils at a low temperature, consequently burns quickly; the butyric acid softens the fibre of the fish, destroys the flavor and causes it to soften as soon as taken from the pan."

An exchange suggests the following mode of cleaning or freshening the wall paper: "Make several bags of canton flannel—fleece side out, of the proper size to cover the brush of your broom. Sweep down the walls with these, changing as they are soiled. After removing all of the soil possible in this way, take a fresh bag, dust it with flour and wipe the walls with it, shaking out and renewing the flour when necessary." If you have nice paper on your rooms you will find it will pay you to secure the services of a professional cleaner who will put it through a process which renews and freshens it better far than anything you can do for it yourself.

Notwithstanding the almost universal substitution of baking powder for soda and cream tartar the housekeeper finds she cannot get on without both in stock. She needs to use them seperately many times. Angel cake requires the addition of cream tartar to toughen the whites of eggs which are the foundation, and hold up the spongy mass till it is stiffened by heat. Soda is needed to correct the acidity of molasses in gingerbread and all brown breads and puddings that contain it. Butter contains so much buttermilk that a little soda is essential in all rich cakes and cookies that are to be kept for any length of time. Soda and sour milk are cheaper than baking powder and an even teaspoonful of soda with each pint of such milk is safe and satisfactory. If milk is scalded with a speck of soda it is not apt to curdle in making soups.

Spring Humors

Those unsightly eruptions, painful boils, annoying pimples and other affections, which appear so generally at this season, make the use of that grand Spring Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, a necessity.

The accumulated impurities in the blood cause very different symptoms with some people. The kidneys, liver and bowels are overmatched in their efforts to relieve the clogged system. Dizzy headaches, bilious attacks, failure of appetite, coated tongue, lame back, indigestion and that tired feeling are some results.

From the same cause may also come scrofula, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism.

All these troubles and more may properly be called "Spring Humors," and just as there is one cause, a cure is found in just one remedy, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the impure blood, enriches blood which is weak and thin, vitalizes blood which lacks vitality. Thus it reaches every part of the human system.

DOMESTIC RECIPES.

HONEY JUMBLES.

One tablespoonful of butter; half a cup each of sugar and thick strained honey; one tablespoonful of cream; one egg, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and sufficient flour to make a rather stiff dough. Do not roll, but form into rings with the fingers and bake a light brown. Eat while fresh.

LITTLE HONEY CAKES.

Cream together a quarter of a pound each of butter and sugar; add three-quarters of a pound of strained honey, a teaspoonful of ginger, a quarter of a nutmeg, half a teaspoonful of soda and one and three-quarters pounds of flour. Roll thin, cut with a cookie cutter and bake quickly. These will keep a long time.

HONEY PUDDING.

Beat one cup of strained honey with the yolks of three small eggs. Add the juice of half a lemon, the beaten whites of the eggs, two cups of flour and one small teaspoonful of soda dissolved in boiling water. Spread half an inch thick in two shallow pans and bake. Beat up an egg with two tablespoonfuls of flour, one of sugar and three of honey, and add it to two cups of hot milk. Boil till it thickens, and when cool put between the layers. Frost with an icing made as follows: Boil together two-thirds of a cup of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of water, and a teaspoonful of lemon juice until it will harden when dropped into cold water. Take from the fire and add two dessert spoonfuls of honey; set in a dish of cold water and stir constantly till it is like thick cream, then pour quickly on top of the cake. These recipes for cooking with honey are taken from the Country Gentleman.

PRESBYTERIANS ARE PLEASED.

THE GROWTH OF THE RACE.

Prejudices Long-Rooted Are Now Fast Dying Out.

Some years after the close of the war, during the period of reconstruction in the South, a Presbyterian clergyman, Dr. Logan, conceived the idea that one of the best plans of benefitting the newly made citizens of the Southland, by the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment, would be to Christianize them, and to that end a college for the education of young men of the race, for the ministry, would be a means, and so he was instrumental in the founding of a college at Salisbury, North Carolina, which was named in honor of the great Scotch missionary, who gave many years and ended his life in darkest Africa, David Livingstone.

At the First Presbyterian Church of this city, yesterday the distinguished president of that college, Rev Philip A Hubert D D, delivered two interesting addresses. Dr Hubert is a full-blooded negro, and is an eloquent and pleasing speaker

He is the successor of the late Rev J C Price, D D, who paid this coast a visit ten years ago and was successful in raising a considerable sum of money for the college, and who died a few years ago At the morning service the speaker chose the words in Genesis I 3 And God Said Let There be Light,' for his text, giving for the subject of his discourse, 'The Light Turned On." He desired to turn the light onto the condition of the colored people of our Southland He spoke of what had been done already to enlighten these people and of the immense amount yet to be done He pictured the condition of this people at the close of the war and told of what had been accomplished in the thirty-five years, and yet there were 7,500 000 illiterate and uneducated, who could not read or write He pleaded earnestly that the people of the Northland do more for them,—that is more for their education and uplifting He referred to lynchings that are often read about in the papers. He said that these lynchings were not perpetrated by the true people of the South, but by the tramps and worst element of that land. He would not say that his people who met with these lynchings were always innocent but he believed they should have the right of trial by jury.

He spoke of the material advancement made by these people, who thirty-seven years ago had nothing only their freedom They had neither houses nor lands, but now they paid taxes on $300 000,000 worth of real estate in the South, and yet, out of the about ten millions, a total of 7,500 000 could not read the Bible that told about God and the Savior He urged that everything ought to be done possible to educate these people so as to make them better citizens They are in this country and are part of it They have a right to be here, it is their country and have no other. Educate them, teach them the trades, etc, and it will make them better citizens He said they had shown themselves capable of receiving education.

His especial visit to the Pacific Coast at this time was the same as that of his predecessor, Rev Dr Price, ten years ago, to raise funds for his college At that time, Dr. Price raised $25,000 He did not want that much, though it could be put to good use, but owing to the explosion two years ago of several hundred tons of powder in one of the old war-time arsenals the buildings of the college, though a mile away became so badly wrecked that it required $8 000 to repair them this had been borrowed, and the mortgage and interest would soon become due, and this amount he was endeavoring to raise He spoke of having visited Rev Samuel Sprecker D. D., formerly pastor of the First Church here, and of Dr Sprecker's congregation in Cleveland, Ohio, giving $500 at the service at which he spoke, and afterwards sending him $500 more

The college was doing a grand work It had fourteen professors and 250 young men and women students, all colored, preparing for Christian work, along Presbyterian lines among their own people in the South. At times the speaker grew very eloquent in pleading the cause of his people who he said were once of the Adamic stock and of the same blood as the Anglo-Saxon and all the other races of the earth

AN EVLNING ADDRESS.

The morning address was so well liked by many of the members and officers of the church, that Dr Hubert was urged to tell more about his people in the South in the evening, and he consented to do so In starting out in his evening lecture he said he was a very liberal man He gave the experience of a colored clergyman in the South He said there was no heaven in the Southland for a colored man This colored clergyman had gone to a place to deliver a temperance lecture A wealthy gentleman, a former slave owner, invited him to go with him as his guest He did not accept such kindness He didn't know whether or not to accept the invitation (Here he referred to the pleasure he had personally in accepting the hospitality of Dr. Coyle and family

The lecturer finally went with the Southerner, and when he was shown into his room for the night, he was hardly sure it was he However he retired There was a large mirror that he had not observed at the end of the room opposite the foot of the bed and when he awoke in the morning, and raised his head he saw himself among so much white, that he afterward said it reminded him of a fly in a pint of milk He felt that way very much himself in such a large congregation of white people, as he saw before him, but he was there adding color to the occasion"

In a serious vein, he told how the burdens of his race hung heavily upon his shoulders He came here not to interest our people especially in the spiritual and religious condition of his people in the South, but also in their condition as a race. When you meet a man of his color on the street, you must think of his humiliation His color is against him everywhere, but in the Southland it is in many places more marked

He related a personal experience of his own recently He was on his way from Salisbury, North Carolina, to Cincinnati, Ohio, and had purchased a first-class ticket On the train he met a gentleman acquaintance, a white man, and they were having a good time together, when, all at once the conductor came to him and said, "You must get out of this coach '

In surprise he answered him, "What for?"

"Colored men are not allowed to ride in this coach You will have to go back to the Jim Crow' car."

He remonstrated with him, and wanted to know if he would give him a rebate on his ticket, but was told that he could not do that That the train was now passing through the State of Tennessee, and it was against the law for a colored person to ride in a first-class coach with white passengers The Doctor sat down, determined to remain until he was ejected The superintendent of the road was in the car and heard the conversation He came forward and said "Sir, I see that you are a gentleman The conductor has put the case to you in a rather abrupt and forcible manner, but it is a fact, that if we allow you to ride in this car, the company is liable, under the laws of this State—(Tennessee), to a penalty of $500, and there is no escape from it"

He said he was under the circumstances, compelled to go into the "Jim Crow" car, a most miserable place, scarcely fit for hogs to be shipped in, and he who had never smoked in his life had to endure clouds of tobacco smoke, as well as the other discomforts of the miserable box.

He said that North Carolina was a Christian State, and they did not have such laws there, and he was glad to say that there were other States in this great country of ours where such laws do not exist This prejudice against the colored race was principally political When the colored men were made citizens they were ignorant, and it was giving them great power, which they were hardly capable of using, to give them the ballot.

There were 4,000,000 of them then. They are advancing while the white race are asleep There are 10,000,000 now. The colored men in the South, are industrious when they have the opportunity The numerical growth of the colored and white races in this country were compared, and the comparison was against the Anglo-Saxon race

He was told by an insurance man in New York that the colored race was diminishing and dying out He said to the man, "Yes, since when. Why," said he to him, 'I know a colored family that have twenty-four children, and Pa and Ma and all the children are in excellent health"

It was just the contrary. The colored people are not diminishing, but are increasing at an alarming rate He would like to know how many Anglo-Saxon Pas and Mas there was in this country with twenty-four children. It behooved the Anglo-Saxon race in this country to do all they could to educate and make this fast growing, but illiterate portion of the people of the land fit for good citizenship

There are, he said, 3000 colored preachers in the South and who cannot read the Bible, and yet try to preach the gospel They have to go and hear a white minister preach and retain what they hear, to preach over again to their congregations He related an amusing incident of one of the preachers who went to hear a sermon, but could not grasp any of it, because it happened to be too deep and logical for him but he heard a hymn that pleased him and he thought he could make it do in place of a sermon "Am I a Soldier of the Cross, and a Follower of the Lamb," etc When he came before his people, he told them that he did not have a sermon to give them but that he had learned a beautiful new hymn that he thought would do as well, and they could have a good time When he attempted to sing it to them he had forgotten the words He told them that he had, but he scratched his head and said it was something like this, "Am I a shoulder of a hoss, or a quarter of a lamb," and they sang it and had a good time.

It was in the interest of education of a ministry to preach to the people, of the general education of the race in our south land that he was here He related a number of amusing incidents to show the natural ability and wit of the colored race, and the susceptibility of education He told how their little homes are builded. If six colored men wanted homes, the six would turn in and build one home first, and then one by one the other five. They were small and insignificant, but they had to pay taxes on them. They gave liberally of their scanty means to support the gospel—in round numbers $50,000 annually The colored people are trustworthy and loyal. He said they had proved this on numberless occasions during the civil war When the masters were away fighting for the Confederacy the colored slaves had often saved their mistress and family from death, and had never at any time betrayed them.

It was humiliating for him, as a representative of his race, to have to come to California and plead as he was now doing, but it was a duty he could not shirk In again referring to the capability of the race, he said no race on the face of the globe has made the progress that the colored people of the South had under the conditions that prevailed among them, but

In making a plea for a liberal donation to the fund for his college, he said it was the only monument in this country to the memory of the Scotch missionary—that grand man who had done so much for humanity, and who had laid down his life in darkest Africa to redeem it—David Livingstone—he said where are the old-time abolitionists, where are the underground railroaders, where are the Christian men and women? He was not begging, he was pleading for his people They did not believe in being idle. They did not want to be kept in idleness, but they wanted to be helped to help themselves. He appealed in the name of the stars and stripes, in the name of humanity, in the name of God and in the name of the Saviour of mankind He sang in conclusion, "Rock of Ages' with a two-line chorus added by an illiterate, but devoted colored man

At the close of both addresses, morning and evening, Dr. Coyle had special collections taken up for the cause represented by Dr. Hubert, and a handsome sum was realized.

MAKES NO RETRACTION.

Mrs. E S. Pardee Has Not Gone Back on Word and Oath.

Mrs. Emily S Pardee denies all statements that she has retracted one word or any of the testimony she gave in her deposition in the late will contest

"These statements do me a great injustice," said Mrs Pardee, 'and I cannot rest under it. I have retracted nothing and have nothing to retract I never charged anything that was not true and will not be placed in the false position of going back on my word and oath All that we filed was a simple dismissal of the contest We withdrew nothing, and will not withdraw anything If there is any revocation of my charges in the motion to dismiss I fail to find it Here is my motion to dismiss the contest, 'The contestant Emily S Pardee, hereby dismisses her contest herein on file to the last will and testament of E H Pardee deceased, and prays that the order of the court be entered dismissing the same'

"That was all we filed, and it is false to call it a retraction. I filed a contest, was offered a compromise proposition that was advantageous, I accepted, and we merely did that which the law required."

TELLER ON THE TREATY.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, May 3.—Senator Henry M Teller, who is paired on the arbitration treaty expressed himself very freely against that measure in an interview with a reporter for the Associated Press.

While declaring himself in favor of the peaceful settlement of international disputes he denied that a special treaty was necessary to provide for it He declared that the proposed arbitration treaty was very faulty

He questioned whether the Senate could thus legally surrender one of its constitutional prerogatives and said that few Senators believed that it was wise to do so if it were possible

In conclusion he said "Great Britain will not go to war with us, unless it appears to her to be to her interests to do so, and no one acquainted with the history of that country for the last 100 years can believe that a treaty would stand in the way of war if her interests could be secured by war. Just now, if we may believe Gladstone, England has surrendered to the two youthful despots, the Emperor of Germany and the Czar of Russia and that her moral and political influence is being actively used to keep down the movement for liberty in Crete, and we may add, for the purpose of maintaining that blot on the civilization of the age, the Turkish Government, because some of the citizens of that country hold Turkish bonds I do not care to lend the moral support of the United States to aid her in her efforts to suppress a people struggling for free government, whether they be Cretans or Greeks, or to enable her to collect her Turkish bonds"

A 16-Year-Old Girl has Nervous Prostration

From the Era, Bradford, Pa.

Several months ago, Miss Cora Watrous, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. I. C. Watrous, a locomotive fireman, of 61 Clarion Street, Bradford, Penna., was seized with a nervous disorder which threatened to end her life. The first symptom of the ailment was a loss of appetite. For some little time Miss Watrous had no desire to eat and complained of a feeling of extreme lassitude. This was followed by severe pains in the head. For three weeks the young lady was nearly crazed with a terrible headache and nothing could be procured to give her relief.

Finally, after trying numerous remedies, a physician was called and began treating the patient. He said the trouble was caused by impoverished blood, but after several weeks of his treatment the young lady's condition had not improved and the parents decided to procure the services of another physician. In the meantime Miss Watrous' nervousness had increased, the pains in her head had grown more severe and the sufferer's parents had almost given up hope of her recovery.

It was at this time that Mr. Watrous heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He found that the pills were highly recommended for nervous disorders and concluded to give them a trial. A box of the pills was purchased and before they had all been taken there was a marked improvement in the girl's condition. After a half dozen boxes had been used, the young lady's appetite had returned, the pain in her head had ceased and she was stronger than at any time previous to her illness.

Miss Watrous concluded that her cure was complete and left home for a visit to relatives in the grape country near Dunkirk, N. Y. She stopped taking the medicine and by over-exertion brought the ailment back again. As soon as the returning symptoms were felt, Miss Watrous secured another box of pills and the illness was soon driven away. She is now in better physical condition than she has been for years and declares that she owes her life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. and Mrs. Watrous were interviewed by a reporter at their home on Clarion Street. Both are loud in their praise of Pink Pills. "My daughter's life was saved by the medicine," said Mrs. Watrous. "Her condition was almost hopeless when she commenced taking them, but now she is as strong and healthy as any one could be. I cannot recommend the medicine too highly."

An analysis of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills shows that they contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female, and all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50—(they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

AN "OLD MEN'S RUN."

Reliance Bikers Pass a Very Pleasant Day Sight Seeing.

ALL HAD A GOOD TIME.

The Day So Successful That Another Event Is Planned.

The "old men" had it all their way yesterday—that is, so far as the run of the Reliance cyclers was concerned. An "old men's run" it was called, but fully half of the riders have not voted for more than five years, while the oldest of the merry bikers were remarkably youthful in spirit at least, though some of them have gray hair.

The event was one of the most enjoyable of the kind ever held under the auspices of the club. Fully eighty wheelmen turned out, and the fun they had could not be measured by comparison with any previous outing.

The start was scheduled at 9 o'clock, but it was almost a half hour later before the tug left the foot of Broadway. In twos and threes the riders straggled down the wharf, where the "Walter Hackett" was steamed up, ready to carry the gay party to San Quentin. Bicycles of all makes and models were stored up above the pilot house and around the front of the boat, while their owners were satisfied with seats on top of the engine room or in the rear of the tug.

When the last of the "old men" were on board, the flag in the stern was hoisted and then with three blasts from the whistle and a chorus of—

"Who are, who are
Who are we?
We are, we are
R. A. C.
Hip, hip, rah,
Reliance, Oakland,
Ha, ha, ha!"—

The tug cast off from the dock and the run had commenced.

Out of the estuary, across the bay and past the islands the little vessel ploughed its way, the boys in the meantime performing all kinds of antics, while the steam whistle livened up matters by intermittent tooting. Alcatraz and Belvedere were left behind, and then, steaming around the cove, a landing was made at the dilapidated concern San Quentin calls a wharf.

The wheels were hastily hustled ashore and bunched up on the landing. The riders lined up in a group behind them, and the camera annex got in its deadly work. After the pictures had been taken, the run started. "Pop" Jerome chose Chester Myrick, captain of the wheelmen and ex-Captain Griffiths to set the pace They started off leisurely past the State's Prison and then took to the country, running up hill and down dale, over marshy wastes, through picturesque canyons, and finally reaching Mill Valley.

It was 3 o'clock before dinner was served at the hotel. The wheelmen owned the place for the time being, and the pretty waitress maids had their hands full serving the hungry crowd.

The dinner was a peculiar one and somewhat lacking in symmetry. The attendants were rattled, and the soup tureen, as well as the ice cream freezer, were decidedly shy. One table was fortunate in getting soup, another had none, but evened up by receiving oyster patties. What was not in evidence had to be rustled for, and the grand finale found many bloomers in the kitchen, helping themselves, to the distraction of the Chinese cook and the fat, bedustered landlady However, the meal ended good naturedly, even if the chicken was as tough as a south of Tehama street sport.

UP TAMALPAIS

After the feed the boys took a special train at the foot of the mountain and enjoyed the scenic ride up Tamalpais' bald side. As the train sped along over the high trestles and around the sharp curves of the serpentine road, the bikers made merry with songs and cheers.

Gradually the panorama appeared to the view. The bay, ocean and all the surrounding cities were spread out thousands of feet below, in striking contrast to the gray spire of the mountain When the little train reached the top, an elevation of 2 600 feet, the Reliance cheer rang out lustily and the club's emblem was placed on the highest rock.

A hotel boasts of existence on top of the mountain, and here the boys repaired for refreshments. The return trip was as merry a one as the ascent, and when the terminus had been reached the wheels were again mounted.

Sausalito was the objective point this time. The wheelmen made their own pace, the line being strung out nearly the whole distance On the way, a series of mishaps befell some of the riders Two or three "spills," broken wheels and bruised anatomy resulted, but nothing of a serious nature occurred In fact, the little accidents relieved the monotony of the journey.

The "Captain Hackett" was in waiting at the pier, and again embarking the return to Oakland started. The afternoon breeze was a little chilly for the 160 stockinged legs, but the continued stream of jests and songs kept the boys in such good humor that little inconveniences were forgotten.

Broadway wharf was reached at 8 o'clock, and then, minus lanterns, the riders proceeded in a body to the club rooms, passing several astounded policeman on the way.

In all, the trip was the ideal one of the season in every respect, and there was not one in the party but enjoyed it thoroughly. To "Pop" Jerome great credit is due for so successfully arranging the run. He acted as master of ceremony, and his good natured remarks were the life of the party.

The club feels grateful to Captain Hackett, who furnished the tug free of charge.

The remainder of the "committee of fossils" who assisted materially in arranging the outing were G. H. Strong, C H. Lovell, S. G. Dunbar, J. H. Ames, F E Whitney, F. F. Caire, Seth Mann, J O Cadman, W. L. Arnold, H. W. Thomas and P. H. Bernays.

Among the riders who attended were: Chester Myrick, Fred Knight, Fred Whitney, E. Lenhardt, Henry Cushing, Phil Carleton, George Berry, Harry Quinn, C. D. Bates Jr., Sherman McDowell, W. Marshal, R. A. Marshal, Tom Hazelton, Percy Hamilton, H. D. Heydenfeldt, Dave Williamson, Charles Griffith, Ed Griffith, Paul Nippert, E Boggert, Howard Byxbee, George Williamson, R. T. McKissick, Judge Fred Clift, Charles Lovell, Bert Lund, W. L. Arnold, Morrie Jellett, James Jellett W. H Sivers, Charles Smith, J H. Creeley, 'Old Man" Farley, W. D Tillinghast, Fred Caire, W. R Berry, B. Y. Morris, Harry Mason, Charles Cole, Robert Bain, Ollie Marston, Bert Neylan, W. A Maclise, "Pop" Bernays, Arthur Bayley, H S Pugh, Arthur Baxter, Russ Lukins, S Ford, Fleet Cornwall Wallie Moore, W. Milwain, George Dawnin, H Blinn and W Robson.

A FEW INCIDENTS.

Chet Myrick mixed with the dust coming home, and, as if this was not enough, Harry Mason ran over his head, mingling unborn thoughts with Marin county's soil Myrick also left a few yards of his epidermis behind.

Three of the boys struck up what they presumed was a flirtation with a Mill Valley damsel While they were enjoying themselves the country constable walked up and threatened to arrest them if they continued to annoy his wife

Fred Whitney, attired in cheese-cloth bloomers, trimmed with chantilly lace hugged a life preserver while on board the tug He was the last to board it coming home.

J Sherman McDowell appeared in a startling creation of nun's veiling He rode a 150-geared has-been, hired wheel, as his own was sick Two miles out, the wheel tired, but the irrepressible McDowell straddled a wheelbarrow and came in strong.

Sievers could not complain of "cold feet" He was perched on the top of the engine room, with his legs dangling over, when Fred Whitney set fire to a newspaper which had been attached to the overlapping pedal extremities Sievers saved his own life by jumping overboard

E Lenhardt furnished the gum. When he reached the summit of the mountain he was greeted with a feminine chorus of "O doesn't he look cute?" He patted the young ladies on the back and paid their fare home. They were a few of his candy girls

Myrick, Neylan, Byxbee Haydenfeldt, Williamson, Marston and Bain held down the top of the pilot house on the trip over They took charge of the steam whistle among other things.

Bates and Deacon on a tandem shook the crowd early to spark some San Rafael girls. There were others.

Morrie Jellet's big feet were responsible for a broken pedal, but he "shook the other leg"

Griffiths succumbed to the romantic atmosphere on top of the mountian. There were three babies in the car coming back, and Griffiths kissed them all.

At dinner, one table full of hungry wheelmen thought the waitress might be bribed into giving them something to eat. Eighty cents was raised and given to the maid. She took it, laughed and the boys went hungry

Percy Mott and Bert Burrill were left at the post. They watched the tug depart in the morning from the pier—that was all

Henry Cushing was laughed at for bringing an overcoat He turned the tables when the cold wind chilled the bloomers on the homeward trip

The run was so successful and inexpensive that another one is suggested for the near future.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Preparations Are Being Actively Pushed by the Committee.

At the meeting of the Memorial Day Committee, Saturday, most of the subcommittees simply reported progress. The only new business transacted by the committee was the selection of Rev. William Rader to act as orator of the evening exercises, and of Mrs. Blake-Alverson to have full charge of the evening's musical programme

It has not been decided as yet who will present the pieces of ordnance, donated by the Government to the soldiers plot in the cemetery The donation was brought about through the efforts of A. D. Smith, superintendent of the cemetery, and will be formally accepted on the Grand Army plot by Mayor Thomas on Memorial Day.

In all cases of physical or mental exhaustion, the use of a little Jesse Moore Whiskey will be found invaluable as a stimulant.

Single Tax.

The regular meeting of the Oakland Single Tax Club will be held at upper Hamilton Hall tomorrow evening. The principal address will be made by L M. Manzer, president of the State organization of Single Taxers, who will speak on "Individualism Versus Socialism." The club also expects to have some music during the evening.

At the fifteenth annual convention of Gamma Eta Kappa fraternity of the Pacific coast, which was held in San Jose, Ray Burrell and Ray McCabe of this city were elected grand officers.

"BEWARE OF 'WIDDERS."

His Quondam Fiances Is Suing Him for Breach-of-Promise.

Mrs. Josephine Wall who resides at 1059 Clay street, is complainant in a breach of promise suit against George W. Wise, a wealthy mine-owner of this State and Texas. The price Mrs. Wall sets on her wounded affections amounts to $10,000.

According to the complaint, the defendant proposed marriage to Mrs. Wall December 28th, in Pleasanton. They had met first a few weeks after Mrs Wall's arrival in this city from New Orleans, and again in November, 1896. On Christmas day they met in Pleasanton, where Wise had become deeply enamored of her charms. His love reached a climax in three days, when he proposed, and then as speedily declined, so that after New Year's Mrs Wall did feel her affection for the defendant returned by him with adequate warmth. Becoming convinced that Wise did not intend to fulfil his promise, she at once went to San Francisco and consulted her attorney, F. M. Parcells who has entered the action on her behalf.

Mrs Wall is a widow, 40 years of age, while Wise is 57. She is a native of New Orleans, La., and came to this State a year ago, living alternately in this city and Pleasanton.

Wise does not put much store on his former sweetheart's wounded heart. He claims that his money had much to do with the fervency of her love. Mrs. Wall has offered to withdraw her suit if Wise would marry her within twenty-four hours. This he declines to do, and is willing to defend himself in a suit. He does not believe, however, that Mrs. Wall will push her case.

The numberless inferior imitations prove conclusively that "Cracker-Jack" is all right. Insist upon getting the genuine article with the big R's on the package.

Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Popular Fred Bouquet has succeeded his equally popular brother Joe as proprietor of the ever popular Galindo Hotel bar, where the best of wines, liquors and cigars are always to be had.

Cutting up pranks with baby is great fun for a young mother, but before she can cut pranks with the baby she must have a healthy baby. A puny, sickly, peevish baby has no use for pranks. It lies in every young mother's power to insure the health of the expected newcomer. If she will see that the organs which make motherhood possible are healthy and vigorous, and will keep them so during the period preceding maternity, she may be sure that the baby will be healthy and happy.

A marvelous medicine for young mothers is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Taken during the period preceding motherhood it makes strong, healthy and vigorous the organs upon which rest the burdens of maternity. It allays inflammation, soothes pain, and restores steadiness to the nerves. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period. It insures the health of baby and makes its coming easy and almost painless. It is the discovery of an eminent and successful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription before my confinement, and I was only in labor a short time," writes Mrs. Minnie A. Peterson, Box 5, Easton, Fresno Co., Cal. "The physician said I got along unusually well. I think the medicine saved a great deal of suffering and I get all my friends who need it to try it."

One of the best-known of American medical men said: "If you want to reform a man, begin with his grandfather." That would be wise if it could be done. Since it cannot be done, try something else. Reform the future grandfathers and grandmothers. Do this through education. The greatest thing for a man or woman to know is himself or herself To know one-half the capabilities and disabilities of the human body is a liberal education. A good start for this education is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Any one can have this finely illustrated 1000-page book for the small price of twenty-one one-cent stamps This is simply to pay for mailing. If you would like the book in fine cloth binding instead of paper, send thirty-one stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL HELL.

How Rev. Dr. Kummer Views the Much Discussed Subject.

MR. M'WILLIAMS' EFFORT.

At St. Paul's Episcopal Church yesterday Rev. Dr Ritchie discussed the question, "Does the Episcopal Church Teach the Necessity of a Change of Heart?"

The effort set forth why the Episcopal Church is opposed to religious revivals, and the speaker went on to say that to tell a child that he must have an "effectual call" and "get religion" was nothing short of flat blasphemy

The preacher said that in accordance with his experience, the Episcopal Church was supposed by many of the Protestant denominations to know nothing of a "change of heart" Members of the Episcopal Church were supposed not to know what 'real Bible conversion" was They had no "religious experience to relate."

Well, it was true that the Episcopal Church did not employ the revival agency, and so was not accustomed to measure its personal religion by narrow revival processes, still, it might hope for a charitable consideration of what it did believe.

In common, then, with all other Christians, the Episcopal Church taught and believed that as we are born here on earth into the "natural," we are also given the opportunity of being born anew into the "spiritual" Furthermore, all Christians were also agreed in the thought that "that is not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual" In other words, all Christians believed, the Episcopal Church as much as any, that the 'natural" can never, unaided, and by itself develope into the "spiritual" That was the work of God. The Episcopal Church believes in this regeneration in the strongest way, and the speaker quoted at length from the prayer book to prove it. Why, then, he asked, should this church be so widely misunderstood in this matter? Why should it be said that members of the Episcopal Church knew nothing about conversion and religious experience." That was a question very easily answered, and the first reason was because, in the Episcopal Church baptism, and not the abilit to fix the date of one's conversion was the wa to enter the church It was Christ's way and the church's way—and that being so, the church does not require any one wishing to join the church that they should be able to fix upon the exact hour or day or week for their change of heart.

JOHN WESLEY'S TIME

Such a requirement was never heard of before the time of John Wesley Again, in the Episcopal Church, we have no "relation of experiences," another feature of the revival system. No statement of any kind was required of those coming to baptism or confirmation beyond that of 'God be merciful to me a sinner" and "Lord I believe, keep thou mine unbelief." It seemed to the preacher as the result of his experience and observation, that a great many people, men more especially, were kept for years in ignorance of the message of Christ to their own hearts, because they were not able to 'fix a date' for their conversion, and had no 'experience" to relate—coupled with that other strange notion. Another result of the revival system, that "religious experience" was a thing that seeks the man and is not sought the preacher had met scores of men who were patiently waiting for some "effectual call," some tremendous 'experience," which, without their volition was going to lift them out of the common herd of sinners and set them among "the elect," the "converted," the special favorites of heaven. They were waiting, in other words, to be able to relate the Pharisee's "experience" "God, I thank thee that I am not as other men are!"

MISSION OF CHRIST

"This was to strangely misinterpret the mission of Christ, who came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentence and to misunderstand the purpose of the church, which was not the home of saints but of sinners. Did the Episcopal Church, then, believe in conversion? Certainly. In instantaneous conversion? Rarely Why? Because, ordinarily, conversion is a slow and gradual process Because the truest conversion was something that lasted while life lasted We speak of a lightning flash as instantaneous, but nature was a long time preparing for it We speak of a volcanic eruption as sudden, but science tells us that it is the result of long processes. That was why the Episcopal Church did not employ the revival system. That was why she did use a system which the Christian Church had always used and the Jewish Church before her What was that system? Why, she commenced by telling the child that by virtue of his baptism he was a child of God and not of the devil, an heir of heaven and not of the world. She brought him up to believe that he was already a Christian and a member of his Father's house, and needed not to become a prodigal and be "converted" back again into a Christian. To tell a child so baptised and so brought up that it must have an "effectual call" and "get religion" and "be converted" and have an 'experience to relate" was nothing short of that blasphemy! It was just because this old system of the Christian Church had been superseded by the clap-trap of the modern revival that the land was full today of Godless men and women Yes, the Episcopal Church believed in a change of heart, but more properly, in many such changes, whenever they were necessary. She believed also in conversion—not only of the prodigal to righteousness but much more, in that daily conversion, which, if duly practised would lessen the necessity of the other Finally, the Episcopal Church believed in a "religious experience"—which was a thing, however, not to be boasted of, either in public or in private, but to be kept between the man and his God.

PSYCHOLOGICAL HELL.

"That there is such a hell," he said, "who knows anything about human nature subjectively, or objectively, can doubt? It is not confined to the future world. Many thousands already live in it, and, probably, will live in it forever. That there is still another hell of retributive punishment, where the wicked shall be punished, seems to be the plain teaching of the Word of God. But, if there were no other torture but that which we bring upon our own heads, and there is no other, than that which is the natural sequence of our own deeds and character,—it were enough, as we shall see, to make us fly to the world's Redeemer for pardon and for help and cleansing What the nature of the future abode of the lost soul shall be, no one can tell, but, everyone knows that happiness and misery are largely the result of environment, and one can readily conceive how the environment may add largely to the woes of the lost, and this is perhaps, what is meant by the 'lake of fire,' and brimstone' of the Holy Scriptures. If, in that land, our bodies, like our own selves shall be spiritual, what is known as the elements here, would have no effect upon them They could neither be burned nor drowned, neither could they be made to suffer from these elements This language is, doubtless, figurative

GOODNESS OF GOD.

'We believe, too, in the goodness and in the justice of God, and express it as our belief that if, in the future God shall ever find it possible to save a doomed soul, He will do it. But that there ever shall be such a possibility, all that we know of human nature, and of punishment would seem to refute. Reformation by penal punishment has always been a failure, and the probability is that lost souls will be more hopelessly lost after a thousand years of suffering than they were when they entered the future world. I have not time now to argue that proposition, though it is one of great interest and importance

"As there are degrees of felicity in heaven, so we believe that there will be degrees of punishment and suffering Some will be beaten with many stripes, and some with few. Suffering or happiness will depend upon opportunity, upon the time engaged in wickedness, or the service of God, upon the purity or impurity of the soul as it passes out of its period of probation

"These preliminary thoughts we pass, and take up our subject, 'A Psychological Hell,'—that is, a hell which is the result of our soul condition; the character of our mind and spirit after the years of probation have passed. Leave out of consideration now the 'wrath of the Lamb,' the penalty of the violated law, the gloomy environments which are possible, such as Dante dreams of in his 'Inferno,' and let our thought take in only those elements of suffering which we see so many sad examples of around us the tempers and disposition which often make a hell in a home, or in a society, and in many a human breast, the tempers that fill our penal institutions, and that cause thousands every year to take their own lives because they hope to escape a torture which they cannot endure. Who does not know that there are even in this life, 'tears of blood and groans that are big with horror'

HOW WILL IT BE IN ETERNITY.

"May it not be that in eternity all this shall simply be intensified a thousand fold? Will there, can there be anything more awful than that? Yet there is no afflicting rod, no beating with many stripes, no tortures inflicted by the great Lawgiver and Judge of all men. It is simply turning spirits over to their own beds which they have spent a lifetime in making, a bed of lusts, of corruption, of malignity, of malice, as the skin may be, it is simply reaping as they have sown; now it is the wind, when it is the whirlwind; now it is the flesh, then as a natural consequence, it is black and festering corruption, now, the seed time, then a harvest of woe, the natural crop of the sowing here

THE MEMORY.

"The memory is one of the most marvelous, and one of the most dreadful powers of the immortal spirit. Psychologists tell us that nothing can ever be entirely forgotten It may pass out of the mind for the time being, but it is likely to reappear with all its original vividness if the memory can run back over a life of holy thought, of noble endeavor, then the memory becomes a source of delight. It is heaven, but if on its walls are hung the sad failures, the vile thoughts and unholy deeds of a sin-cursed life—and if these must forever be displayed before us in all their luridness it will be like the hissing of scorpions in our faces. It will be like the head of Medusa; like having before us a grinning, horrid skeleton whose vile breath shall take away every beautiful dream and vision with which we might comfort ourselves

MAGNIFIED BY ETERNITY.

'Memory is like the sensitized film in photography. The light does its work upon the film, though no eye can discover any change. In eternity, the film is fully developed and unrolled. This sometimes happens even in this life, as when a person drowns, and the events of his whole life pass in panoramic detail and vividness before his review in a second of time Great and numerous scenes may be distinctly photographed on a very small space, as is done in microscopical photography. Upon a speck of glass, no larger than the head of a pin, I have seen the pictures of the Mechanics' and Liberal Arts Buildings of our World's Fair. So all the events of this life are photographed upon the memory to be unrolled and magnified into their true proportions by eternity.

"The mystery of memory is no greater than the mystery of a grain of musk and its perfume A single grain of musk, 1-30 of a scruple in weight, will fill a large room with its odor, yet, after weeks and months of giving forth its perfume, will manifest no perceptible diminuation of its weight So, memory, like the grain of musk, holds in its embrace every deed, every thought, every picture, every emotion, every impression, every breath, to be given forth again whenever the environment shall evoke them and thus making our remniscent atmosphere in the world to come This wonderful thought is either terrifying or pleasing as our characters are either impure or holy and able to bear our own scrutiny and the searching eye of God."

ENIGMAS OF LIFE.

'But there is yet another retributive pang in waiting for the sinful soul, which belongs to the very nature of that future world, namely, the severance from all those we love, who on earth were the last fragments of what is good in Him that he silences, or lays aside, or tramples out. They belong, not to the flesh, but to the spirit, and a spiritual existence, even if a suffering one, will but give them fresh energy and tenacity, by terminating all that has been antagonistic to them here below. Who shall describe the yearning love of a disencumbered soul? Who can adequately conceive the passionate tenderness with which it will cling round the objects of its affection in a world where every other sentiment or thought is one of pain? Yet what can be more certain than that the revelation of the great day will effect a severance of souls,—an instantaneous gulf of demarcation between the pure and the impure, the just and unjust, the merciful and the cruel, the indifferent and the zealous,—immeasurably more deep, essential and impassable than any which time or distance or rank or antipathy could effect on earth?

FUTURE DESTINY

"Here we never see into each other's souls. Characters the most opposite and incompatible dwell together upon earth, and may love each other much, unsuspicious of the utter want of fundamental harmony between them The aspiring and the worldly may have so much in common and may both instinctively conceal so much, that their inherent and elemental differences may go undiscovered to the grave The soul that will be saved and the soul that will be lost may cling round each other here with wild affection, all unconscious of the infinite divergence of their future destiny. The mother will love her son with all the devotion of her nature, in spite or in ignorance of his unworthiness; that son may reciprocate his mother's love, and in this only be not unworthy. Love covers a multitude of sins, but it does not eliminate them. The pure and holy wife and the frail and sinful husband can live together harmoniously, and can love fondly here below because the vast moral gulf between them is mercifully veiled from either eye But, when the great curtain of ignorance and deception shall be withdrawn 'when the secrets of all hearts shall be made known,' when the piercing light of the spiritual world shall at once and forever disperse those clouds which have so long hidden what we really are from those who have loved us and almost from ourselves, when the trusting confidence shall discover what a serpent has been nourished in its bosom; when the yearning mother shall perceive on what a guilty wretch all her boundless love and priceless tenderness has been lavished, when the wife shall, at length, see the husband whom she cherished through long years of self-denying and believing love revealed in his true colors, a wholly alien creature,—what a sudden, convulsive, inevitable, because natural separation between the clean and the unclean will then take place! The gulf which has always existed, is recognized and felt at last, corruption can no longer consort with incorruption; the lion cannot lie down with the lamb, nor can the leopard with the kid. One flash of light has done it all.

"But though the link is severed, the affection is not thereby destroyed. The friend, the husband, the lover, the son, thus cut adrift by a just and natural, though bitter retribution, love still; nay, they love all the more fervently, all the more yearningly, in that they now discern with unclouded vision all that bright beauty, all that which nature of the objects of their tenderness, of which their dim eyesight could on earth discern but a part. Then will begin a retribution indeed, the appropriate anguish, the desolate abandonment of which, who can print, and who will be able to bear? To see those we love as we never loved till then, turn from our grasp and our glance of clasping and supplicating fondness with that unconquerable loathing which virtue must feel towards guilt and with which purity must shrink from stain; to see those eyes, never turned on us before, save in gentleness and trust, now giving us one last glance of divine sadness and ineffable farewell; to watch those forms, whose companionship cheered and illuminated all the dark places of our earthly pilgrimage, and once and again had almost redeemed us from the bondage and the mire of sin, receding, vanishing, melting in the bright distance, to join a circle where they will never need us; to tread a path to which ours bears no parallel and can make no approach; and then to turn inward and downward and realize our lot, and feel our desolation, and reflect that we have earned it. What has poetry, or theology pictured that can compete with a gehenna as this?"

In closing, Dr. Kummer spoke of conscience as another subjective element of suffering; also of hopelessness and despair, then and prayed fervently that none of his hearers, either in this life or the life to come, might ever suffer from any of these possible elements of hell, but that all might have the peace and eternal joys of Christ's salvation.

THE GREAT WAR.

An Eloquent Sermon by the Rev. Dr. Philip Graif.

Last evening, at the Twenty-first Street Free Baptist Church, the pastor, Rev. Philip Graif, preached on "The Great War," and among other timely and clear cut things said.

"After eighteen centuries of the peace loving gospel, war is still more or less rampant in the earth. In spite of all the softening influences of a Christian civilization, old England still clings to the lion, fierce eyed and majestic, as her national emblem, and California, like Russia, proudly emblazons her banner, not with lamb or deer, but with the bear, poised on his hind legs, or standing, grim and fearless, in the attitude of aggressiveness Just as old Rome loved to carry as its favorite symbol, the eagle with its iron beak and cruel talons, so today enlightened and Christian America perches that imperial bird on its flagstaffs and embroideres it on its standards.

"Even in the cold, scientific air of the intellect, to say nothing of the sensitive heart, war seems at best a terrible tragedy. We put down duelling, but shout ourselves hoarse over the battles of armies whose violence and bloodshed have perhaps no better ground of justification. We look righteously askance at a couple of pugilists slugging each other in a champion prize ring, but flame with enthusiasm (not over one bloody knock-out) but over thousands slain and nations draped in sack-cloth and ashes—a spectacle of rain and tears wrought perhaps from no higher motive than a lust for gold and a quenchless thirst for glory.

'It seems the race's progress has not kept pace with the development of the individual The representative of physical force still dazzles the eyes of men too much and rules the hour It is the Achilles' type of man and hero, not the sage or saint, the poet or reformer, who captivates the multitude most quickly. Even in free, educated peerless America, it is easier to raise a half a million dollars to monument the triumphs of Grant, the soldier, than to keep in fair repair the unpretentious tomb of Abraham Lincoln, the martyr.

"Long perhaps will it be before the angel of arbitration has turned the sword into a plow-share and the spear into a pruning hook So long as social progress prefers to ride on a war-horse, amid burst of will that once haunted the hills of Bethlehem with hopes of an ideal brotherhood, we hear the boom of cannon and the rattle of musketry over a classic land, in which Homer sang and Phidias carved, Demosthenes spoke and Plato uttered his immortal thought.

CLEANSING THE WORLD.

"After all, it is not so much by the thunder and smoke of the fields of carnage as by prayer and meditation, self sacrificing devotion and Christ-like deeds that the world is cleansed of its cruel and selfish passions and at last transformed. Rather, in the last analysis, will Froebel's kindergarten ideals than Napoleon's armies, Shakespeare's dramas or Wesley's sermons than Wellington's campaigns or Nelson's naval victories, Luther's theses than Bismarck's policy of blood and iron, be found to contain the germs of blessing that make for happiness, moral growth and the highest civilization.

"It seems man is born into struggles and the battle, either with the world or self, never ceases The form of battle may change, but the warfare is perpetual. As soon as an enemy of a lower type has been laid low, one of a subtler and higher kind, whether conceit of intellect, pride of power or luxurious ease of wealth, springs up to contest our spiritual progress

"Just as the iconoclasts of the middle ages ruined carved altars and frescoed ceiling, marble cathedral and exquisite statue, so anger and hate strong drink and political feuds riff-raff, riots and lock-outs, boycotts and clash of interests, stain and shatter all the beauties and sanctities of civic and domestic life Fleshet or forest fire, plague or eathquake is but a mild, inadequate picture of the harm man does in his destructive moods

"Just as at Pompeii and Herculaneum pieces of statuary were unearthed by antiquarian pickaxe and spade, some fluted Corinthian capital with its acanthus leaf gone, some bit of fine frieze work stained and cracked, some exquisitely carved Venus robbed of her shapely arms, or some Apollo denuded of his superb locks—all beautiful as objects of art, but all sadly marred—so, amid man's ideals of duty and beauty, amid all his progress and hopes and achievements of genius, there are strange traces of violence and wrong, selfishness and cruelty.

WHERE THE WAR WAGES

"The great war is not so much on the fire girded battlement amid bullet hail and sword thrust as the truceless combat between flesh and spirit. No high art is perfected or millionaire fortune won, no laurel leaf entwined about the brow or lofty character elaborated without throes of anguish, tireless vigilance, hardship and austere self discipline. The fact is, the spontaneities are never permanently good. It is safe to say that a satin cradle rarely ever breeds either a hero or saint, a martyr or sage The best way to enfeeble and emasculate life is to coddle it with silken arms and pamper it with dainties. Disagreeable things are often worth more to us than delightful gifts, curses better than compliments, birch rods than sugar plums

"In stress and storm, to learn the use of the indomitable will that never yields to superior force or bate one jot or syllable of truth or right is learn something great and invaluable. As long as error and injustice are in the world, truth and equity, in shining coat of mail and well tempered steel, will fight to the last drop of blood. The lover of liberty cannot submit to the tyrant's rule, nor will purity abide vice's foul, though gilded career Uncompromising opposition to evil is the only watchword and attitude of a robust self-hood. It is a weak, wishy-washy, namby-pamby sort of goodness that condones the wickedness of genius because it is brilliant or sin because it is artistic. Because complete holiness is an ideal of infinite sweep and significance, our struggle with sin and self will not terminate, but rather become more sharply accentuated, since the finer our sensibilities to truth and duty become the more exquisite is our torture and shame at our foibles and follies. Though the pursuit of perfection is full of heart-aches and a divine discontent, yet the victories achieved and the hot contest waged is a source of endless fascination and joy. Therefore let us be glad that life is tautly keyed to tension and battle."

"WITHOUT A CHURCH."

Dr. Glen McWilliams, the new pastor of the First Christian Church, preached his first sermon yesterday morning at Odd Fellows' Hall.

Dr. McWilliams is a young man and has a striking appearance in the pulpit His address is good and his delivery excellent. He is of medium height, smooth face and wears long wavy hair.

The following is a synopsis of the sermon he delivered, the subject being "The City Without a Church."

"Nothing can take the place of love in the church of Christ, nor in the man or woman who professes to be born of the holy spirit and who claims fellowship with the saints.

"We would become powerless to bless ourselves and our neighbors were it not for the love and benevolence demonstrated by those who are pure in heart, whose daily conduct and practical christianity bears the reflection of God's approbation

"The great design of God is to ratify and to fill the whole world with love, peace and good will Just a glance into the life of Christ will thoroughly convince you that it was spent loving, blessing and doing good unto all mankind While he was despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, men hid as it were their faces from him, all of his time was devoted to making people happy

"The law growing out of these truths, together with the divine command that "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself,' is the law established by God for the regulating of a christian's life and conduct

"If every man was filled with this divine quality the law and will of God would be fulfilled, for love is the fulfillment of the law.

"Love is the great harmonising force, and it establishes the law of peace on earth, producing the glorious brotherhood of man.

"What an indescribable joy comes with the thought of an incoming of the reign of love in the individual and social relations of man, and the establishment of harmony everywhere.

'In spite of the apparent opposition and rivalry among those who claim to be Christians, thank God there is blessed harmony in the belief that if the whole world was dominated by the spirit of love man everywhere regarding the welfare of man, crime, murder, war, strife, destitution and hunger would very soon cease and the whole civilized race of mankind world move along together accomplishing an immortal record full of the blessedness of Christ-like sympathy, love and peace all to the honor and glory of God, our maker and redeemer.

"The Christianity of Christ is full of the love of Christ and the golden rule of 'Do unto men as ye would that men do unto you' It teaches us to love all men and not to return evil to any man Any system or custom that is in opposition to the mandates of God and the teachings of Christ is a deception and will prove disastrous, ending in destruction and death to all who continue therein.

"We tell to the world that we believe in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man Do we demonstrate this principle without favoritism and partiality among those whom we meet day by day along the pathway of life?

"You meet hundreds, perhaps thousands, of men, women and children who are tramping over this land begging bread, while moving along in search of employment. Do we pause to listen to their cries for shelter, food and clothing?

"Poor homeless wretches! They are not all responsible for their suffering condition Scores of them can point back to a record crowded with pride, self respect and honest toil. Their ambition is above telling their tale of woe. All they ask is work, that they may independently secure a place of shelter, clothing and bread to quench the pangs and horrors of starvation Such unfortunate souls have a claim upon the sympathies and love of every man and woman who has taken the name of Him who sighed for the afflicted, wept for the dead, pitied and blessed the Publicans and Harlots."

THE MISTAKES OF MOSES.

Dr. Boyer of Chicago Preaches at the Central Church.

Dr. Thomas Boyer of Chicago began the third week of his evangelistic services at the Central Christian Church (Hamilton Hall) last evening, preaching to a packed house His sermon was entitled "The Mistakes of Moses" and was listened to with undivided attention by the large audience present, which included many of Oakland's representative citizens.

Dr. Boyer is one of the most brainy and at the same time most modest of men, and to hear him once is to desire to listen to him again. He will preach tonight upon 'The Fall and Restoration of Man," using a chart. The interest in these meetings is steadily increasing and a large ingathering will be the result, twenty-five already having joined the church; six persons came forward yesterday.
